Life on a Cattle Station Michael Pelusey, Jane Pelusey, 2003 How often do you get the chance to meet outback people and find out about their daily lives and the work they do The authors of the Outback Australia series have driven thousands of kilometres to meet spend time with and record in words and photographs the daily lives of six families living in remote areas of Australia this is one

Kirrama Barbara Gunn, 2012-10-22 Kirrama Life on an Australian Cattle Station is real and as far removed from comfort and safety as anything you could find in the best fiction adventure novels It is the true life story of an average Texas ranching family who took a giant step across the boundary that lies between normal to extra ordinary adventure and sacrifice The Gunn family migrated from a small two thousand acre Central Texas ranch in Williamson County Texas to a beautiful one hundred and six thousand acre 166 sq mile cattle station ranch in Queensland Australia The family in this book is living proof of the true strength and courage we all possess when faced with a challenge How do we learn to live without modern comforts and the advanced technology that has become very much a part of our everyday existence Little did we realize at the beginning of our journey that we had seen the last of automatic washers dryers hot water heaters and electricity for many years Now we would experience the use of concrete rub boards graduating to gas powered wringer type washers The children would be home schooled Outpost radio was the only means of communication with the outside world as well as the Royal Flying Doctor Service for verbal diagnosis and treatment of all medical conditions There was no landing strip on this property located on a rough remote mountain range therefore the doctor could only be used to instruct in a verbal capacity Kirrama aboriginal meaning for lots of water will take you through camping experiences on rivers infested with saltwater crocodiles deadly snakes sharks wild hogs and dingoes You will enjoy the wild life of the graceful yet awkward looking kangaroos curious emus and beautiful colored parrots as well as the sad times of having to prepare a loved one for burial while experiencing aboriginal life in the Great Outback of The Land Down Under Sold on Reality Time Magazine September 27 2001 reported Reality TV such as Survivor II The Australian Outback was watched by hundreds of millions of people in more than forty countries by people fascinated with excitement adventure and reality far removed from the everyday routine of their lives Reality none the less being experienced by ordinary people like themselves it creates an awakening within them that each and everyone of us possess the basic human as well as spiritual strength to survive in situations outside the safety and comforts of our own normal lives Oprahs last show in Australia was a tremendous success People are in awe of the huge cattle stations the Great Barrier Reef the unusual animals and the whole of Australia in general The stories in Kirrama will take you from our long forty two hour travel time from Austin Texas U S A to Cairns Queensland Australia including the feelings and trials of moving to a new country on to the many moves to various cattle stations in very remote outback areas and finally to our new home with many more adventures and trials People Weekly magazine in their February 5 2001 addition covered the complete story of the arrival of the Survivor II crew to Goshen which was the adjoining station to Kirrama Station The faux Stone Age Tribal Council was actually built on the rocky edge above the Herbert River where Blenco Falls cascades for 500 feet into the Herbert River Gorge on Kirrama Station Kirrama was purchased by the Gunn family from Doug and Ruth Farquhar the Australian family who then purchased Goshen Station Much of Kirrama is written about this area as well as the very remote cattle stations in the Cape York Peninsula

Outback Stations Evan McHugh, 2012-07-25 From the helicopter I could see the property's waterholes surrounded by paperbark trees its red stone cliffs lit by the rising sun And grass endless seas of grass Here was the vision splendid Nat Buchanan's grass castle Gurindji country And my country Australia This is big country the outback home to the largest cattle and sheep stations in the world Yet few of us know what goes on behind the farm gate What's life really like when next door is 500 kilometres away and a day's work involves mustering livestock in their tens of thousands dealing with extreme heat and backbreaking physical labour Bestselling author Evan McHugh heads down the road to find out He goes behind the scenes at Adria Downs in the dead heart of Central Australia helps drive cattle from the air at Wave Hill and gets a lesson trapping dingoes at the remote Commonwealth Hill McHugh reveals the fascinating history of these outback stations and what it takes to work on one today Outback Stations is about as Australian as damper and dust Weekly Times

The Naked Farmer Ben Brooksby, 2020-10-27 Ben Brooksby is a fifth generation farmer from St Helens Plains in western Victoria When he was younger he struggled with anxiety and other mental health issues as do so many others in rural communities A simple social media post helped him to turn things around After he shared a photo on Instagram showing himself naked in a truck full of lentils he received a huge response with other farmers wanting to share their own photos and their stories As the Naked Farmer movement grew Ben met people from all around the country who wanted to get naked for mental health As they got their kits off they also opened up about their struggles This is a heartwarming moving and candid collection of stories of the challenges our farmers are facing and the way these communities are banding together in response Proudly supporting the Royal Flying Doctors Mental Health Service

Ob-scene Spaces in Australian Narrative. An Account of the Socio-topographic Construction of Space in Australian Literature Pablo Armellino, 2012-02-27 Ob scene Spaces in Australian Narrative is an exhaustive survey of Australian literature proposing itself as a journey through time and space With a careful selection of texts which recount Australian history from the early days of white colonization to the present this study endeavours to cast light on the process of socio topographic construction that the settlers imposed upon the continent As suggested by the title the textual inquiry conducted in this book is driven by the stimulating ambiguity that lies between physical space and its discursive construction A selection of canonical and non canonical texts by authors ranging from Henry Lawson to Christos Tsiolkas aims to reveal the relationship between the space of the city the scene and the outback the ob scene space beyond the metropolitan area and its role in the process of spatial construction that through the last two centuries has shaped Australia Pablo Armellino s distinctive approach to Australian literature makes Ob scene Spaces in Australian Narrative a very interesting work Using a carefully selected range of novels linked together using social and literary theory it recounts the history of colonization in Australia in a particularly approachable manner Through the analysis of each text the reader seamlessly learns about the expansion of the frontier the creation of an ob scene space beyond it and the use the Discourse makes of this mechanism These characteristics would appeal to both an academic audience which would appreciate the detailed text analysis and a general audience which would enjoy the historical and thematic aspect of the book Professor Carmen Concilio and Professor Pietro Deandrea Facolt di Lingue Universit di Torino

Handbook of South Australia David John Gordon, 1908 Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature Helen Frank, 2014-04-08 Cultural Encounters in Translated Children s Literature offers a detailed and innovative model of analysis for examining the complexities of translating children s literature and sheds light on the interpretive choices at work in moving texts from one culture to another The core of the study addresses the issue of how images of a nation locale or country are constructed in translated children s literature with the translation of Australian children s fiction into French serving as a case study Issues examined include the selection of books for translation the relationship between children s books and the national and international publishing industry the packaging of translations and the importance of titles blurbs and covers the linguistic and stylistic features specific to translating for children intertextual references the function of the translation in the target culture didactic and pedagogical aims euphemistic language and explicitation and literariness in translated texts The findings of the case study suggest that the most common constructs of Australia in French translations reveal a preponderance of traditional Eurocentric signifiers that identify Australia with the outback the antipodes the exotic the wild the unknown the void the end of the world the young and innocent nation and the Far West Contemporary signifiers that construct Australia as urban multicultural Aboriginal worldly and inharmonious are seriously under represented The study also shows that French translations are conventional conservative and didactic showing preference for an exotic rather than local specificity with systematic manipulation of Australian referents betraying a perception of Australia as antipodean rural exoticism The significance of the study lies in underscoring the manner in which a given culture is constructed in another cultural milieu especially through translated children s literature
