Sellers,2012-06-18 Although suburb building created major environmental problems Christopher Sellers demonstrates that the environmental movement originated within suburbs not just in response to unchecked urban sprawl Drawn to the countryside as early as the late nineteenth century new suburbanites turned to taming the wildness of their surroundings They cultivated a fondness for the natural world around them and in the decades that followed they became sensitized to potential threats Sellers shows how the philosophy science and emotions that catalyzed the environmental movement sprang directly from suburbanites lives and their ideas about nature as well as the unique ecology of the neighborhoods in which they dwelt Sellers focuses on the spreading edges of New York and Los Angeles over the middle of the twentieth century to create an intimate portrait of what it was like to live amid suburban nature As suburbanites learned about their land became aware of pollution and saw the forests shrinking around them the vulnerability of both their bodies and their homes became apparent Worries crossed lines of class and race and necessitated new ways of thinking and acting Sellers argues concluding that suburb dwellers through the knowledge and politics they forged deserve much of the credit for inventing modern environmentalism Agriculture Handbook ,1970 Set includes revised editions of some issues Book Catalog of the Library and Information Services Division: Shelf List catalog Environmental Science Information Center. triangle Al and Gayle s primary goals were to find gold in one of the many streams they crossed and to also find a Woolly Mammoth frozen in a glacier Toward this end they took side trips to the White Mountains National Recreation Area Denali National Park The Top of the World Highway and the towns of Homer and Chicken An Alaskan Adventure is not just a book about touring Alaska Al is an environmentalist and a theme evident throughout the book is that the beauty we find around us is fleeting and that if we as a species continue to over populate our world what we see and value so highly is sure to go away
