Sociology of Gender Janet Saltzman Chafetz, 2006-11-22 During the past three decades feminist scholars have successfully demonstrated the ubiquity and omnirelevance of gender as a sociocultural construction in virtually all human collectivities past and present. Intrapsychic interactional and collective social processes are gendered as are micro, meso and macro social structures. Gender shapes and is shaped in all arenas of social life from the most mundane practices of everyday life to those of the most powerful corporate actors. Contemporary understandings of gender emanate from a large community of primarily feminist scholars that spans the gamut of learned disciplines and also includes non-academic activist thinkers. However, while incorporating some cross-disciplinary material, this volume focuses specifically on sociological theories and research concerning gender which are discussed across the full array of social processes, structures and institutions. As editor, I have explicitly tried to shape the contributions to this volume along several lines that reflect my long-standing views about sociology in general and gender sociology in particular. First, I asked authors to include cross-national and historical material as much as possible. This request reflects my belief that understanding and evaluating the here and now and working realistically for a better future can only be accomplished from a comparative perspective. Too often American sociology has been both temperate and ethnocentric. Second, I have asked authors to be sensitive to within-gender differences along class, racial, ethnic, sexual preference and age-cohort lines.

Rethinking Racial Capitalism Gargi Bhattacharyya, 2018-07-27 How has capitalism created or enhanced racism? In what ways do the violent histories of slavery and empire continue to influence the allocation of global resources? Rethinking Racial Capitalism: Questions of Reproduction and Survival proposes a return to analyses of racial capitalism, the capitalism that is inextricably linked with histories of racist expropriation and argues that it is only by tracking the interconnections between changing modes of capitalism and racism that we can hope to address the most urgent challenges of social injustice. It considers the continuing impact of global histories of racist expropriation on more recent articulations of capitalism with a particular focus on the practices of racial capitalism, the continuing impact of uneven development, territory and border marking the place of reproductive labour in sustaining racial capitalism, the marketing of diversity as a consumer pleasure and the creation of supposedly surplus populations.

Despite being one of the most diverse and gender-balanced of the built environment professions, complacency has been widespread in planning. This book shows why a diverse profession is important and drawing on a wide range of good practice shows how those involved in planning can develop their sensitivity to and expertise in diversity and equality.
