The absurd in literature Neil Cornwell,2013-07-19 Neil Cornwell's study while endeavouring to present an historical survey of absurdist literature and its forbears does not aspire to being an exhaustive history of absurdism Rather it pauses on certain historical moments artistic movements literary figures and selected works before moving on to discuss four key writers Daniil Kharms Franz Kafka Samuel Beckett and Flann O'Brien The absurd in literature will be of compelling interest to a considerable range of students of comparative European including Russian and Central European and English literatures British Isles and American as well as those more concerned with theatre studies the avant garde and the history of ideas including humour theory It should also have a wide appeal to the enthusiastic general reader

The Image of Christ in Russian Literature John Givens,2018-05-29 Vladimir Nabokov complained about the number of Dostoevsky's characters sinning their way to Jesus In truth Christ is an elusive figure not only in Dostoevsky's novels but in Russian literature as a whole The rise of the historical critical method of biblical criticism in the nineteenth century and the growth of secularism it stimulated made an earnest affirmation of Jesus in literature highly problematic If they affirmed Jesus too directly writers paradoxically risked diminishing him either by deploying faith explanations that no longer persuade in an age of skepticism or by reducing Christ to a mere argument in an ideological dispute The writers at the heart of this study understood that to reimage Christ for their age they had to make him known through indirect even negative ways lest what they say about him be mistaken for cliché doctrine or naïve apologetics The Christology of Dostoevsky Leo Tolstoy Mikhail Bulgakov and Boris Pasternak is thus apophatic because they deploy negative formulations saying what God is not in their writings about Jesus Professions of atheism in Dostoevsky and Tolstoy's non-divine Jesus are but separate negative paths toward truer discernment of Christ This first study in English of the image of Christ in Russian literature highlights the importance of apophaticism as a theological practice and a literary method in understanding the Russian Christ It also emphasizes the importance of skepticism in Russian literary attitudes toward Jesus on the part of writers whose private crucibles of doubt produced some of the most provocative and enduring images of Christ in world literature This important study will appeal to scholars and students of Orthodox Christianity and Russian literature as well as educated general readers interested in religion and nineteenth century Russian novels

Socialist Cosmopolitanism Nicolai Volland,2017-03-28 Socialist Cosmopolitanism offers an innovative interpretation of literary works from the Mao era that reads Chinese socialist literature as world literature As Nicolai Volland demonstrates after 1949 China engaged with the world beyond its borders in a variety of ways and on many levels politically economically and culturally Far from rejecting the worldliness of earlier eras the young People's Republic developed its own cosmopolitanism Rather than a radical break with the past Chinese socialist literature should be seen as an integral and important chapter in China's long search to find a place within world literature Socialist

Cosmopolitanism revisits a range of genres from poetry and land reform novels to science fiction and children's literature and shows how Chinese writers and readers alike saw their own literary production as part of a much larger literary universe. This literary space reaching from Beijing to Berlin from Prague to Pyongyang from Warsaw to Moscow to Hanoi allowed authors and texts to travel reinventing the meaning of world literature. Chinese socialist literature was not driven solely by politics but by an ambitious but ultimately doomed attempt to redraw the literary world map.

Constructing Nationhood in Modern East Asia Kai-wing Chow, Kevin Michael Doak, Poshek Fu, 2001. A cutting edge collection exploring identity making in East Asia. This is an interdisciplinary study of the cultural politics of nationalism and national identities in modern East Asia. Combining theoretical insights with empirical research, it explores the cultural dimensions of nationhood and identity making in China, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, and Taiwan. The essays address issues ranging from the complex relations between popular culture and national consciousness to the representation of ethnic/racial identity and gendered discourse on nationalism. The cutting edge research on the diverse forms of cultural preacceptance and the various ways in which this participates in the construction and projection of national and ethnic identities in East Asia illuminates several understudied issues in Asian studies, including the ambiguity of Hong Kong identity during World War II and the intricate politics of the post-war Taiwanese trial of collaboration. Addressing a wide range of theoretical and historical issues regarding cultural dimensions of nationalism and national identities all over East Asia, these essays draw insights from such recent theories as cultural studies, postcolonial theories, and archival researched cultural anthropology. The book will be important reading for students of Asian studies as well as for serious readers interested in issues of nationalism and culture. Kai-wing Chow is Associate Professor of East Asian Languages and Cultures. Kevin Doak is Associate Professor of History. Poshek Fu is Associate Professor of History and Cinema Studies. All three teach at University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign.
