Double Vision Tzachi Zamir, 2012-06-24 Hamlet tells Horatio that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in his philosophy In Double Vision philosopher and literary critic Tzachi Zamir argues that there are more things in Hamlet than are dreamt of or at least conceded by most philosophers Making an original and persuasive case for the philosophical value of literature Zamir suggests that certain important philosophical insights can be gained only through literature But such insights cannot be reached if literature is deployed merely as an aesthetic sugaring of a conceptual pill Philosophical knowledge is not opposed to but is consonant with the literariness of literature By focusing on the experience of reading literature as literature and not philosophy Zamir sets a theoretical framework for a philosophically oriented literary criticism that will appeal both to philosophers and literary critics Double Vision is concerned with the philosophical understanding induced by the aesthetic experience of literature Literary works can function as credible philosophical arguments not ones in which claims are conclusively demonstrated but in which claims are made plausible Such claims Zamir argues are embedded within an experiential structure that is itself a crucial dimension of knowing Developing an account of literature's relation to knowledge morality and rhetoric and advancing philosophical literary readings of Richard III Macbeth Romeo and Juliet Othello Antony and Cleopatra Hamlet and King Lear Zamir shows how his approach can open up familiar texts in surprising and rewarding ways
