New Guinea ,1990 Journey Into the Stone Age David Davies,1969 Journey Into Stone Age Malcolm S. Kirk,1969 From 'Stone-Age' to 'Real-Time' Martin Slama,Jenny Munro,2015-04-24 There are probably no other people on earth to whom the image of the stone age is so persistently attached than the inhabitants of the island of New Guinea which is divided into independent Papua New Guinea and the western part of the island known today as Papua and West Papua From Stone Age to Real Time examines the forms of agency frictions and anxieties the current moment generates in West Papua where the persistent stone age image meets the practices and ideologies of the real time a popular expression referring to immediate digital communication The volume is thus essentially occupied with discourses of time and space and how they inform questions of hierarchy and possibilities for equality Papuans are increasingly mobile and seeking to rework inherited ideas institutions and technologies while also coming up against palpable limits on what can be imagined or achieved secured or defended This volume investigates some of these trajectories for the cultural logics and social or political structures that shape them The chapters are highly ethnographic based on in depth research conducted in diverse spaces within and beyond Papua These contributions explore topics ranging from hip hop to HIV AIDS to historicity filling much needed conceptual and ethnographic lacunae in the study of West Papua Pygmies & Papuans: The Stone Age To-day in Dutch New Guinea A. moved out of Africa and into Asia seafaring through the islands of Wallacea as far as New Guinea the Bismarck Archipelago and the Solomon Islands After arriving on the shores of West New Guinea people adapted to diverse environments including coral reefs tropical rainforests swamps montane cloud forests and savannah grasslands Over millennia people transformed these habitats by burning and cutting the forests translocating plants and animals and managing access to resources Food production later emerged in the region as the global climate warmed up around 10 000 years ago Between 4000 3000 years ago the Austronesian languages began to enter West New Guinea with its speakers settling around the coasts and offshore islands New forms of exchange connected people and particularly within the last 2000 years drew West New Guinea into global networks The objects produced and traded at ethnographic contact like pottery stone axes string bags shell ornaments and wooden carvings can be informative about these networks but they are increasingly changing as people navigate and transform their material worlds in the present The examination of these objects in museums not only casts light on their makers traders and collectors but also highlights the ongoing connections that Papuans have with their material culture in the twenty first century The 22 chapters in this book contribute novel perspectives and critical data on each of these themes The authors come from archaeology social anthropology biological anthropology linguistics museology palaeoecology and beyond They write about a wide array of West New Guinea s regions including the highlands north and south coasts Bird s Head Peninsula Cenderawasih Bay and the Raja Ampat Islands Journey Into Stone Age New Guinea ,1969 Papua New Guinea John Connell,2005-07-28 Since 1975 the economy of Papua New Guinea has focused on mineral rather than agricultural production as previously This is the first book to look at these changes in a complex rapidly evolving nation from an economic perspective Christianity, Islam, and Nationalism in Indonesia Charles E. Farhadian,2005 As the largest Muslim country in the world Indonesia is marked by an extraordinary diversity in language ancestry culture religion and ways of life Christianity Islam and Nationalism in Indonesia focuses on the Christian Dani of West Papua providing a social and ethnographic history of the most important indigenous population in the troubled province It presents a fascinating overview of the Dani s conversion to Christianity examining the social religious and political uses to which they have put their new religion While its indigenous population is Papuan and its dominant religions are Christianity and animism West Papua contains a growing number of Papuan Muslims Farhadian provides the first study of this highland Papuan group in an urban context which helps distinguish it from the typical highland Papuan ethnography Incorporating cultural and structural approaches the book affords a fascinating insight into the complex relationship between Christianity Islam and nationalism
