THE QUEST FOR AFRICA

by HEINRICH SCHIFFERS

From the book:

"To wonder that men looked to the continent in the far south from where disembarked virgin forests there issued untold wealth in land and water, ivory, ostrich plumes, gold, slaves. It was there, surely, that the very sources of such blessings were to be found. From Europe there, more than five thousand miles away, they dispatched two expeditions on the first actual voyage of discovery."

"On 11 May, 1482 Robberson, with a little group of natives, stood at the foot of the great mountain, which was covered with a remarkable white fog. But this was no volcanic peak, rather it was from a mighty wind, blowing in sharp gusts above forests and bare plains into the regions of the eternal snows. And this was not far from the Equator. It was, Mount Kilimanjaro. . . . Years later, . . . the English geographer William Cooley wrote to his assistant that it was nothing but a very old."

"In the end of July (1879) Speke reached Lake Edward which measured 14,000 square miles and is about twice the size of Belgium. He named it Lake Edward in honor of the Queen. Here too the native accounts confirmed his opinion that he had thereby discovered the source of the White Nile. It is true that he himself did not see the mouth of the river."

"The contents of the letter were shocking. The rebel activities in the Sudan caused the Government to abandon these territories. Consequently we are unable to send you any help. What was the Government to do now? Should he depart, taking his establishment with him? That meant two thousand souls, two-thirds of which consisted of women and children. . . . The emergency situation was such and so that it seemed as if we were cut off from all communication with the world. He was still proceeding to Lake Equatoria."

In Search of Human Nature Mary E. Clark, 2005-08-18 In this magisterial new work biologist Mary Clark argues that the Western view of human nature is built around highly atomistic and ideological framework that encourages us to think about the world and ourselves in the wrong way

The Origins of Ethnic Conflict in Africa Tsega Etefa, 2019-02-01 From Darfur to the Rwandan genocide journalists policymakers and scholars have blamed armed conflicts in Africa on ancient hatreds or competition for resources Here Tsega Etefa compares three such cases the Darfur conflict between Arabs and non Arabs the Gumuz and Oromo clashes in Western Oromia and the Oromo Pokomo conflict in the Tana Delta in order to offer a fuller picture of how ethnic violence in Africa begins Diverse communities in Sudan Ethiopia and Kenya alike have long histories of peacefully sharing resources intermarrying and resolving disputes As he argues ethnic conflicts are fundamentally political conflicts driven by non inclusive political systems the monopolization of state resources and the manipulation of ethnicity for political gain coupled with the lack of democratic mechanisms for redressing grievances

Mental Maps Janne Holmén, Norbert Götz, 2021-11-28 The concept of mental maps is used in several disciplines including geography psychology history linguistics economics anthropology political science and computer game design However until now there has been little communication between these disciplines and methodological schools involved in mental mapping Mental Maps Geographical and Historical Perspectives addresses this situation by bringing together scholars from some of the related fields Ute Schneider examines the development of German geographer Heinrich Schiffrers mental maps using his books on Africa from the 1930s to the 1970s Efrat Ben Ze'ev and Chloé Yvroux investigate conceptions of Israel and Palestine particularly the West Bank held by French and Israeli students By superimposing large numbers of sketch maps Clarisse Didelon Loiseau Sophie de Ruffray and Nicolas Lambert identify soft and hard macro regions on the mental maps of geography students across the world Janne Holm investigates whether the Baltic and the Mediterranean Seas are seen as links or divisions between the countries that line their shores according to the mental maps of high school seniors Similarly Dario Musolino maps regional preferences of Italian entrepreneurs Finally Lars Erik Edlund offers an essayistic account of mental mapping based on memories of maps in his own family This edited volume book uses printed maps survey data and hand drawn maps as sources contributing to the study of human perception of space from the perspectives of different disciplines The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Cultural Geography

