Strategic Writing Mini-Lessons for All Students, Grades 4–8 Janet C. Richards, Cynthia A. Lassonde, 2013 Short lessons with a big impact Respond to your writers needs with mini lessons that will improve their craft and confidence From the start the I Can chapter sets up writers to know what they can do by learning to note and record their own strengths Every chapter models strategies that foster students self regulated independent writing and includes adaptations that show how to adjust teaching for advanced writers writers who struggle English language learners and extending the strategies across content areas Each mini lesson is laid out step by step for ease of use including sections on materials needed modeling the lesson student practice and independent writing Text-based Learning and Reasoning Charles A. Perfetti, M. Anne Britt, Mara C. Georgi, 2012-12-06 History is both an academic discipline and a school subject As a discipline it fosters a systematic way of discovering and evaluating the events of the past As a school subject American history is a staple of middle grades and high school curricula in the United States In higher education it is part of the liberal arts education tradition Its role in school learning provides a context for our approach to history as a topic of learning In reading history students engage in cognitive processes of learning text processing and reasoning This volume touches on each of these cognitive problems centered on an in depth study of college students text learning and extended to broader issues of text understanding the cognitive structures that enable learning of history and reasoning about historical problems Slated to occupy a distinctive place in the literature on human cognition this volume combines at least three key features in a unique examination of the course of learning and reasoning in one academic domain history The authors draw theory and analysis of text understanding from cognitive science and focus on multiple natural texts of extended length rather than laboratory texts as well as multiple and extended realistic learning situations The research demonstrates that history stories can be described by causal temporal event models and that these models capture the learning achieved by students This text establishes that history learning includes learning a story but does not assume that story learning is all there is in history It shows a growth in students reasoning about the story and a linkage developed over time and with study between learning and reasoning It then illustrates that students can be exceedingly malleable in their opinions about controversial questions and generally quite influenced by the texts they read And it presents patterns of learning and reasoning within and between individuals as well as within the group of students as a whole By examining students ability to use historical documents this volume goes beyond story learning into the problem of document based reasoning The authors show not just that history is a story from the learner s point of view but also that students can develop a certain expertise in the use of documents in reasoning

Narrative Development Michael Bamberg, 2012-11-12 Growing out of an International Society of the Study of Behavioral Development sponsored symposium this book discusses the basic assumptions that led the contributors to conduct research in the field of narrative development This collection gathers their research reflections and varying approaches to narrative and its development It illustrates each type of approach and highlights their respective motives The book presents some of the basic motivating assumptions of each approach and provides insight into what holds each set of assumptions together potentially transforming them into actions This book will serve as an excellent text for courses emphasizing multiple approaches to the study of narrative The editor has organized this volume in accordance with the six main points of the symposium Specification of the Domain how narratives are defined in terms of textual structures knowledge thereof interactive moves sociocultural conventions and the like The Individual s Involvement in the Developmental Process the relationship between some internal or external forces and the organism s own active participation in the developmental process The Course of Development if it is continuous or discontinuous whether it proceeds in an additive fashion or whether regressive phases occur and what changes at different points in the developmental process signify The Goal of Development the implicit notion of a telos a target or end point that needs to occur in the developmental process Mechanisms of Development the forces and or conditions that both instigate the developmental process and keep it moving toward its telos Methodology where and how to look in the establishment of a developmental framework This book is an indispensable text in the fields of narrative and or discourse linguistics language studies psychology and education in general

Dimensions of Literacy Stephen B. Kucer, 2004-12-13 This popular text examines literacy from a multidimensional and interdisciplinary perspective It unpackages the various dimensions of literacy linguistic cognitive sociocultural and developmental and at the same time accounts for the interrelationships among them The goal is to provide a conceptual foundation upon which literacy curriculum and instruction in school settings can be grounded Relating Events in Narrative Ruth A. Berman, Dan Isaac Slobin, 2013-06-17 This volume represents the culmination of an extensive research project that studied the development of linguistic form function relations in narrative discourse It is unique in the extent of data which it analyzes more than 250 texts from children and adults speaking five different languages and in its crosslinguistic typological focus It is the first book to address the issue of how the structural properties and rhetorical preferences of different native languages English German Spanish Hebrew and Turkish impinge on narrative abilities across different phases of development The work of Berman and Slobin and their colleagues provides insight into the interplay between shared possibly universal patterns in the developing ability to create well constructed globally organized narratives among preschoolers from three years of age compared with school children and adults contrasted against the impact of typological and rhetorical features of particular native languages on how speakers express these abilities in the process of relating events in narrative This volume also makes a special contribution to the field of language acquisition and development by providing detailed analyses of how linguistic forms come to be used in the service of narrative functions such as the expression of temporal relations of simultaneity and retrospection perspective taking on events and textual connectivity To present this information the authors prepared in depth analyses of a wide range of linguistic systems including tense aspect marking passive and middle voice locative and directional predications connectivity markers null subjects and relative clause constructions In contrast to most work in the field of language acquisition this book focuses on developments in the use of these early forms in extended discourse beyond the initial phase of early language development The book offers a pioneering approach to the interactions between form and function in the development and use of language from a typological linguistic perspective The study is based on a large crosslinguistic corpus of narratives elicited from preschool school age and adult subjects All of the narratives were elicited by the same picture storybook Frog Where Are You by Mercer Mayer An appendix lists related studies using the same storybook in 50 languages The findings illuminate both universal and language specific patterns of development providing new insights into questions of language and thought

