New Grub Street George Gissing, 2005-11 Presents a major social document and a story that draws us into the twilight world of Edwin Reardon a struggling novelist and his friends and acquaintances in Grub Street including Jasper Milvain an ambitious journalist and Alfred Yule an embittered critic The Victorian Bookshelf Jess Nevins, 2016-04-27 This introductory guide to the canon of Victorian literature covers 61 novels by authors from Jane Austen to Emile Zola Brief critical essays describe what each book is about and argue for its cultural historical and literary importance Literary canons remain a subject of debate but critics readers and students continue to find them useful as overviews and examinations of the great works within a given period or culture The Victorian canon is particularly rich with splendid novels that educate enlighten and entertain Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Dodo Edward Frederic Benson, 1894 The Speaker, 1898 Hair Susan J. Vincent, 2018-10-04 Bobs beards blondes and beyond Hair takes us on a lavishly illustrated journey into the world of this remarkable substance and our complicated and fascinating relationship with it Taking the key things we do to it in turn this book captures its importance in the past and into the present to individuals and society for health and hygiene in social and political challenge in creating ideals of masculinity and womanliness in being a vehicle for gossip secrets and sex Using art film personal diaries newspapers texts and images Susan J Vincent unearths the stories we have told about hair and why they are important From ginger jibes in the seventeenth century to bobbed hair suicides in the 1920s from hippies to Roundheads from bearded women to smooth metrosexuals Hair shows the significance of the stuff we nurture remove style and tend You will never take it for granted again The Journalist in British Fiction and Film Sarah Lonsdale, 2016-07-14 Why did Edwardian novelists portray journalists as swashbuckling truth seeking super heroes whereas post WW2 depictions present the journalist as alienated outsider Why are contemporary fictional journalists often deranged murderous or intensely vulnerable As newspaper journalism faces the double crisis of a lack of trust post Leveson and a lack of influence in the fragmented internet age how do cultural producers view journalists and their role in society today In The Journalist in British Fiction and Film Sarah Lonsdale traces the ways in which journalists and newspapers have been depicted in fiction theatre and film from the dawn of the mass popular press to the present day The book asks first how journalists were represented in various distinct periods of the 20th century and then attempts to explain why these representations vary so widely This is a history of the British press told not by historians and sociologists but by writers and directors as well as journalists themselves In uncovering dozens of forgotten fictions Sarah Lonsdale explores the bare knuckled literary combat conducted by writers contesting the disputed boundaries between literature and journalism Within these texts and films there is perhaps also a clue as to how the best aspects of Fourth estate journalism can survive in the digital age Authors covered in the volume include Martin Amis Graham Greene George Orwell Pat Barker Evelyn Waugh Elizabeth Bowen Arnold Wesker and Rudyard Kipling Television
