Scrutinising Science The Changing Uk Government Of Science:

Scrutinising Science R. Boden,D. Cox,M. Nedeva,K. Barker,2003-12-17 By the 1980s UK government research laboratories were an often quirky but always essential part of the state sector In one of the most radical experiments in the organization and management of scientific research attempted in the UK successive Conservative governments sought to reform these laboratories by applying the market based solution of New Public Management Scrutinising Science explores and critiques that reform process by examining the laboratories new organizational forms the new visions of what science is for implicit in the reform agenda and the new forms of scientific knowledge production that have arisen as a consequence

Scrutinising Science Rebecca Boden,2004 For many laboratories this meant some form of privatisation for the remainder it meant a significant degree of marketisation within the public sector Scrutinising Science explores and critiques that reform process by examining the laboratories new organisational forms the new visions of what science is for as defined in the reform agenda and the new forms of scientific knowledge production that have arisen as a consequence BOOK JACKET

Towards European Science Linda Wedlin, Maria Nedeva, 2015-12-18 Since the European Research Area was launched at the beginning of the century significant efforts have been made to realise the vision of a coherent space for science and research in Europe But how does one define such a space and measure its development This timely book analyses the dynamics of change in the policy and governance of science and research within Europe over the past decade It widens the scope of traditional policy analysis by focusing attention on the interaction between policy rationales new governance mechanisms and the organisational dynamics of the scientific field The contributors build a novel analytical framework to understand the European research space as one shifting from a fragmented space of Science in Europe to one that is labeled European Science The chapters explore the dynamics of this shift through the lenses of political science organisation theory science policy and related analytical traditions Towards European Science is an interdisciplinary book which will attract a wide set of scholars and professionals interested in science policy governance and scientific practice It will also be of use to university leaders and managers as well as policy makers and practitioners working on issues of internationalisation and the Europeanisation of science

Handbook of Public Funding of Research Benedetto Lepori, Ben Jongbloed, Diana Hicks, 2023-03-02 Given the recent re evaluation of research funding policy as an issue central to national governments and the EU it is imperative that underlying rationales and channels for investment in research and development are examined A pioneering analysis of the complexity allocation and management of public funding of research this Handbook explores the strategies whereby research can be successfully targeted and supported to resolve problems of broad public concern

World Yearbook of Education 2008 Debbie Epstein, Rebecca Boden, Rosemary Deem, Fazal Rizvi, Susan Wright, 2013-01-11 This volume examines higher education in globalized conditions through a focus on the spatial historic and economic relations of power in which it is embedded Distinct geometries of power are emerging as the knowledge production capability of universities is increasingly globalized Changes in the organization and practices of higher education tend to travel from the West to the rest Thus distinctive geographies of knowledge are being produced intersected by geometries of power and raising questions about the recognition production control and usage of university produced knowledge in different regions of the world What flows of power and influence can be traced in the shifting geographies of higher education How do national systems locate themselves in global arenas and what consequences does such positioning have for local practices and relations of higher education How do universities and university workers respond to the increasing commodification of knowledge How do consumers of knowledge assess the quality of the goods on offer in a global marketplace The 2008 volume of the World yearbook addresses these questions highlighting four key areas Producing and Reproducing the University How is the university adapting to the pressures of globalization Supplying Knowledge What structural and cultural changes are demanded from the university in its new role as a free market supplier of knowledge Demanding Knowledge Marketing and Consumption How can consumers best assess the quality of education on a global scale Transnational Academic Flows What trends are evident in the flow of students knowledge and capital with what consequences The 2008 volume is interdisciplinary in its approach drawing on scholarship from accounting finance and human geography as well as from the field of education Transnational influences examined include UNESCO and OECD GATS and the effects of digital technologies Contrasting contexts include Central and Eastern Europe Finland China and India and England With its emphasis on the interrelationship of knowledge and power and its attention to emergent spatial inequalities Geographies of Knowledge Geometries of Power Framing the Future of Higher Education provides a rich and compelling resource for understanding emergent practices and relations of knowledge production and exchange in global higher education

Strategic Science in the Public Interest G. Bruce Doern, Jeffrey S. Kinder, Jeff Kinder, 2007-01-01 The past twenty years have seen considerable shifts and struggles in government science that is in the way the state funds supports regulates conducts and uses scientific and technological activity Focusing on federal labs and agencies Strategic Science in the Public Interest explores how these labs have been located within and often buried by the larger commercially focussed federal innovation agenda G Bruce Doern and Jeffrey S Kinder examine four labs whose mandates deal with the Alberta oil sands environmental technologies wildlife research and mining and metals respectively The authors use these cases to explain why a better middle level approach to analysis is needed for strategic public interest centred government science They illustrate the importance of understanding the variety as well as the similarity of federal science and technology labs and agencies and of instituting policies that reflect this diversity The growing importance of Related Science Activities RSA is also explored as well as the core trade offs between commercial and public goods science in their mandates and their internal capacities

Research for the Developing World Bruce Currie-Alder, 2015-10-08 Research for the developing world can generate evidence on the effectiveness of foreign aid invent new technologies that serve poor people and strengthen research capabilities in poor countries How do countries determine which of these policy goals to pursue Examining the United Kingdom Canada and Australia reveals how each country established a unique approach to research funding Programs and grantmaking evolved in response to various expectations across government tempered by the need to remain credible in the scientific community This book explores the histories of the UK Department for International Development DFID Canada's International Development Research Centre IDRC and the Australian Centre for International

