The Routledge Handbook of Race and Ethnicity in Asia introduces theoretical approaches to the study of race, ethnicity and indigeneity in Asia beyond those commonly grounded in the Western experience. The volume's twenty-eight chapters consider not only the relationship between ethnic or racial minorities and the state but social relations within and between individual and transnational communities. These shape not only the contours of governance but also the means by which knowledge of national identity, self and other have been constructed and reconstructed over time. Divided into four sections, it provides holistic and comparative coverage of South, South East and East Asia as well as Australasia and Oceania, an area that extends from Pakistan in the West to Hawaii in the East. Contributors to this handbook offer a variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives opening a domain of scholarship wherein the relationship between phenotype and racism is less pronounced than European and North American approaches which have often privileged the so-called colour stigmata leading to further exclusions of particular ethnic, racial and indigenous communities. This volume seeks to overcome racism and white ideologies embedded in theories of race and ethnicity in Asia, proving a valuable resource to both students and scholars of comparative racial and ethnic studies, international relations and human rights. Australia's Rural, Remote and Indigenous Health Janie Dade Smith, 2016-02-06. Australia's Rural, Remote and Indigenous Health 3e is a practical guide to the delivery of health care in rural and remote Australia. Understanding Racism in Australia Sue Zelinka, 1996

Boarding and Australia's First Peoples Marnie O'Bryan, 2022-02-03 This book takes us inside the complex lived experience of being a First Nations student in predominantly non Indigenous schools in Australia Built around the first hand narratives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander alumni from across the nation scholarly analysis is layered with personal accounts and reflections The result is a wide ranging and longitudinal exploration of the enduring impact of years spent boarding which challenges narrow and exclusively empirical measures currently used to define success in education. Used as instruments of repression and assimilation, boarding or residential schools have played a long and contentious role throughout the settler colonial world. In Canada and North America, the full scale of human tragedy associated with residential schools is still being exposed. By contrast, in contemporary Australia, boarding schools are characterised as beacons of opportunity and hope, places of empowerment and, in the best of cultural restitution. In this work, young people interviewed over a span of seven years reflect in real time on the intended and unintended consequences boarding has had in their own lives. They relate expected and dramatically unexpected outcomes. They speak to the long-term benefits of education and to the intergenerational reach of education policy. This book assists practitioners and policy makers to critically review the structures, policies, and cultural assumptions embedded in the institutions in which they work, to the benefit of First Nations students and their families. It encourages new and collaborative approaches to Indigenous education programs.
