Journal of the Royal Australian Historical Society Royal Australian Historical Society, 1991 Includes the Society's Annual report and statement of accounts Walkabout, 1941 An Australian Ramble; Or, A Summer in Australia J. Ewing Ritchie, 2021-11-05 In An Australian Ramble Or A Summer in Australia J. Ewing Ritchie offers an immersive narrative that captures the essence of 19th century Australia through a series of vivid firsthand accounts. The book is marked by a rich literary style that blends travelogue with personal reflection, evoking the landscapes, cultures, and unique characters encountered during his journey. Ritchie's work can be situated within the broader context of colonial literature, which often seeks to understand and document the complexities of newly explored territories while grappling with the interplay of nature and civilization. J. Ewing Ritchie was a prolific Scottish author and journalist whose keen observations and articulate prose reflect his deep curiosity and engagement with the world. His experiences traveling through Australia during a period of significant social and economic change provided him with a unique perspective that enriched his narrative. Ritchie's commitment to accurately portraying the Australian landscape and its inhabitants may have stemmed from his larger ambition to promote a better understanding of imperial expansion and its implications. This book is highly recommended for readers interested in travel literature, colonial history, and those seeking a nuanced portrayal of Australia's early days. Ritchie's engaging approach invites readers to share in his adventures, stimulating both the imagination and a desire for exploration.

Outback to Asia Stuart Dick, 2002 Outback to Asia is the true story of a Vietnam war dissenter, the author who left a career and home in America in 1972 in search of the truth about communism and Vietnam. The trip begins with lofty ideals and fervent convictions, but those values melt in the face of obstacles, temptations, and adventures along the way, traversing three continents. The mission to reach the killing fields of Asia leads the author into the depths of dysentery in Mexico, the enchantment of lovely ladies on the Great Barrier Island of New Zealand, and the perils of crossing the Outback of Australia in a 1951 Rover touring sedan. Broken and discouraged, the author finds hope stranded on an Aboriginal settlement and purpose in a providential meeting in Adelaide, Australia. These adventures set the table for a new level of providential confrontations manifest in the killing fields of Asia, in Laos and Bangladesh, and the spiritual dominions of Buddhism, Hinduism, and Lamaism. The ultimate contest awaits the homecoming prodigal pilgrim when

Architecture as Cultural and Political Discourse Daniel Grincer, 2016-02-26 This book is concerned with cultural and political discourses that affect the production of architecture It examines how these discursive mechanisms and technologies combine to normalise and aestheticise everyday practices It queries the means by which buildings are appropriated to give shape and form to political aspirations and values Architecture is not overtly political It does not coerce people to behave in certain ways However architecture is constructed within the same rules and practices whereby people and communities self govern and regulate themselves to think and act in certain ways This book seeks to examine these rules through various case studies including the reconstructed Notre Dame Cathedral the Nazi era Munich Königsplatz Auschwitz concentration camp and the Prora resort Sydney's suburban race riots and the Australian Immigration Detention Centre on Christmas Island
