Coaching Models: A Cultural Perspective Diane Lennard, 2013-02-01 In addition to providing an extensive analysis of strategies for changing performance and the factors that can impact coaching effectiveness this book offers what may be a unique value instead of promoting one approach as the best. Dr Lennard guides readers through a highly customized process of developing our own individualized coaching model. As a result of the book's thought provoking activities I strengthened my own sense of personal authenticity and saw new ways to coach and collaborate fully with employees who may have very different perspectives. Tita Theodora Beal Learning nothing is imposed. Readers are invited to reflect on unique and defining experiences, strengths, values, perspectives, and style and to begin creating their own work in progress. Coaching Models will be a compelling read for experienced coaches and new coach practitioners alike. Bethene LeMahieu Ed D Professional Coach and Conversation Conservationist Coaching Models: A Cultural Perspective encourages and assists students and practitioners of business coaching to develop and apply their own coaching models. The entire field of coaching will benefit from having coaches who use their models to continually improve their practice. The first part of this book presents the model development process by looking at the relationship among culture, beliefs, and behavior in the coaching context. It explains the importance of identifying cultural factors that influence the way coaches approach coaching interactions and their coaching models. The second section provides coaches with information and strategies for developing personalized coaching models, applying them to specific contexts, and reflecting on their interactions to refine their core coaching practices. The third part describes the evolution of the author's own coaching model, the Performance Coaching Model, and illustrates how one coach incorporates unique perspectives and sets of skills, knowledge, and experience in her coaching practice. Third Place

Learning Glyn M. Rimmington, Mara Alagic, 2008-06-01 The hybridity and dynamism of today's interconnected, interdependent, and culturally diverse world poses challenges and opportunities for learning and communication. This book introduces an approach to facilitate global learning opportunities while facing these challenges. The approach is based on the cage painting metaphor for dialogic co-construction of meaning and understanding of multiple perspectives. Resolving disorienting dilemmas or preconceptions requires a dialectic flow of thinking since the root of the problem may lay deep in person's beliefs and values. Such experiences might be transformative in their nature, causing change in person's perspective, better understanding the culture of themselves and other people, reflective and mindful inquiry into one's worldview, the third place processes. Misunderstandings are more prevalent when using technology, global reach between people from distant locations, different cultures. To prepare people for these challenges we offer a Web 2.0 based instructional design blueprint.

Dependent on the context and content of the planned activities the cage painting and global learning processes may be facilitated simultaneously or sequentially The approach presented in this book has attracted interest of educators in different disciplines as well as human resources leaders concerned with key characteristics of today s global business workers intercultural global communication and collaboration The ideas emerged from six years of studying ways in which we and our colleagues from 25 other countries integrated global learning into classrooms in a range of discipline areas In this book we explore the competences needed to communicate interculturally and avoid the effects of preconceptions on our communication and collaboration We review metaphors commonly used in intercultural communication and then introduce a new metaphor called Cage Painting The process of Cage Painting requires certain conditions during intercultural communication whether it is face to face or via global reach using technology The transformative processes that we undergo as we confront cultural disorienting dilemmas smiling being a simple example of one are named the Third Place
