Judge orders Trump to reinstate feds after 'sham' blitz of firings

By Steven Dwek

First Washington Times

A federal judge on Thursday ordered the Trump administration to bring back thousands of fired probationary employees, saying their owners were misled.

U.S. District Judge William Alsup, a Clinton appointee who sits in California, said the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) had no authority to direct other agencies to fire the employees.

"It is sad, a sad day when our government would fire our good employees and say it was based on performance when they knew good and well that's a lie," the judge said in ruling from the bench.

The Justice Department quickly filed a notice appealing.

Trump vs. deep state: Tiny agency, huge battle over aid

Intrigue of legal thriller develops at foundation

By Steven Dwek

First Washington Times

The U.S. African Development Foundation, one of the smallest agencies in the federal government, has become a major battlefield in the power struggle between the Trump administration and resistors deep inside the federal government.

The case has all the intrigue of a legal thriller novel. President Trump wants the Department of Government Efficiency to take over the foundation's headquarters, just north of the White House, only to find employees blocking them at the door.

Mr. Trump's team then threatened to bring in the U.S. Marshals.

With elements reminiscent of medieval Catholic Church intrigue, two main claims power at the agency.

For now, the president's team has come out on top, with U.S.

District Judge Richard J. Levin refusing to order the president to reinstate the employees. He was picked by the Trump opponents to be president of the USAID. He said the foundation had met the burden of winning a temporary restraining order.

Putin backs ceasefire with Ukraine 'in principle'

Sets conditions as Trump pushes for deal: 'Questions we need to discuss'

By Wallace Colman

First Washington Times

Russian President Vladimir Putin has offered highly conditional support for the proposed 90-day ceasefire deal with Ukraine.

In remarks Thursday evening, he said he supported the idea in principle but insisted that several complex issues must be addressed first.

Among the issues was the presence of Ukrainian troops in Russia's Kursk border region, continued arms shipments to "Caucasian" and uncertainty about whether a pause in fighting after three years would lead to a permanent peace acceptable to the Kremlin.

Kyiv endorsed the proposed ceasefire this week.

"The idea itself is the right one, and we do support it," Mr. Putin said. "But there are questions that we need to discuss, and I think that we need to talk them through with our American colleagues and partners."

He was meeting with Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko.

President Trump, meeting with NATO Secretary-General Mark Rutte in Washington, told reporters that Mr.

DIPLOMACY: President Trump met Thursday at the White House with NATO Secretary-General Mark Rutte about a proposed ceasefire in the Russia-Ukraine war. He suggested negative consequences if Moscow refuses a deal.

Putin's response was "promising ... but it wasn't complete."

He said he was willing to talk with the Russian president to reach a ceasefire.

"Hopefully, Russia will do the right thing," Mr. Trump said.

Ukraine's acceptance of the deal, under pressure from the Trump administration, put the Kremlin on the spot. Mr. Trump has suggested negative consequences for Moscow if it refuses the deal.

Mr. Putin said he expected to talk directly with the U.S. president.

"I would like to meet with Mr. Putin," Mr. Trump said.

"I should not release them after they have committed numerous crimes against civilians there, or will the Ukrainian leadership committed them to surrender?"

When will that happen? That's not clear."

Mr. Putin said any ceasefire deal must address the underlying causes of the conflict from Russia's perspective, including NATO's expanding presence in Eastern Europe after the Cold War. He said he would meet with Mr. Trump's special envoy, Steve Witkovsky, who arrived in Moscow on Thursday.

Russia's appetite for a ceasefire may have diminished in recent days after failing the initiative in fighting in southern and eastern Ukraine. Russia announced it had driven the Ukrainian army out of

Trump pulls nominee for CDC over vaccines

Republicans wary of his positions

By Tim Hwang Jr.

First Washington Times

The White House on Wednesday withdrew Dr. William W. Winkenbach Jr. from the position of director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, a rare setback for President Trump's appointments as the Senate advanced nominees to lead other health agencies.

Dr. Winkenbach, a physician and former congressman, said he learned about the decision 12 hours before he was to testify before the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pension Committee about his qualifications and views on vaccine safety.

He said pushback from at least two Republicans on the committee made his nomination untenable.

"My big sin was that as a congressman 20 years ago I had the temerity to take on the CDC and Big Pharma on two critical childhood vaccine safety issues. Hundreds of parents had been coming to me from all over the country, insisting that their child had been seriously damaged by the inoculations," Dr. Winkenbach said in a statement.

"The president is a busy man doing good work for our nation, and the last thing he needs is a controversy about CDC," he added.

CAMPAIGN 2026

DeSantis' wife considers run against Trump favorite for Florida governor

CALLING FRIENDS: Rep. Byron Donalds has been endorsed for Florida governor by President Trump, Donald Trump Jr. and the Club for Growth.

Byron Donalds is the prohibitive favorite to win the Republican primary and become Florida's governor.

President Trump's endorsement is a Republican primary race typically outside the competition's purview.

"This may not be the case in Florida's gubernatorial contest, where Gov. Ron DeSantis' wife, Casey, is considering running against Mr. Trump's preferred candidate, Rep. Byron Donalds."

Mrs. DeSantis is well-regarded across the state and is viewed as a strong contender to succeed her husband's business. Endorsements among Republicans cooled after Mr. Donalds' announcement she was with Mr. Trump's blessing.

"There's no question about it that

Mr. Donalds is the prohibitive favorite to win the Republican primary and become Florida's governor."

"If Casey DeSantis were to enter the race, it would be a battle of otherworldly proportions," Mr. Donalds said.

It could become problematic, but the bottom line is, Donalds has the Trump endorsement, and the Trump endorsement right now is not political gold; it's practical platinum," he said.

Political insiders are offering warnings that endorsements alone do not win elections, and they say plenty of time remains before the August 2026 primary.

IN THE FAMILY: Casey DeSantis is well-regarded in Florida and is viewed as a strong contender to succeed her husband, Gov. Ron DeSantis. She was arguably the most prominent spouse on the 2024 Republican presidential campaign trail.

End-Time Prophecy Børge Beck, 2023-03-09 Along with a correct understanding of the Bible as the God-breathed Word a correct interpretation is crucial Basically there are only two methods of interpretation 1 the non-literal allegorical or spiritualizing method or 2 the literal so-called grammatical-historical method The latter if employed consistently gives the only correct understanding of what God originally intended to reveal about the salvation of mankind The first part of this book demonstrates the advantage of the literal interpretation over the allegorical or spiritualizing method which must be avoided at all costs unless the text demands a shift from a literal to a figurative interpretation of a word or phrase bearing in mind that figurative language still reveals literal truths The second part of the book applies the teaching of the first part to Biblical prophecy which must be interpreted in the exact same way as any other text in the Word of God If employed consistently the literal reading leads to Premillennialism Christ returns to earth before and in order to establish the Millennial Kingdom Pretribulationism the Church is raptured to heaven before the Tribulation and Dispensationalism God's dealings with man in seven consecutive dispensations or stewardships Besides 2 Thessalonians 2:3 is explained on the basis of the Greek text so as to be a conclusive defense of the pretribulation Rapture of the Church
