Outer City:

Dynamic Interpretation of Early Cities in Ancient China Hong Xu, 2021-06-14 This book offers an archaeological study on China's ancient capitals. Using abundant illustrations of ancient capital sites, it verifies the archaeological discoveries with documentary records. The author introduces the dynamical interpretation of each ancient capital to the interpretation of the entire development history of China's ancient capitals. The book points out that for most of the almost 2000 years from the earliest Erlitou to the Ye city, there was an era where ancient capitals didn't have outer enclosures due to factors such as the strong national power, the military and diplomatic advantage, the complexity of the residents, and the natural conditions. Thus, an era of the huge ancient capitals without guards lasting for over 1000 years formed. The concept that China's ancient capitals don't have outer enclosures presented in the book questions the traditional view that every settlement has walled enclosures. Combining science with theory, it offers researchers of history a clear understanding of the development process of China's ancient capitals. *Experimental Field Test of the Model Ice Cream Truck Ordinance in Detroit. Ferguson, 1972 The Urban Turn Høgni Kalsø Hansen, Lars Winther, 2012-09-04 With emerging new markets and strong competition from low wage countries, globalisation processes have transformed the economies of Denmark and Europe. As a result, know-how and innovation have become key focus points for many firms in their quest for economic growth. Firms not only need talented employees but also proximity to the knowledge institutions, markets, and global linkages that are available in the large urban regions. Presenting an overview and analysis of the contemporary location distribution and dynamics of economic activity, The Urban Turn with focus on the knowledge economy and talent emphasises the importance of cities and city regions for the generation of economic growth in modern capitalism. The aim of the book is to examine the relationship between the knowledge economy and city regions and the way in which this relationship challenges local and regional development. The Urban Turn will appeal to scholars and master students of human geography, urban and regional studies, and planning, city planners, and people with an interest in the spatial dynamics of contemporary capitalism. Transit and the Polycentric City J. B. Schneider, 1981 City of 201 Gods Jacob Olupona, 2011-12-13 In a study that challenges familiar Western modes of thought, Jacob K. Olupona focuses on one of the most important religious centers in Africa and in the world: the Yorùbá city of Il Ife in southwest Nigeria. The spread of Yorùbá traditions in the African diaspora has come to define the cultural identity of millions of black and white people in Brazil, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Trinidad, and the United States. Seen through the eyes of a native, this first comprehensive study of the spiritual and cultural center of the Yorùbá religion tells how the city went from great prominence to near obliteration and then rose again as a contemporary city of gods. Throughout, Olupona corroborates the indispensable linkages between religion, cosmology, migration, and kinship as espoused in the power of royal lineages, hegemonic state structure, gender, and the Yorùbá sense of place, offering the fullest structures and relationships and how ordinary people perceive and use green spaces quite often at variance with official designs The European City and Green Space looks at these and other issues through the prism of four metropolises London Stockholm Helsinki and St Petersburg All represent different types of North European city yet each has experienced distinctive economic political and cultural trajectories whilst also facing powerful challenges and problems of similar kinds with regard to green space This volume examines how each has responded to them and what patterns emerge The Cities of Song China I Bao Weimin, 2025-06-25 This first volume of a two volume set on Song Dynasty cities examines the innovative urban institutions and management practices that emerged during this period The book compares the urban landscape and administrative system in the Song Dynasty with those of the Tang Dynasty It challenges the conventional view that the transition from Tang to Song marked a shift from an enclosed ward system to a relatively open compartmentalized system Instead it argues for a significant transformation of the ward system rather than its complete disappearance The study examines the establishment of urban firefighting systems based on the concept of the Corner and analyzes the flourishing of urban markets under various forms of control and restriction It also discusses the challenges posed by the emergence of a liberal commodity economy within traditional Chinese society This volume will be essential reading for scholars and students of Chinese history and urban studies as well as urban planners historians and policy makers interested in understanding historical approaches to urban development and management

Care Management in Social and Primary Health Care David Challis, John Chesterman, Rosemary Luckett, Karen Stewart, 2018-10-24 This title was first published in 2003 This book provides an evaluation of the Gateshead Community Care Scheme which was devised as an alternative to residential and hospital care for frail elderly people An important feature of the scheme was the decentralization of control of resources to individual social workers acting as care managers with defined caseloads and expenditure limits to ensure accountability The initial social care scheme was subsequently extended to provide both health and social care to clients from a large general practice based in a health centre The social care team was enlarged to include a nurse care manager and part time doctor and physiotherapist The study examines the operation of care management in both settings the use of devolved budgets and services developed the outcomes for clients and carers and the costs of care Admissions to residential care were reduced and the elderly people who received the scheme's support experienced a better quality of care and greater well being when compared with elderly people receiving the usual range of services This was achieved at no greater cost The characteristics of those for whom the scheme was most appropriate are described In addition the pattern of development of the scheme as it was incorporated into the mainstream of the Social Services and after the implementation of the NHS and Community Care Act are examined Finally the implications for the development of care management are considered
