Individuals as Producers of Their Development Richard M Lerner, Nancy A. Busch-Rossnagel, 2013-09-03

Individuals as Producers of Their Development A Life Span Perspective provides an assessment of the usefulness of viewing the individual as an active contributor to his or her development It extends the breadth of organism environment reciprocities beyond those involved with the child and family On the one hand this extension involves a consideration of the role of evolutionary biological processes on the other it pertains to the broader ecology of human development the social network lying outside the family and the physical environmental contexts of development Person context reciprocities linked to variables that may play their greatest role in the extrafamilial context are also considered Variables such as physical attractiveness race and physical handicap are examples of those discussed in this regard Finally because of the greater scope of the analysis a potentially greater data base is examined in a search for documentation of the presence and role of dynamic person context interactions

Portraits of Pioneers in Developmental Psychology Wade E. Pickren, Donald A. Dewsbury, Michael Wertheimer, 2012 First Published in 2012 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

Development in Context Robert H. Wozniak, Kurt W. Fischer, 2014-02-04 In this volume leading developmentalists address the question of how children's thinking develops in context by drawing on the theories of Vygotsky Gibson and Piaget Analyses of the ecology and the dynamics of behavior have become popular emphasizing the particulars of people acting in specific environments and the many complex factors of human body and mind that contribute to action and thought This volume brings together many of the current efforts to deal with development in this richly ecological dynamic way The research reported demonstrates that recent years have produced major shifts in approach Activities are studied as they naturally occur in everyday contexts Children's active construction of the world around them is treated as fundamentally social in nature occurring in families with peers and in cultures Behavior is studied not as something disembodied but within a rich matrix of body emotion belief value and physical world Behavior is analyzed as changing dynamically not only over seconds and minutes but over hours days and years

Effective Early Childhood Education Lotty Eldering, Paul P.M. Leseman, 2002-12-24 In examining child development and early educational intervention strategies from cross cultural perspectives this work brings together several recent theoretical insights the results of empirical research and experiences with well evaluated early educational intervention programs Its purpose is to constructively examine current international strategies of early education and literacy for disadvantaged children

The Development of Emotion Regulation and Dysregulation Judy Garber, 1991-05-31 Provides a developmental perspective of the regulation and dysregulation of emotion in particular how children learn about feelings and how they learn to deal with both positive and negative feelings Emotion regulation involves the interaction of physical behavioral and cognitive processes in response to changes in one's emotional state. The changes can be brought on by factors internal to the individual (e.g., biological) or external (e.g., other people). Featuring contributions from leading researchers in developmental psychopathology, the volume concentrates on recent theories and data concerning the development of emotion regulation with an emphasis on both intrapersonal and interpersonal processes. Original conceptualizations of the reciprocal influences among the various response systems (neurophysiological, biochemical, behavioral, expressive, and subjective/experiential) are provided, and the individual chapters address both normal and psychopathological forms of emotion regulation, particularly depression and aggression from infancy through adolescence. This book will appeal to specialists in developmental clinical and social psychology, psychiatry, education, and others interested in understanding the developmental processes involved in the regulation of emotion over the course of childhood.

Lifespan Development in Context Tara L. Kuther, 2023-02-24 Award-winning author Tara Kuther presents Lifespan Development in Context, Second Edition, a topically oriented edition of her bestselling text that provides a panoramic view of the many influences that shape human development. Kuther's student-friendly narrative illustrates how the places, sociocultural environments, and ways in which we are raised influence who we become and how we grow and change throughout our lives. Three core themes resonate throughout each chapter and across each developmental domain and topic: the centrality of context, the importance of research, and the applied value of developmental science. Foundational theories and classic studies are woven together with contemporary research and culturally diverse perspectives for a full, updated introduction to the field that is both comprehensive and concise. Case studies, real-world applications, and video examples ignite critical thinking and class discussion, ensuring students have the tools they need to apply course concepts to their lives and future careers.

Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, Socioemotional Processes, 2015-03-31 The essential reference for human development theory, updated and reconceptualized, The Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science is a four-volume reference that is the field-defining work to which all others are compared. First published in 1946 and now in its Seventh Edition, the Handbook has long been considered the definitive guide to the field of developmental science. Volume 3, Social, Emotional, and Personality Development, presents up-to-date knowledge and theoretical understanding of these several facets of social, emotional, and personality processes. The volume emphasizes that any specific processes, functions, or behaviors discussed in the volume co-occur alongside and are inextricably affected by the dozens of other processes, functions, or behaviors that are the focus of other researchers' work. As a result, the volume underscores the importance of a focus on the whole developing child and his or her sociocultural and historical environment. Understand the multiple processes that are interrelated in personality development. Discover the individual cultural, social, and economic processes that contribute to the social, emotional, and personality development of individuals. Learn about the several individual and contextual contributions to the development of such facets of the individual as morality, spirituality, or aggressive violent behavior Study the processes that contribute to the development of gender sexuality motivation and social engagement The scholarship within this volume and as well across the four volumes of this edition illustrate that developmental science is in the midst of a very exciting period There is a paradigm shift that involves increasingly greater understanding of how to describe explain and optimize the course of human life for diverse individuals living within diverse contexts This Handbook is the definitive reference for educators policy makers researchers students and practitioners in human development psychology sociology anthropology and neuroscience How Children Develop Robert S. Siegler, Judy S. DeLoache, Nancy Eisenberg, 2003 An highly anticipated new text for the topically organized child development course written by three of the field's most accomplished researchers
