Daly, 2016-03-17 This provocative new history of Ireland during the long 1960s exposes the myths of Ireland's modernisation Mary E Daly questions traditional interpretations which see these years as a time of prosperity when Irish society led by a handful of key modernisers abandoned many of its traditional values in its search for economic growth Setting developments in Ireland in a wider European context Daly shows instead that claims for the economic transformation of Ireland are hugely questionable Ireland remained one of the poorest countries in western Europe until the end of the twentieth century Contentious debates in later years over contraception divorce and national identity demonstrated continuities with the past that long survived the 1960s Spanning the period from Ireland's economic rebirth in the 1950s to its entry into the EEC in 1973 this is a comprehensive reinterpretation of a critical period in Irish history with clear parallels for Ireland today

recommendations to help Northern Ireland maximise its tourist potential and concludes that if government recognises the enormous economic impact of tourism and if private enterprise in co operation with statutory bodies can develop this recognition into a coherent strategy there is no reason why the success of tourism in the Republic of Ireland should not be replicated in Northern Ireland to the advantage of the whole island of Ireland and with Northern Ireland itself enjoying an equivalent status to Scotland and Wales as a UK tourist destination
