Peter Farrelly

Outside Providence:

Outside Providence Peter Farrelly, 1998-10-06 Outside Providence is a hilarious yet melancholy novel of a young man's coming of age in the 1970s. When Timothy Dunphy, native of working class Pawtucket, Rhode Island, is packed off to a fancy prep school, he finds that the privileged elite is hardly immune to life's screwups. Dunphy must reconcile his pedigreed schoolmates with his mongrel friends back home, including Drugs Delaney whose diet consists mainly of vitamin Qs, Quaaludes, and Bunny Cote who thinks New England is a state not far below. Dunphy's comic demeanor churns powerful fears of abandonment by those he loves best: his mother, his girlfriend, and his closest friend. And he must come to terms with his complex relationship with the person he hates most: his father. As he struggles to live with the paradox of somehow loving the same man he blames for his family's tragedies, Dunphy begins to understand and accept life's betrayals and learns how to trust in love.

A companion web site will present audio of each poet's work.

Calling Natasha Trethewey, Mexico 1969: Why not make a fiction of the mind's fictions? I want to say it begins like this: the trip a pilgrimage, my mother kneeling at the altar of the Black Virgin, enthralled, light streaming in a window, the sun at her back, holy water in a bowl she must have touched. What's left is palimpsest, one memory bleeding into another, overwriting it. How else to explain what remains? The sound of water in a basin I know is white, the sun behind her, light streaming in her face as if she were already dead, blurred as it will become. I want to imagine her before the altar, rising to meet us, my father lifting me toward her outstretched arms. What else to make of the mind's slick confabulations? What comes back is the sun's dazzle on a pool's surface, light filtered through water, closing over my head, my mother, her body between me and the high sun, a corona of light around her face. Why not call it a vision? What I know is this: I was drowning and saw a dark Madonna, someone pulled me through the water's bright ceiling and I rose initiate from one life into another Unbeaten Mike Stanton, 2018-06-26
