Out Of Place Homeless Mobilizations Subcities And Contested Landscapes Suny:

Out of Place Talmadge Wright, 1997-05-08 Winner of the 1998 Distinguished Scholarship Award of the Section on Marxist Sociology of the American Sociological Association Homeless persons find themselves excluded repressed and displaced in all sectors of everyday life from punitive police and city zoning practices to media stereotypes Wandering through the streets of developing cities these poorest of the poor have no place to go More and more these city developments are not simply accepted passively rather resistance by organized homeless groups civil protests squatting and legal advocacy spread as conditions of everyday life deteriorate for the very poor Out of Place Homeless Mobilizations Subcities and Contested Landscapes details the development of two organized homeless resistances in two different cities From the redevelopment protesters and squatting activities of the Student Homeless Alliance in San Jose to the squatter camps of Tranquility City in Chicago the differences and similarities between both groups are highlighted within the context of city redevelopment policies Wright argues for considering homelessness not merely as an issue for social welfare but first and foremost as a land use issue directly connected to issues of gentrification displacement and the cultural imaginings of what the city should look like by those who have the power to shape its development How the homeless combat the restructurings of everyday life how they attempt to establish a place is understood within the context of tactical resistances Questions of collective identity and collective action are raised as a result of the successful organizing efforts of homeless groups who refuse to be victims The struggle between individual and collective forms of empowerment is highlighted with the conclusions pointing to the necessity to rethink and go beyond the traditional solutions of more housing and job training

Contested Landscapes of Poverty and Homelessness In Southern Europe Vassilis P. Arapoglou, Kostas Gounis, 2017-09-15 The book uses Athens as a case study to identify the key features of urban anti poverty policies in Greece and to discuss them in relation to policy developments in the crisis ridden countries of Southern Europe The idea of contested landscapes shapes the focus of the book on urban poverty and homelessness Contested landscapes refer to the complex dynamics between visible and invisible poverty and to competing strategies on how to address them The book takes a path dependent view on the development of post welfare arrangements devolution and pluralism that are being shaped by both neoliberal mentality solidarity and communitarian practices The authors draw on their own research and advocacy background in New York and Athens to shape their conceptual and methodological tools however rather than uncritically importing North American and North European concepts to Greece the book highlights the significance of distinctive Mediterranean features for analysing homelessness and anti poverty policies This will be a useful read for academics policy makers in areas of urban studies sociology social policy human geography and anthropology

