Tria Kerkvliet, 2019-06-15 Since 1990 public political criticism has evolved into a prominent feature of Vietnam's political landscape So argues Benedict Kerkvliet in his analysis of Communist Party ruled Vietnam Speaking Out in Vietnam assesses the rise and diversity of these public displays of disagreement showing that it has morphed from family whispers to large scale use of electronic media In discussing how such criticism has become widespread over the last three decades Kerkvliet focuses on four clusters of critics factory workers demanding better wages and living standards villagers demonstrating and petitioning against corruption and land confiscations citizens opposing China's encroachment into Vietnam and criticizing China Vietnam relations and dissidents objecting to the party state regime and pressing for democratization He finds that public political criticism ranges from lambasting corrupt authorities to condemning repression of bloggers to protesting about working conditions Speaking Out in Vietnam shows that although we may think that the party state represses public criticism in fact Vietnamese authorities often tolerate and respond positively to such public and open protests Out of the Cain-Life into the Christ-Life Rev.
