Texts and Textiles Diana Mary Eva Thomas,2017-03-07 This study shows how fiction that makes use of textiles as an essential element utilizes synaesthetic writing and synaesthetic metaphor to create an affective link to and response in the reader These links and responses are examined using affect theory from Silvan Tomkins and Brian Massumi and work on synaesthesia by Richard Cytowic Lawrence Marks and V S Ramachandran among others Synaesthetic writing including synaesthetic metaphors has been explored in poetry since the 1920s and more recently in fiction but these studies have been general in nature By narrowing the field of investigation to those novels that specifically employ three types of hand crafted textiles quilt making knitting and embroidery the book isolates how these textiles are used in fiction The combination of synaesthesia memory metaphor and particularly synaesthetic metaphor in fiction with textiles in the text of the case studies selected shows how these are used to create affect in readers enhancing their engagement in the story The work is framed within the context of the history of textile production and the use of textiles in fiction internationally but concentrates on Australian authors who have used textiles in their writing The decision to focus on Australian authors was taken in light of the quality and depth of the writing of textile fiction produced in Australia between 1980 and 2005 in the three categories of hand crafted textiles quilt making knitting and embroidery The texts chosen for intensive study are Kate Grenville s The Idea of Perfection 1999 quilting Marele Day s Lambs of God 1997 knitting and Anne Bartlett s Knitting 2005 knitting Jessica Anderson s Tirra Lirra by the River 1978 embroidery and Marion Halligan s Spider Cup 1990 embroidery

Stalp,2007-12-01 Quilting once regarded as a traditional craft has broken through the barriers of history art and commerce to become a global phenomenon international multi billion dollar industry and means of gendered cultural production In Quilting sociologist and quilter Marybeth C Stalp explores how and why women quilt This close ethnographic study illustrates that women's lives can be transformed in often surprising ways by the activity and art of quilting Some women who quilt as a leisure pastime are too afraid to admit to being a quilter for fear of ridicule others boldly identify themselves as quilters and regard it as part of their everyday lives The place of quilting in women's lives affects core family and personal identity issues such as marriage childcare friendship and aging The book's accessible and intimate portrayal of real quilters lives provides a fabric for the sociology anthropology and textile student to understand more about wider issues of cultural production and identity that stem from this very personal pastime Quilts as Women's Art Radka Donnell,1990 The Semiotics of Culture and Language ,1984 Quilt Culture Cheryl B.
