American Frontier Activities in Asia Young Hum Kim, 1981

Transnational Frontiers of Asia and Latin America since 1800 Jaime Moreno Tejada, Bradley Tatar, 2016-08-19 Frontiers are wild The frontier is a zone of interaction between distinct polities peoples languages ecosystems and economies but how do these frontier spaces develop If the frontier is shaped by the policing of borders by the modern nation state then what kind of zones regions or cultural areas are created around borders This book provides 16 different case studies of frontiers in Asia and Latin America by interdisciplinary scholars charting the first steps toward a transnational and transcontinental history of social development in the borderlands of two continents Transnationalism provides a shared focus for the contributions drawing upon diverse theoretical perspectives to examine the place making projects of nation states Through the lenses of different scales and time frames the contributors examine the social processes of frontier life and how the frontiers have been created through the exertions of nation states to control marginal or borderland peoples The most significant cases of industrialization resource extraction and colonization projects in Asia and Latin America are examined in this book reveal the incompleteness of frontiers as modernist spatial projects but also their creativity as sources of new social patterns new human adaptations and new cultural outlooks and ways of confronting power and privilege The incompleteness of frontiers does not detract from their power to move ideas peoples and practices across borders both territorial and conceptual In bringing together Asian and Latin American cases of frontier making this book points toward a comparativist and cosmopolitan approach in the study of statecraft and modernity For scholars of Latin America and or Asia it brings together historical themes and geographic foci providing studies accessible to researchers in anthropology geography history politics cultural studies and other fields of the human sciences New Frontiers in Asia Philip Jacob Jaffe, 2012-06-01 The Ili Rebellion Linda K. God's Mission in Asia Ken Christoph Miyamoto, 2007-06-15 Ecumenism in postwar Asia institutionalized in the Christian Conference of Asia displayed a remarkable this worldliness from its inception in the 1940s This tendency was in contrast to the tension between the church centric and world centric approaches to Christian mission that marked conciliar mission thinking in the West This work examines the development of such this worldly holiness in Asian ecumenism focusing on M M Thomas of India and C S Song from Taiwan Special attention is drawn to the idea of God's this worldly presence that considers God as redemptively at work in world history apart from the church The study first compares the development of this worldly holiness in the West and Asia and then examines the thinking of Thomas and Song The chapters on these two theologians discuss their backgrounds the basic concerns motivating their intellectual searches and responses to the questions arising from such concerns These chapters also try to understand how these theologians view the relationship between God and the world In so doing the study highlights the significance of the idea of God's this worldly presence shared by Thomas and Song in spite of differences in their backgrounds approaches and theological formulations Having compared Thomas and Song the study concludes that the idea of God's this worldly presence became central to Asian ecumenism because it offered a common unifying vision to Asian Christians who come from a region characterized by tremendous diversity The idea helped them to see the diverse peoples cultures and religions in Asia under one God who transcends the diversity and still takes it seriously

Power, Networks and Violent Conflict in Central Asia Idil Tunçer-Kılavuz, 2014-06-27

When the five Central Asian republics gained independence from the Soviet Union in 1991, expectations of violent conflict were widespread. Indeed, the country of Tajikistan suffered a five-year civil war from 1992 to 1997. The factors that the literature on civil wars in general and on the Tajikistan civil war in particular cites as the causes of war were also present in Uzbekistan, but this country had a peaceful transition. Examining this empirical puzzle by isolating the crucial factors that caused war to break out in Tajikistan but not Uzbekistan, this book applies a powerful comparative approach to the broader question of why civil wars occur. Based on fieldwork in both countries, it challenges many common explanations of civil war both generally and in Tajikistan in particular. This includes highlighting the importance of elites' power perceptions which have their origins in the interaction of structural process and network-related variables. Without examining these interactions, macro-structural explanations alone cannot explain the occurrence of civil war in one country and its absence in another. Applying the insights of bargaining theories of war from the literature on international relations to the civil war in Tajikistan, this book will be of interest to students of violent conflict, civil wars, Central Asia, and Asian Politics.
