Outdoor Lighting: Physics, Vision and Perception Duco Schreuder, 2008-08-15 The present book is based on the experience of the author The experience is mainly the result of years of research of consulting work and in participation in policy decision making in many fields most but not all related to outdoor lighting To some degree the book represents the preference of the author The selection of the subjects is based on more than 50 years of experience of what is desirable to know for persons engaged in scientific research or practical application in the fields of lighting and vision The subjects deal with a number of fundamental aspects The theorists must have them at their fingertips whereas the practical engineers may assume them as known in their daily work The selection of subjects is based in part by the questions that came to the author over the years but even more by the preference of the author himself In this respect it is a personal book Thus it should be stressed that the book is not a handbook or even a textbook many subjects that commonly are treated in such books are not included here Not because they lack importance but because the author feels that they are adequately treated elsewhere Some relevant works are mentioned in the References Over the years the author has been engaged in giving courses on vision and lighting lately more in particular on Masterclasses on a post graduate or post doctorate level

Summit of the years John Burroughs,1913 The Selborne Pioneer Ted Dadswell,2017-03-02 Gilbert White s name is known universally but as Ted Dadswell insists in this book important aspects of his work have frequently been overlooked even by scholarly editors The Selborne naturalist 1720 1793 has been described as a prince of personal observers but a shrewd analytical questioning and comparing was also typical of his natural knowledge Exceptional even in his general aims White studied the behaviour the manners and conversation of his animals and plants He saw moreover that an animal or plant and indeed a parish such as his own was unitary in operation again and again a cause had numerous effects and an effect numerous causes Observation could go forward in circumstances such as these if one was both sharp eyed and patient but how could true investigation be managed How could a particular cause or effect be isolated or tested Here what Dadswell calls White s comparative habit was put to good use Gilbert White was a careful keeper of records and using these comparatively he appealed to controls while examining his living creatures Questioning and testing even the entirely usual White was brought back repeatedly to the notion of adaptability His zoological findings often concerned changed or changing animals or birds and their social and inter personal relationships Today we can seem particularly well placed to appreciate his methods and factual claims our ethologists and ecologists have seemingly corroborated much of what he did And yet just this corroboration renders him the more mysterious To properly assess White as naturalist we must be able to approach him not only scientifically but also historically He hoped for the emergence of teams of behavioural workers but did not try to preempt what would be achieved only by such teams and while he saw with his own eyes as his friend John Mulso says he was substantially affected by certain of his contemporaries and predecessors His journals and notebooks show us the naturalist at work When a perhaps unexpected combination of influences is allowed for his unique activities can be at least partially explained Book News ,1895 Theories of Visual Perception Ian E.
