UNDERSTANDING OUR THOUGHTS Adrian Gabriel Dumitru, Arij Emaan, The human being has always been dominated by contradictory thoughts and emotions Maybe one of the worst diseases from the history of the world worst even as cancer sometimes without any possible treatment is the doubt And is funny cause the Universe is playing around with us giving us so so many contradictory options I am laughing going back in time and seeing myself in this weird situation of not being able to decide what to do what to choose Today i somehow believe that it s better to have no option or just one option cause each time when i had 2 or more options everything was too complicated I had to think too much to meditate on and on and on And when i decided i was still overwhelmed by doubt Instead of being happy for the life i had i was unhappy In fact somehow ruined emotionally and mentally of all what was going on with me Everything was sometimes so amplified that i could not continue the life itself The Universe letted me decide what to do but i was not capable of seeing the path the real one I was hearing into my head all the time What to do What to decide What should be the best But i did not know what to do what to decide and instead of being happy for having so many opportunities my vibe was always fucked up And everything was like that cause i did not know how to close my eyes and connect to myself asking to my intuition for guidance The undecided version of myself was a result of the fact that i did not know anything about my soul and how to be in total harmony with this inner self I did not know how to listen to all those voices to my intuition and keep the right balance between the inner and the outer world And instead of being happy and a soul dominated by joy i was in this silly emotional balance dominated by a non ending indecision I should name it today the negative amplifier and all what i want is just get rid of it Nothing more