Relating Events in Narrative: Typological and contextual perspectives

Sven Strömquist, Ludo Th Verhoeven, 2004 This follow up volume to the frog story studies book Relating Events in Narrative A Cross Linguistic Developmental Study 1994 is divided into two main parts Part one focuses on crosslinguistic perspectives whilst part two offers a variety of theoretical and methodological perspectives

Relating Events Narrative Set Various Authors, 2020-12-29 This volume represents the culmination of an extensive research project that studied the development of linguistic form function relations in narrative discourse It is unique in the extent of data which it analyzes more than 250 texts from children and adults speaking five different languages and in its crosslinguistic typological focus It is the first book to address the issue of how the structural properties and rhetorical preferences of different native languages English German Spanish Hebrew and Turkish impinge on narrative abilities across different phases of development The work of Berman and Slobin and their colleagues provides insight into the interplay between shared possibly universal patterns in the developing ability to create well constructed globally organized narratives among preschoolers from three years of age compared with school children and adults contrasted against the impact of typological and rhetorical features of particular native languages on how speakers express these abilities in the process of relating events in narrative This volume also makes a special contribution to the field of language acquisition and development by providing detailed analyses of how linguistic forms come to be used in the service of narrative functions such as the expression of temporal relations of simultaneity and retrospection perspective taking on events and textual connectivity To present this information the authors prepared in depth analyses of a wide range of linguistic systems including tense aspect marking passive and middle voice locative and directional predications connectivity markers null subjects and relative clause constructions In contrast to most work in the field of language acquisition this book focuses on developments in the use of these early forms in extended discourse beyond the initial phase of early language development

Relating Events in Narrative, Volume 2 Ludo Verhoeven, Sven Stromqvist, 2004-02-13

Relating Events in Narrative Volume 2 Typological and Contextual Perspectives edited by Sven Strmqvist and Ludo Verhoeven is the much anticipated follow up volume to Ruth Berman and Dan Slobin's successful frog story studies book Relating Events in Narrative A Crosslinguistic Developmental Study 1994 Working closely with Ruth Berman and Dan Slobin the new editors have brought together a wide range of scholars who inspired by the 1994 book have all used Mercer Mayer's Frog Where Are You as a basis for their research The new book which is divided into two parts features a broad linguistic and cultural diversity Contributions focusing on crosslinguistic perspectives make up the first part of the book This part is concluded by Dan Slobin with an analysis and overview discussion of factors of linguistic typology in frog story research The second part offers a variety of theoretical and methodological perspectives all dealing with contextual variation of narrative construction in a wide sense variation across medium modality speech writing signing genre variation the specific frog story narrative compared to other genres frog story narrations from the perspective of theory of mind and from the perspective of bilingualism and second language acquisition Several of the contributions to the new book manuscript also deal with developmental perspectives but in distinction to the 1994 book that is not the only focused issue The second part is initiated by Ruth Berman with an analysis of the role of context in developing narrative abilities The new book represents a rich overview and illustration of recent advances in theoretical and methodological approaches to the crosslinguistic study of narrative discourse A red thread throughout the book is that crosslinguistic variation is not merely a matter of variation in form but also in content and aspects of cognition A recurrent perspective on language and thought is that of Dan Slobin's theory of thinking for speaking an approach to cognitive consequences of linguistic diversity The book ends with an epilogue by Herbert Clark Variations on a Raritanian Theme Psychoanalysis and Development Massimo Ammaniti, Daniel N. Stern, 1994-10 Examines the growth of representation and narratives in the history and practice of psychoanalysis Explores the close and necessary relationship between Freud's theories of representation the building of an internal mental world allowing us to give meaning to our experiences and narration the idea that personal experience might assume the character of a narrative and illustrates how they have developed the language of therapy and affected the practice of both psychoanalysis and developmental psychology
