Outback House Behind The Scenes Of The Abc Television Series:

Outback House Bernard Lynam,Ivo Burum,Jenny O'Meara,2005 In 2004 the ABC posted an advertisement asking people whether they wanted to take part in a social experiment an ABC TV eight part series along the same lines of such popular hits as The Edwardian Country House and The 1940s House This time people were invited to apply for positions on a working squatter s sheep station set in the 1860s Everyone involved would have to live dress eat and work exactly as they did then isolated for three months from the outside world The Outback House is the companion volume to the series looking behind the scenes and explaining the historical social and economic way of life of the time From descriptions of crutching sheep to wearing crinolines from making butter to treating body lice and all the social and farming dramas in between life in the Outback House is compelling and utterly fascinating reading

The Tube Has Spoken Julie Taddeo,2010-09-12 Featuring ordinary people celebrities game shows hidden cameras everyday situations and humorous or dramatic situations reality TV is one of the fastest growing and important popular culture trends of the past decade with roots reaching back to the days of radio The Tube Has Spoken provides an analysis of the growing phenomenon of reality TV its evolution as a genre and how it has been shaped by cultural history This collection of essays looks at a wide spectrum of shows airing from the 1950s to the present addressing some of the most popular programs including Alan Funt s Candid Camera Big Brother Wife Swap Kid Nation and The Biggest Loser It offers both a multidisciplinary approach and a cross cultural perspective considering Australian Canadian British and American programs In addition the book explores how popular culture shapes modern western values for example both An American Family and its British counterpart The Family showcase the decline of the nuclear family in response to materialistic pressures and the modern ethos of individualism This collection highlights how reality TV has altered the tastes and values of audiences in the twentieth and twenty first centuries It analyzes how reality TV programs reflect the tensions between the individual and the community the transformative power of technology the creation of the celebrity and the breakdown of public and private spheres

The Nation on Screen Enric Castelló,Alexander Dhoest,2020-07-24 But we can still rise now runs a line of Scotland s unofficial national anthem Flower of Scotland and be the nation again who defeated the English King Edward II in 1314 at the Battle of Bannockburn These short lines tell us much about the concept of the nation Firstly the pronoun of the nation is we Secondly nationhood remains aspirational for some while it is entirely taken for granted for others Thirdly nations often trace their origins back to an implausibly dim and distant past Finally it points to the fundamentally discursive nature of the nation the nation appears not as something which simply is but as something which can be called into existence through talk official documents official and unofficial national anthems ceremonies and parades monuments and statuary press coverage and increasingly television This book which arose out of a conference held in Tarragona in 2007 focuses on the complex discourses of the nation to be found in the television systems of twelve different countries examining how these circulate in fiction in news and documentary including re enactment formats and in entertainment programmes adverts and the coverage of large scale sporting events The nation which emerges is everywhere and nowhere talked about endlessly but never finally grasped repeatedly staged and re enacted but lacking a foundational script In short it is a site of struggle The stakes are high since the nation when mobilised is a force to be reckoned with and the on going attempts to define it are many varied and often highly creative This book details many such events from the high drama of war reporting to the self mocking irony of ten second commercial spots

Revisiting the Past in Museums and at Historic Sites Anca I. Lasc, Andrew McClellan, Anne Söll, 2021-11-01 Revisiting the Past in Museums and at Historic Sites demonstrates that museums and historic spaces are increasingly becoming backdrops for all sorts of appropriations and interventions that throw new light upon the objects they comprise and the pasts they reference Rooted in new scholarship that expands established notions of art installations museums period rooms and historic sites the book brings together contributions from scholars from intersecting disciplines Arguing that we are witnessing a paradigm shift concerning the place of historic spaces and museums in the contemporary imaginary the volume shows that such institutions are merging traditional scholarly activities tied to historical representation and inquiry with novel modes of display and interpretation drawing them closer to the world of entertainment and interactive consumption Case studies analyze how a range of interventions impact historic spaces and conceptions of the past they generate The book concludes that museums and historic sites are reinventing themselves in order to remain meaningful and to play a role in societies aspiring to be more inclusive and open to historical and cultural debate Revisiting the Past in Museums and at Historic Sites will be of interest to students and faculty who are engaged in the study of museums art history architectural and design history social and cultural history interior design visual culture and material culture

