American Made Dan DiMicco, 2015-03-03 American manufacturing is on life support at least that's what most people think The exodus of jobs to China and other foreign markets is irreversible and anything that is built here requires specialized skills the average worker couldn't hope to gain Not so says Dan DiMicco chairman and former CEO of Nucor America's largest steel company He not only revived a major US manufacturing firm during a recession but helped galvanize the flagging domestic steel industry when many of his competitors were in bankruptcy or headed overseas In American Made he takes to task the politicians academics and political pundits who he contends are exacerbating fears and avoiding simple solutions for the sake of nothing more than their own careers and contrasts them with the postwar leaders who rebuilt Europe and Japan put a man on the moon and kept communism at bay We need leaders of such resolve today he argues who can tackle a broken job creation engine by restoring manufacturing to its central role in the US economy and cease creating fictitious service businesses where jobs evaporate after a year or two as in a Ponzi scheme With his trademark bluntness DiMicco tackles the false promise of green jobs and the hidden costs of outsourcing Along the way he shares the lessons he's learned about good leadership crisis management and the true meaning of innovation and maps the road back to robust economic growth middle class prosperity and American competitiveness

China's Disruptors Edward Tse, 2015-07-14 In September 2014 Chinese e-commerce giant Alibaba raised 25 billion in the world's biggest ever initial public offering Since then millions of investors and managers worldwide have pondered a fundamental question What's really going on with the new wave of China's disruptors Alibaba wasn't an outlier it's one of a rising tide of thriving Chinese companies mostly but not exclusively in the technology sector Overnight its founder Jack Ma appeared on the same magazine covers as American entrepreneurial icons like Mark Zuckerberg Ma was quickly followed by the founders of other previously little known companies such as Baidu Tencent and Xiaomi Over the past two decades an unprecedented burst of entrepreneurialism has transformed China's economy from a closed impoverished state-run system into a major power in global business As products in China become more and more sophisticated and as its companies embrace domestically developed technology we will increasingly see Chinese goods setting global standards Meanwhile companies in the rest of the world wonder how they can access the fast rising incomes of China's 1.3 billion consumers Now Edward Tse a leading global strategy consultant reveals how China got to this point and what the country's rise means for the United States and the rest of the world Tse has spent more than twenty years working with senior Chinese executives learning firsthand how China's most powerful companies operate He's an expert on how private firms are thriving in what is still officially a communist country His book draws on exclusive interviews and case studies to explore questions such as What drives China's entrepreneurs Personal fame and fortune or a quest for national pride and communal achievement How do these companies grow so quickly In 2005 Lenovo sold just one category of products personal computers in one market China Today not only is it the world's largest PC seller it is also the world's third largest smartphone seller How does Chinese culture shape the strategies and tactics of these business leaders Can outsiders copy what the Chinese are doing Can capitalists really thrive within a communist system How does Tencent's Pony Ma serve as a member of China's parliament while running a company that dominates online games and messaging What impact will China have on the rest of the world as its private companies enter new markets acquire foreign businesses and threaten established firms in countless industries As Tse concludes I believe that as a consequence of the opening driven by China's entrepreneurs the push to invest in science research and development and the new freedoms that people are enjoying across the country China has embarked on a renaissance that could rival its greatest era in history the Tang dynasty These entrepreneurs are the front line in China's intense hunger for success They will have an even more remarkable impact on the global economy in the future through the rest of this decade and beyond

Committee on Foreign Relations,1984 China's environmental policy in terms of European Union standards Jan Wiktor Tkaczyński,Łukasz Gacek,2020-11-16 It is beyond dispute that both China and the European Union stand to gain from promoting low carbon development through the dissemination of clean and renewable energy sources as this inevitably leads to increased environmental protection The depletion of fossil fuel resources and the accompanying changes in the global energy mix make Europe and China not only competitors in the global economic race but also nolens volens partners Their pragmatic partnership is characterized on the one hand by the need to take action to reduce the consumption of fossil fuels and on the other by the desire to minimize the negative environmental impact of their use Hence the existing and emerging cooperation between the two actors while challenging for a number of reasons is not only an attempt to set up channels to exchange vital information but also an exercise in setting the standards under which further cooperation will be forged

China's Peaceful Rise in a Global Context Jinghao Zhou,2010-04-02 China's rise has become inevitable but there is no agreement about whether China will rise peacefully or pose a threat to the United States The author asserts that both theories of China threat and peaceful rise failed to address China's central domestic problem Thus both theories are not convincing This book attempts to develop a third view of China's rise from a domestic perspective and contends that China's potential threat to the existing global order is not derived from her rapid economic growth and military expansion but from her potential domestic chaos A strong democratic China will contribute to the global peace but the collapse of China will gravely threaten Western societies The current Chinese political system directly contributes to this social instability and could possibly cause China's social crash China's democratization is the key to ensure China's peaceful rise in a global context However the Party is still in power and any attempt to dissolve the one party system in present day China has poor prospects China must take a two step gradual reform approach to complete the transition from an authoritarian regime to a democratic one In the two step theory the first phase for promoting China's democratization includes exercising freedom of media increasing the consciousness of citizen participation and enacting religious rights Through all these democratic exercises China will gradually be able to achieve a fully democratic society This two step theory is crucial for the United States if it is to enact effective foreign policy toward China and for China to develop a democratic harmonious society

Powerful Patriots Jessica Chen Weiss,2014 Why has the Chinese government sometimes allowed and sometimes repressed nationalist anti foreign protests What have been the international consequences of these choices Anti American demonstrations were permitted in 1999 but repressed in 2001 during two crises in US China relations Anti Japanese protests were tolerated in 1985 2005 and 2012 but banned in 1990 and 1996 Protests over Taiwan the issue of greatest concern to Chinese nationalists have never been allowed To explain this variation in China's response to nationalist mobilization Powerful Patriots argues that Chinese and other authoritarian leaders weigh both diplomatic and domestic incentives to allow and repress nationalist protests Autocrats may not face electoral constraints but anti foreign protests provide an alternative mechanism by which authoritarian leaders can reveal their vulnerability to public pressure. Because nationalist protests are costly to repress and may turn against the government, allowing protests demonstrates resolve and increases the domestic cost of diplomatic concessions. Repressing protests by contrast sends a credible signal of reassurance, facilitating diplomatic flexibility and signaling a willingness to spend domestic political capital for the sake of international cooperation. To illustrate the logic, the book traces the effect of domestic and diplomatic factors in China's management of nationalist protest in the post-Mao era (1978–2012) and the consequences for China's foreign relations.

The Domestic Dynamics Of China's Energy Diplomacy Chi Zhang, 2015-09-17

Since the beginning of the 21st century, China's energy diplomacy has been expanding rapidly and the country is searching for energy resources worldwide. This movement has not only improved China's energy security and international relations but also enabled the Chinese national oil companies (NOCs) to access new investment markets and implement development strategies. The Chinese government and the NOCs need each other's support to realise their respective interests. The interaction between the government and the NOCs will have a critical influence on China's energy diplomacy. The Domestic Dynamics of China's Energy Diplomacy explores the long neglected domestic dynamics of China's energy diplomacy, in particular the interaction of national and corporate interests. It argues that the convergence of national and corporate interests is the key momentum of China's energy diplomacy. It observes that the government–NOC relationship has been evolving with China's economic and enterprise reform. Finally, it tests the empirical evidence of the domestic dynamics of China's energy diplomacy against the three mainstream international political economy theories, showing their merits and shortcomings in explaining the phenomenon, before providing an alternative conceptualisation of the movement.
