New Life For The College Curriculum:

New Life for the College Curriculum Jerry G. Gaff, 1991-11-06 Gaff's central thesis that curricular change is a necessary but not sufficient condition for lasting general education reform should be tacked on the door of every faculty committee that ever set out to improve undergraduate education Russell Edgerton President American Association for Higher Education

Shaping the College Curriculum Lisa R. Lattuca, Joan S. Stark, 2011-01-11 Shaping the College Curriculum focuses on curriculum development as an important decision making process in colleges and universities The authors define curriculum as an academic plan developed in a historical social and political context They identify eight curricular elements that are addressed intentionally or unintentionally in developing all college courses and programs By exploring the interaction of these elements in context they use the academic plan model to clarify the processes of course and program planning enabling instructors and administrators to ask crucial questions about improving teaching and optimizing student learning This revised edition continues to stress research based educational practices The new edition consolidates and focuses discussion of institutional and sociocultural factors that influence curricular decisions All chapters have been updated with recent research findings relevant to curriculum leadership accreditation assessment and the influence of academic fields while two new chapters focus directly on learning research and its implications for instructional practice A new chapter drawn from research on organizational change provides practical guidance to assist faculty members and administrators who are engaged in extensive program improvements Streamlined yet still comprehensive and detailed this revised volume will continue to serve as an invaluable resource for individuals and groups whose work includes planning designing delivering evaluating and studying curricula in higher education This is an extraordinary book that offers not a particular curriculum or structure but a comprehensive approach for thinking about the curriculum ensuring that important considerations are not overlooked in its revision or development and increasing the likelihood that students will learn and develop in ways institutions hope they will The book brings coherence and intention to what is typically an unstructured haphazard and only partially rational process guided more by beliefs than by empirically grounded substantive information Lattuca and Stark present their material in ways that are accessible and applicable across planning levels course program department and institution local settings and academic disciplines It's an admirable and informative marriage of scholarship and practice and an insightful guide to both Anyone who cares seriously about how we can make our colleges and universities more educationally effective should read this book Patrick T Terenzini distinguished professor and senior scientist Center for the Study of Higher Education The Pennsylvania State University New Life for Historically Black Colleges and Universities Vann R. Newkirk, 2014-01-10 In December 2008 Georgia state senator Seth Harp ignited controversy when he proposed merging two historically Black colleges with nearby predominantly white colleges to save money Less than a year later Mississippi governor Haley Barbour sought to unite Mississippi's three predominantly Black colleges These efforts kindled renewed interest in historically Black colleges and universities HBCUs across the nation and the globe In this study HBCU officials and faculty attempt to identify the challenges that HBCUs face explore the historic origin of HBCU management systems and identify models of success that will improve the long term viability of the HBCU By analyzing HBCUs within a larger framework of American higher education and the cultural context in which HBCUs operate these essays introduce a new paradigm in the quest to ensure that HBCUs continue to play an important role in the education of Americans of all races

New Life Courses, Social Risks and Social Policy in East Asia Raymond K. H. Chan, Jens Zinn, Lih-Rong Wang, 2015-10-30 Social policy in modern industrialised societies is increasingly challenged by new social risks These include insecure employment resulting from ever more volatile labour markets new family and gender relationships resulting from the growing participation of women in the labour market and the many problems resulting from very much longer human life expectancy Whereas once social policy had to be in step with a standardised relatively stable and predictable life course it now has to cope with non standardised individual preferences life courses and families and the consequent increased risks and uncertainties This book examines these new life courses and their impact on social policy across a range of East Asian societies It shows how governments and social welfare institutions have been slow to respond to the new challenges In response we propose a life course sensitised policy as an approach to manage these risks Overall the book provides many new insights which will assist advance social policy in East Asia

Spencer,2009-10-28 In this scintillating heart wrenching and tear eliciting autobiography From New Mills to New Life Joshua Spencer shares his extraordinary experiences from birth to his fiftieth year It starts in Albion Montego Bay where the author was born but where he spent the least of his life of half of a century It then extends to several other areas of his native land but finds as its pivot a small impoverished district known as New Mills where he spent much time in a little shamble he called home with his grandmother A home that lacked the basic facilities and necessities such as electricity and water From New Mills to New Life radiates back and forth to its pivot but in an orderly sequential fashion until it culminates in Canada It exposes all the challenges and successes that the author experiences in both jurisdictions including family challenges being on the verge of bankruptcy and so on It describes quite liberally his weaknesses and his strengths those challenges he conquers and those he approaches optimistically in the future You will cry intermittently laugh regularly and even get deeply saddened sporadically as you share in this masterpiece From New Mills to New Life A New Life Bernard

Malamud,2004-09-13 An overlooked masterpiece It may still be undervalued as Malamud s funniest and most embracing novel Jonathan Lethem In A New Life Bernard Malamud generally thought of as a distinctly New York writer took on the American myth of the West as a place of personal reinvention When Sy Levin a high school teacher beset by alcohol and bad decisions leaves the city for the Pacific Northwest to start over it s no surprise that he conjures a vision of the extraordinary new life awaiting him there He imagined the pioneers in covered wagons entering this valley for the first time Although he had lived little in nature Levin had always loved it and the sense of having done the right thing in leaving New York was renewed in him Soon after his arrival at Cascadia College however Levin realizes he has been taken in by a mirage The failures pile up anew and Levin fired from his post finds himself back where he started and little the wiser for it A New Life as Jonathan Lethem s introduction makes clear is Malamud at his best with his belief in luck and new beginnings Sy Levin embodies the thwarted yearning for transcendence that is at the heart of all Malamud s work The Writing Program