National Museums in Africa Raymond Silverman, George Abungu, Peter Probst, 2021-08-30 National Museums in Africa brings the voices of African museum professionals into dialogue with scholars and by so doing is able to consider the state of African national museums from fresh perspectives Covering all regions of the continent the volume's thirteen chapters allow for a deep and nuanced understanding of the intricate interplay between past and present in contemporary Africa Taking stock of the shifting museum landscape in Africa with new players like China and South Korea challenging the conditions of cultural exchange the book demonstrates that national museums are being rediscovered as important sites of political engagement and cultural negotiation This is the first book to critically examine the roles national museums in Africa have played in the societies in which they are situated but it is also the first to consider the roles that national museums might play in current debates concerning the restitution and repatriation of cultural patrimony taken from Africa during the colonial era Informed by a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective this ground breaking book will appeal to anyone interested in museums in Africa It will be particularly useful to scholars and students working in the areas of museum and heritage studies African studies anthropology archaeology history art history and cultural studies

A History of Genocide in Africa Timothy J. Stapleton, 2017-04-17 Based on a series of detailed case studies this book presents the history of genocide in Africa within the specific context of African history examining conflicts in countries such as Burundi Democratic Republic of Congo Namibia Rwanda and Sudan Why has Africa been the subject of so many accusations related to genocide Indeed the number of such allegations related to Africa has increased dramatically over the past 15 years Popular racist mythology might suggest that Africans belong to tribes that are inherently antagonistic towards each other and therefore engage in tribal warfare which cannot be rationally explained This concept is wrong as Timothy J Stapleton explains in A History of Genocide in Africa the many conflicts that have plagued post colonial Africa have had very logical explanations and very few of these instances of African warring can be said to have resulted in genocide Authored by an expert historian of Africa this book examines the history of six African countries Namibia Rwanda Burundi Democratic Republic of Congo Sudan and Nigeria in which the language of genocide has been mobilized to describe episodes of tragic mass violence It seeks to place genocide within the context of African history acknowledging the few instances where the international legal term genocide has been applied appropriately to episodes of mass violence in African history and identifying the many other cases where it has not and instead the term has been used in a cynical manipulation to gain some political advantage Readers will come to understand how to a large extent genocide accusations related to post colonial Africa have often served to prolong wars and cause greater loss of life The book also clarifies how in areas of Africa where genocides have actually occurred there appears to have been a common history of the imposition of racial ideologies and hierarchies during the colonial era which when combined with other factors such as the local geography demography religion and or economics resulted in tragic and appalling outcomes

Ocean Transportation Carl E. McDowell, Helen M.

Gibbs, 1999 Bible Interpretation and the African Culture David J. Ndegwah, 2020-01-15 This book can be summarized in one sentence that culture plays a determinant role in the way people perceive interpret and therefore respond to reality around them ideas events people and literature including sacred literature Thus when people encounter new reality they perceive and conceptualize it in accordance with their worldview which is shaped by their culture that is modeled to suit various geographical locations In order to understand why people around the world behave and act as they do they choose certain words in what they say and do certain things rather than others it is important to understand and appreciate this fact Failure to do so would make it very difficult to engage in any dealings with them secular or religious like doing business or evangelization This is what happened to the P kot people whose worldview is predominantly communitarian and yet they were introduced to hermeneutics that are predominantly individualistic which is at loggerheads with their communal aspirations The manifestation of this reality is the interpretation of the Good Shepherd parable in the Gospel of John which the P kot have understood and contextualized in line with their worldview against the intentions goals and disposition of their evangelizers

Contesting Development Patrick Barron, Rachael Diprose, Michael J. V. Woolcock, 2011-01-01 This pathbreaking book grapples with an established reality well intentioned international development programs often generate local conflict some of which escalates to violence To understand how such conflicts can be managed peacefully the authors have undertaken a comprehensive mixed methods analysis of one of the world's largest participatory development projects the highly successful Kecamatan Development Program KDP which was launched by the World Bank and the Indonesian government in the late 1990s and now operates in every district across Indonesia