Out of Place Talmadge Wright, 1997-01-01 Discusses the impact of inner city redevelopment programs and policies on the homeless and shows the methods used civil protests squatting and legal advocacy by the homeless to organize a tactical resistance to restructuring efforts Presents case studies of two different types of homeless organized resistance groups in Chicago and San Jose Out of Place Talmadge Wright, Out of Place Homeless Mobilizations Subcities and Contested Landscapes details the development of two organized homeless resistances in two different cities From the redevelopment protesters and squatting activities of the Student Homeless Alliance in San Jose to the squatter camps of Tranquility City in Chicago the differences and similarities between both groups are highlighted within the context of city redevelopment policies Wright argues for considering homelessness not merely as an issue for social welfare but first and foremost as a land use issue directly connected to issues of gentrification displacement and the cultural imaginings of what the city should look like by those who have the power to shape its development Participatory Critical Rhetoric Michael Middleton, Aaron Hess, Danielle Endres, Samantha Senda-Cook, 2015-12-16 Increasingly rhetorical scholars are using fieldwork and other ethnographic performance and qualitative methods to access document and analyze forms of everyday in situ rhetoric rather than using already documented texts In this book the authors argue that participatory critical rhetoric as an approach to in situ rhetoric is a theoretically methodologically and praxiologically robust approach to critical rhetorical studies This book addresses how participatory critical rhetoric furthers understanding of the significant role that rhetoric plays in everyday life through expanding the archive of rhetorical practices and texts emplacing rhetorical critics in direct conversation with rhetors and audiences at the moment of rhetorical invention and highlighting marginalized voices that might otherwise go unnoticed This book organizes the theoretical and methodological foundations of participatory critical rhetoric through four vectors that enhance conventional rhetorical approaches 1 the political commitments of the critic 2 rhetorical reflexivity and the role of the embodied critic 3 emplaced rhetoric and the interplay between the field text and context and 4 multiperspectival judgment that is informed by direct participation with rhetors and audiences In addition to laying the groundwork and advocating for the approach Participatory Critical Rhetoric also offers significant contributions to rhetorical theory and criticism more broadly by revisiting the field's understanding of core topics such as role of the critic text context audience rhetorical effect and the purpose of criticism Further it enhances theoretical conversations about material rhetoric place space affect intersectional rhetoric embodiment and rhetorical reflexivity The Production of Alternative Urban Spaces Jens Kaae Fisker, Letizia Chiappini, Lee Pugalís, Antonella Bruzzese, 2018-10-26 Alternative urban spaces across civic private and public spheres emerge in response to the great challenges that urban actors are currently confronted with Labour markets are changing rapidly the availability of affordable housing is under intensifying pressure and public spaces have become battlegrounds of urban politics This edited collection brings together contributors in order to spark an international dialogue about the production of alternative urban spaces through a threefold exploration of alternative spaces of work dwelling and public life Seeking out and examining existing alternative urban spaces the authors identify the elements that provide opportunities to create radically different futures for the world's urban spaces This volume is the culmination of an international search for alternative practices to dominant modes of capitalist urbanisation bringing together interdisciplinary empirically grounded chapters from hot spots in disparate cities around the world Offering a multidisciplinary perspective The Production of Alternative Urban Spaces will be of great interest to academics working across the fields of urban sociology human geography anthropology political science and urban planning It will also be indispensable to any postgraduate students engaged in urban and regional studies

Race, Real Estate, and Uneven Development, Second Edition Kevin Fox Gotham,2014-02-01 Updated second edition examining how the real estate industry and federal housing policy have facilitated the development of racial residential segregation

Traditional explanations of metropolitan development and urban racial segregation have emphasized the role of consumer demand and market dynamics In the first edition of Race Real Estate and Uneven Development Kevin Fox Gotham reexamined the assumptions behind these explanations and offered a provocative new thesis Using the Kansas City metropolitan area as a case study Gotham provided both quantitative and qualitative documentation of the role of the real estate industry and the Federal Housing Administration demonstrating how these institutions have promulgated racial residential segregation and uneven development Gotham challenged contemporary explanations while providing fresh insights into the racialization of metropolitan space the interlocking dimensions of class and race in metropolitan development and the importance of analyzing housing as a system of social stratification In this second edition he includes new material that explains the racially unequal impact of the subprime real estate crisis that began in late 2007 and explains why racial disparities in housing and lending remain despite the passage of fair housing laws and antidiscrimination statutes Praise for the First Edition This work challenges the notion that demographic change and residential patterns are natural or products of free market choices it contributes greatly to our understanding of how real estate interests shaped the hyper segregation of American cities and how government agencies including school districts worked in tandem to further demark the separate and unequal worlds in metropolitan life H Net Reviews H Education A hallmark of this book is its fine grained analysis of just how specific activities of realtors the FHA program and members of the local school board contributed to the residential segregation of blacks in twentieth century urban America A process Gotham labels the racialization of urban space the social construction of urban neighborhoods that links race place behavior culture and economic factors has led white residents realtors businessmen bankers land developers and school board members to act in ways that restricted housing for blacks to specific neighborhoods in Kansas City as well as in other cities Philip Olson University of Missouri Kansas City This is a book which is greatly needed in the field Gotham integrates using historical data the involvement of the real estate industry and the collusion of the federal government in the manufacturing of racially biased housing practices His work advances the struggle for civil rights by showing that solving the problem of racism is not as simple as banning legal discrimination but rather needs to address the institutional practices at all levels of the real estate industry Talmadge Wright author of Out of Place Homeless Mobilizations Subcities and Contested Landscapes Studies in Political Economy ,2004
