Writing Home Chiamaka Enyi-Amadi, Pat Boran, 2019-10 In Writing Home The New Irish Poets more than 50 poets from all over the world explore the many meanings and connotations of the word home Hailing from places as diverse as India and Italy Poland and Pakistan Canada and the Democratic Republic of the Congo as well as the US the UK and Ireland itself together they present an updated picture of a changing country while at the same time expanding the very definition of writing from Ireland The poems gathered here are as various and lively as we might hope for Some contributors might be said to write home in the traditional sense describing and explaining what they find in the place they now live for others writing home is a determined creative act of self definition For all of them there is the real sense that writing is itself a kind of home building not least at a time when so many borders physical and psychological are under threat of closure across the world

The Ulster Renaissance Heather Clark,2006-04-06 This is the first full length study of the extraordinary period of intense poetic activity in Belfast known as the Ulster Renaissance a time when young Northern Irish poets such as Seamus Heaney Derek Mahon Michael Longley James Simmons and Paul Muldoon began crafting their art and tuning their voices through each other Drawing extensively upon new archival material as well as personal interviews and correspondence The Ulster Renaissance argues that these poets friendships and rivalries were crucial to their autonomous artistic development The book also sheds new light on the idea of a collaborative Belfast coterie often treated derisively by critics and shows that the poets frequently engaged in efforts to promote a cohesive Northern literary community distinct from that which existed in London and Dublin It suggests that it was this cohesion at turns inclusive and confining which ultimately challenged the Belfast poets to find their individual voices     The Columbia Granger's Guide to Poetry Anthologies William A.
