

Their Eyes Were Watching God Annotated

The MLA database returned 168 bibliographic entries containing the subject heading 'Their Eyes Were Watching God.' In choosing which entries to include in this annotated bibliography, my objective was to represent as many interpretive approaches to the text as possible in order to illustrate the exponential expansion in the scope of Hurston studies in recent years.

Also, because of the condensed time frame of this class, I only reviewed items that are available to UAH students on campus or online, although this criterion excluded several significant critical responses to the novel. Unless otherwise noted, the full texts of all of the articles listed here can be retrieved via EBSCOhost. Ashe, Bertram D. "'Why Don't He Like My Hair?': Constructing African-American Standards of Beauty in Toni Morrison's Song of Solomon And Zora Neale Hurston's Their Eyes Were Watching God." African American Review 29. (Winter 1995): 579-93. Because of the strong social pressure to conform to predefined notions of conventional (read European) beauty that the dominant culture exerts on all American women, Black women have historically been judged as attractive or unattractive according to the degree to which their facial features, hair, and skin color conform to European norms. In Their Eyes, although Hurston describes Janie as having light skin and long hair, Janie does not isolate herself from dark-skinned African Americans.

Janie's hair is linked to her self-esteem and her engagement in the community, and as such, it becomes the battleground of her struggles with Joe Starks. Janie's choice of hairstyle after Starks' death ("one thick braid swinging well below her waist") can be interpreted as a phallic image that metaphorically refers to her newfound power and self-determination. Brogan, Jacqueline Vaught. "The Hurston/Walker/Vaughn Connection: Feminist Strategies in American Fiction." Women's Studies 28. 2 (1999): 185-201.

In positing an interpretive framework for Elizabeth Vaughn's 1990 novel, Many Things Have Happened Since He Died, Brogan discusses the relationship between Walker's The Color Purple and Hurston's Their Eyes. She notes that both novels have been criticized for failing as realistic fiction, both can be interpreted as romances in the vein of Shakespeare's The Tempest and The Winter's Tale, and both deal thematically with the 'awakening' of an abused female. Curren, Erik D. "Should Their Eyes Have Been Watching God? : Hurston's Use of Religious Experience and Gothic Horror." African American Review 29. (Spring 1995): 17-26. Critics have not sufficiently accounted for the complexity of Their Eyes, and many analyses have followed Alice Walker's contention that Janie is a depiction of "racial health." A less biased reading of the text reveals much tragedy and horror that few critical interpretations have addressed. The novel's title refers to the incipient slave mentality of African Americans, demonstrated by the field hands' reversion to enslaved patterns of

Martin,1996 This book brings together a sensitive understanding of love and an unusually careful even painstaking analysis of the enormous but often neglected role of morality and the virtues in love Martin s discussions of such virtues as caring courage fidelity and honesty are superb the examples well chosen the argument personal but nevertheless rigorous the prose accessible and enjoyable to read From Modernist Entombment to Postmodernist Exhumation Lisa K. Perdigao,2016-04-22 How fictional representations of dead bodies develop over the twentieth century is the central concern of Lisa K Perdigao s study of American writers Arguing that the crisis of bodily representation can be traced in the move from modernist entombment to postmodernist exhumation Perdigao considers how works by writers from F Scott Fitzgerald William Faulkner Willa Cather and Richard Wright to Jody Shields Toni Morrison Octavia Butler and Jeffrey Eugenides reflect changing attitudes about dying death and mourning For example while modernist writers direct their plots toward a transformation of the dead body by way of metaphor postmodernist writers exhume the transformed body reasserting its materiality Rather than viewing these tropes in oppositional terms Perdigao examines the implications for narrative of the authors apparently contradictory attempts to recover meaning at the site of loss She argues that entombment and exhumation are complementary drives that speak to the tension between the desire to bury the dead and the need to remember indicating shifts in critical discussions about the body and about the function of aesthetics in relation to materialized violence and loss
