Eratosthenes' Geography Eratosthenes, 2010-01-04 This is the first modern edition and first English translation of one of the earliest and most important works in the history of geography, the third-century BC Geographika of Eratosthenes. In this work, which for the first time described the geography of the entire inhabited world as it was then known, Eratosthenes of Kyrene (ca. 285-205 BC) invented the discipline of geography as we understand it. A polymath who served as librarian at Alexandria and tutor to the future King Ptolemy IV, Eratosthenes created the terminology of geography, probably including the word geographia itself. Building on his previous work in which he determined the size and shape of the earth, Eratosthenes in the Geographika created a grid of parallels and meridians that linked together every place in the world for the first time; one could figure out the relationship and distance between remote localities such as northwest Africa and the Caspian Sea. The Geographika also identified some four hundred places more than ever before, from Thule (probably Iceland) to Taprobane (Sri Lanka) and from well down the coast of Africa to Central Asia. This is the first collation of the more than 150

fragments of the Geographika in more than a century Each fragment is accompanied by an English translation a summary and commentary Duane W Roller provides a rich background including a history of the text and its reception a biography of Eratosthenes and a comprehensive account of ancient Greek geographical thought and of Eratosthenes pioneering contribution to it This edition also includes maps that show all of the known places named in the Geographika appendixes a bibliography and indexes

Strabo's Geography Strabo,2024-06-11 A lively new translation of Strabo s complete Geography an encyclopedic guide to the ancient world of the first century CE connecting it with the world of the twenty first century Strabo s Geography is an encyclopedic description of the ancient world as it appeared to a contemporary observer in the early Roman empire Information about taming elephants collecting saffron producing asphalt and practicing yoga is found alongside accounts of prostitution volcanic activity religious festivals and obscure eastern dynasties all set against the shifting backdrop of political power in the first century CE Traveling around the Mediterranean Strabo gathered knowledge of places and people supplementing his firsthand experiences with an immense amount of reading to create a sweeping chronicle that attempts to answer the implicit questions Who are we and Where do we come from Sarah Pothecary s new translation of Strabo s complete Geography makes this important work more accessible relevant and enjoyable than ever before Conveying the informal lively and almost journalistic style of Strabo s Greek this translation connects the ancient and modern worlds by providing modern names and maps for places mentioned in the text a generous page layout and marginal notes allowing readers to appreciate Strabo s work directly and immediately The result mimics what Strabo was doing two thousand years ago relating the rapidly changing present of his original readers to their own ancient past A remarkably modern translation of a revealing window on the ancient world this is essential reading for anyone interested in how we look at both antiquity and the world today