A Scheme of Heaven: The History of Astrology and the Search for our Destiny in Data Alexander Boxer, 2020-01-14 An illuminating look at the surprising history and science of astrology civilization's first system of algorithms from Babylon to the present day Humans are pattern matching creatures and astrology is the universe's grandest pattern matching game In this refreshing work of history and analysis data scientist Alexander Boxer examines classical texts on astrology to expose its underlying scientific and mathematical framework Astrology he argues was the ancient world s most ambitious applied mathematics problem a monumental data analysis enterprise sustained by some of history s most brilliant minds from Ptolemy to al Kindi to Kepler Thousands of years ago astrologers became the first to stumble upon the powerful storytelling possibilities inherent in numerical data To correlate the configurations of the cosmos with our day to day lives astrologers relied upon a scheme of heaven or horoscope showing the precise configuration of the planets at a particular instant in time as viewed from a particular place on Earth Although recognized as pseudoscience today horoscopes were once considered a cutting edge scientific tool Boxer teaches us how to read these esoteric charts and appreciate the complex astronomical calculations needed to generate them by diagramming how the heavens appeared at important moments in astrology s history from the assassination of Julius Caesar as viewed from Rome to the Apollo 11 lunar landing as seen from the surface of the Moon He then puts these horoscopes to the test using modern data sets and statistical science arguing that today s data scientists do work similar to astrologers of yore By looking back at the algorithms of ancient astrology he suggests we can better recognize the patterns that are timeless characteristics of our own pattern matching tendencies At once critical rigorous and far ranging A Scheme of Heaven recontextualizes astrology as a vast technological project spanning continents and centuries that foreshadowed our data driven world today

The End of the Game ,1965 Theory in Africa, Africa in Theory Stephanie Wynne-Jones,Jeffrey Fleisher,2015-06-19 Theory in Africa Africa in Theory explores the place of Africa in archaeological theory and the place of theory in African archaeology The centrality of Africa to global archaeological thinking is highlighted with a particular focus on materiality and agency in contemporary interpretation As a means to explore the nature of theory itself the volume also addresses differences between how African models are used in western theoretical discourse and the use of that theory within Africa Providing a key contribution to theoretical discourse through a focus on the context of theory building this volume explores how African modes of thought have shaped our approaches to a meaningful past outside of Africa A timely intervention into archaeological thought Theory in Africa Africa in Theory deconstructs the conventional ways we approach the past positioning the continent within a global theoretical discourse and blending Western and African scholarship This volume will be a valuable resource for those interested in the archaeology of Africa as well as providing fresh perspectives to those interested in archaeological theory more generally

The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World Joel Krieger,Margaret E. Crahan,2001-08-02 The world has seen dramatic changes since the publication of the first edition of The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World in 1993 In the post Cold War world globalization now offers wealth and opportunities on a broader scale as well as greater international harmony but threatens to reinforce the advantage gap between wealthy and poor regions and intensify environmental degradation Conflict and squalor expressed in brutal brushfire wars epidemics and chronic underdevelopment vie with equally dramatic accounts of growth and democracy associated with a liberal political order and the global diffusion of trade investment and communications Drawing on the breadth of the first edition this updated edition reflects the changing world with a reassessment of many of the core themes of the Companion and new articles on the people concepts and events that have shaped the world since 1993 The second edition includes biographies of Kofi Annan Tony Blair Bill Clinton and Gerhard Schroder articles on events such as the Rwandan Genocide and the war in Kosovo and coverage of international trade developments such as NAFTA and the World Trade Organization Eighty seven of the 672 articles in the Second Edition are completely new most others are thoroughly revised This edition also features a substantial new set of articles a dozen essays on critical issues written by influential figures Recognizing the importance of including varying viewpoints the editors have commissioned these essays to provide an informed and often passionate debate on controversial topics Discussions include Lani Guinier and Glenn Loury on Affirmative Action Francis Fukuyama and Milton Fisk on the Limits of Liberal Democracy and Lloyd Axworthy and John Bolton on the United Nations The contributors discuss nearly every nation in the world including extensive information on institutions political parties leaders and the sources of political mobilization and conflict The volume also includes biographies of more than seventy five political leaders and thinkers who have shaped the contemporary political world Articles include detailed discussions of critical historical developments and events concepts international law and organizations The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World Second Edition is an accessible timely thought provoking and comprehensive reference that captures the complexity and vitality of contemporary world affairs
