Postapocalyptic Fiction and the Social Contract Claire P. Curtis, 2010-07-17 Postapocalyptic Fiction and the Social Contract We'll Not Go Home Again provides a framework for our fascination with the apocalyptic events The popular appeal of the end of the world genre is clear in movies novels and television shows Even our political debates over global warming nuclear threats and pandemic disease reflect a concern about the possibility of such events This popular fascination is really a fascination with survival how can we come out alive And what would we do next The end of the world is not about species death but about beginning again This book uses postapocalyptic fiction as a terrain for thinking about the state of nature the hypothetical fiction that is the driving force behind the social contract The first half of the book examines novels that tell the story of the move from the state of nature to civil society through a Hobbesian a Lockean or a Rousseauian lens including Lucifer's Hammer by Larry Niven and Jerry Pournelle Alas Babylon by Pat Frank Malevil by Robert Merle and Into the Forest by Jean Hegland The latter half of the book examines Octavia Butler's postapocalyptic Parable series in which a new kind of social contract emerges one built on the fact of human dependence and vulnerability

Debus, 2024-10-04 The incomprehensible notion of a very large chunk of ice or rock from outer space smashing into the Earth has only become mainstream within the past two centuries Though early writers imagined the utterly fantastic consequences of comet collisions and speculated on the devastation they might wreak it was not until the 1980s when scientists finally resolved that dinosaurs were extinguished by an asteroid 66 million years ago This startling announcement captivated the media and tilted the science fiction world but in reality history may have been punctuated repeatedly by such events This book collects and analyzes ideas of asteroid comet and planetary impacts with Earth spanning two centuries from the first realization of extinctions in fossil records to the new millennium reflected in scores of sci fi stories films and televised science documentaries The author examines social and geopolitical fears tied to the prospect of a cosmic borne catastrophe Science fiction and speculation are artfully melded
