acute and chronic care settings face many obstacles to providing good care and are often the first line of defense related to patient safety and meeting the needs of patients and their families Some of the obstacles to optimal patient care are institutional some sociocultural and others the result of inadequate communication Evidence points to the idea that while nurses do have the knowledge and skills to address practice problems of various sorts they may not be confident in their skills of ethical decision making and advocacy actions This is a resource to develop moral agency on behalf of individuals and to address broader barriers to good care raised at the local community or social levels Bioethics in Social Context