Alternate History Kathleen Singles, 2013-10-14 While strictly speaking Alternate Histories are not Future Narratives their analysis can shed a clear light on why Future Narratives are so different from past narratives Trying to have it both ways most Alternate Histories subscribe to a conflicting set of beliefs concerning determinism and freedom of choice contingency and necessity For the very first time Alternate Histories are here discussed against the backdrop of their Other Future Narratives The volume contains in depth analyses of the classics of the genre such as Philip K Dick's The Man in the High Castle and Philip Roth's The Plot against America as well as less widely discussed manifestations of the genre such as Dieter Kuhn's N Christian Kracht's Ich werde hier sein im Sonnenschein und im Schatten and Quentin Tarantino's film Inglourious Basterds

The A to Z of Australian Radio and Television Albert Moran, Chris Keating, 2009-08-04 Australians have become increasingly visible outside of the country as speakers and actors in radio and television their media moguls have frequently bought up foreign companies and people around the world have been able to enjoy such Australian productions as The Flying Doctors Neighbours and Kath and Kim The origins early development and later adaptations of radio and television show how Australia has gone from being a minor and rather parochial player to being a significant part of the international scene The A to Z of Australian Radio and Television provides essential facts and information concerning the Australian radio and television industry This is accomplished through the use of a chronology an introductory essay a bibliography and hundreds of cross referenced dictionary entries on directors producers writers actors television and radio series and television and radio stations

History on Television Ann Gray, Erin Bell, 2013-01-03 In recent years non fiction history programmes have flourished on television This interdisciplinary study of history programming identifies and examines different genres employed by producers and tracks their commissioning production marketing and distribution histories With comparative references to other European nations and North America the authors focus on British history programming over the last two decades and analyse the relationship between the academy and media professionals They outline and discuss often competing discourses about how to do history and the underlying assumptions about who watches history programmes History on Television considers recent changes in the media landscape which have affected to a great degree how history in general and whose history in particular appears onscreen Through a number of case studies using material from interviews by the authors with academic and media professionals the role of the professional historian and that of media professionals commissioning editors and producer directors as mediators of historical material and interpretations is analysed and the ways in which the logics of television shape historical output are outlined and discussed Building on their analysis Ann Gray and Erin Bell ask if history on television fulfils its potential to be a form of public history through offering as it does a range of interpretations of the past to and originating from or including those not based in the academy Through consideration of the representation or absence of the diversity of British identity gender ethnicity and race social status and regional identities the authors substantially extend the scope of existing scholarship into history on television History on Television will be essential reading for all those interested in the complex processes involved in the representation of history on television

Consuming History Jerome de Groot, 2016-02-08 Consuming History examines how history works in contemporary popular culture Analysing a wide range of cultural entities from computer games to daytime television it investigates the ways in which society consumes history and how a reading of this consumption can help us understand popular culture and issues of representation In this second edition Jerome de Groot probes how museums have responded to the heritage debate and how new technologies from online game playing to internet genealogy have brought about a shift in access to history discussing the often conflicted relationship between public and academic history and raising important questions about the theory and practice of history as a discipline Fully revised throughout with up to date examples from sources such as Wolf Hall Game of Thrones and 12 Years a Slave this edition also includes new sections on the historical novel gaming social media and genealogy It considers new ground breaking texts and media such as YouTube in addition to entities and practices such as re enactment that have been underrepresented in historical discussion thus far Engaging with a broad spectrum of source material and comparing the experiences of the UK the USA France and Germany as well as exploring more global trends Consuming History offers an essential path through the debates for readers interested in history cultural studies and the media

Public and Popular History Jerome De Groot, 2013-09-13 This interdisciplinary collection considers public and popular history within a global framework seeking to understand considerations of local domestic histories and the ways they interact with broader discourses Grounded in particular local and national situations the book addresses the issues associated with popular history in a globalised cultural world such as how the study of popular history might work in the future new ways in which the terms popular and public might inform one another and nuance scholarship transnational intercultural models of pastness cultural translatability and the demand for high quality work on new technologies and history A wide range of international contributors consider a broad selection of locale and media from American television and Canadian heritage to the representation of history in contemporary Chinese culture They consider the way in which the study of public or popular texts invoke multiple historiographies and demonstrate our need to think about public and popular aspects of the past in new emerging locales such as China Eastern Europe and South America This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Rethinking History
