Lesson Overview

The unique geographic and economic characteristics of the Northeast coast become apparent through the study of photographs, maps and interviews with two New England fishermen of the early 20th century. How did rugged New Englanders make a living and provide for their families? How did they adapt to the environment and how did they change it? Finally, looking beyond the American Fisheries collection, what are the links between New England's fisheries and global food and the world's future?

Objectives

After completing this project, students will:

- analyze primary sources, including historical photos, oral histories, and maps;
- synthesize information and analyze language in order to write a poem or one stanza of the oral history;
- compare the motivations, intentions, and aspirations of a 19th-century fisherman and a 21st-century photographer/fisherman; and
- plan, research and conduct a debate on the road for sustainable fisheries in the fishing industry.