Agricultural Research ACIAR Looking back changes in research governance encouraged a shift towards whole of government priorities shorter timeframes for realizing results and performance predicated on academic productivity and research impact Whereas funders used to encourage small is beautiful with local experiments in development today the emphasis is on getting to scale delivering innovation through self financing models Looking forward research for the developing world is fading as part of development assistance yet rising as collaboration on common global challenges Funders are adopting new definitions of performance and actively shaping policy to connect science and international development Leaders are brokering partnerships that connect research governance at home and abroad bridging the incentives towards academic productivity and research impact In short the future of research for the developing world is moving from foreign aid to science diplomacy

Applied Science Robert Bud, 2024-03-28 For almost two centuries the category of applied science was widely taken to be both real and important Then its use faded How could an entire category of science appear and disappear By taking a longue dure approach to British attitudes across the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Robert Bud explores the scientific and cultural trends that led to such a dramatic rise and fall He traces the prospects and consequences that gave the term meaning from its origins to its heyday as an elixir to cure many of the economic cultural and political ills of the UK eventually overtaken by its competitor technology Bud examines how applied science was shaped by educational and research institutions sociotechnical imaginaries and political ideologies and explores the extent to which non scientific lay opinion mediated by politicians and newspapers could become a driver in the classification of science

A History of Genomics across Species, Communities and Projects Miguel García-Sancho, James Lowe, 2023-03-31 This open access book offers a comprehensive overview of the history of genomics across three different species and four decades from the 1980s to the recent past It takes an inclusive approach in order to capture not only the international initiatives to map and sequence the genomes of various organisms but also the work of smaller scale institutions engaged in the mapping and sequencing of yeast human and pig DNA In doing so the authors expand the historiographical lens of genomics from a focus on large scale projects to other forms of organisation They show how practices such as genome mapping sequence assembly and annotation are as essential as DNA sequencing in the history of genomics and argue that existing depictions of genomics are too closely associated with the Human Genome Project Exploring the use of genomic tools by biochemists cell biologists and medical and agriculturally oriented geneticists this book portrays the history of genomics as inseparably entangled with the day to day practices and objectives of these communities The authors also uncover often forgotten actors such as the European Commission a crucial funder and forger of collaborative networks undertaking genomic projects In examining historical trajectories across species communities and projects the book provides new insights on genomics its dramatic expansion during the late twentieth century and its developments in the twenty first century Offering the first extensive critical examination of the nature and historicity of reference genomes this book demonstrates how their affordances and limitations are shaped by the involvement or absence of particular communities in their production

Corporate Governance and the Nuclear Industry Barry Pemberton, 2015-09-16 Corporate Governance and the Nuclear Industry explores the UK nuclear Legacy governance issues associated with the decommissioning of a range of early generation civil nuclear facilities This book traces how we got here and the risks that have been taken whilst presenting new research and thinking that is required to manage our nuclear Legacy The book addresses a new analytical approach using notions of governance to review key historic events This approach analyses these events using concepts of stakeholder control accountability and regulation Using these concepts and undertaking a more detailed analysis of the Legacy s current governance arrangements the conventional public sector based solutions that attempt to harness private sector expertise this book will contrast these with government responses to determine the degree of control over the Legacy and any possible control issues Corporate Governance and the Nuclear Industry concludes that we need to recognise the legacy s problems as exceptional rather than prosaic and suggests that this requires exceptional governance solutions rather than the current form that is clearly failing

Economics of the European Union Michael Artis, Frederick Nixon, 2007-05-17 The new edition of this successful text analyses the current economic issues facing a rapidly changing Europe The authors combine policy history and data to present a global perspective of the EU written with a range of students taking an introductory module in European Economics in mind With new material on the economic relationship between the EU and the US Enlargement and the Lisbon process the authors consider the changing landscape and Europe s development as a major global player The authors use history theory and analysis including comparative data to evaluate Economic policies ranging from the Common Agricultural Policy and Competition Policy to Social Policy and Monetary Policy and to assess issues such as unemployment and foreign aid The contributors are drawn from a range of Universities such as Vienna Manchester Brussels LSE and Purdue as well as institutions such as the IMF and the European Central Bank      The Transformation of University Institutional and Organizational Boundaries Emilia Primeri, Emanuela Reale, 2015-11-02 An emerging issue in higher education studies is that of boundaries crossing This is the main topic of the book The transformation of University institutional and organizational boundaries Several signals of shifting boundaries can be envisaged in higher education and research institutions which could be glimpsed through organizations the institutions and changes to the academic profession That of boundaries crossing in Higher Education is a complex and heterogeneous issue which characterizes scientific knowledge today and represents a key issue when looking at University transformations across contexts and policies instruments and practices The analysis of boundaries supplies interpretative frameworks for the interactions between the development of professions and disciplines as well as the relationships of the science with various parts of society such as state professionals and the market Fuelling further the discussion on HEIs transformations allows capturing changes in the function objectives and scope of higher education and research institutions the move beyond sectoral and disciplinary boundaries and the increasingly blurred boundaries of academic professions and of scientific work Public policies and HE reforms can push or impede the mentioned transformations but they can also derive from individual likelihood of moving in blurring spaces or from the transformations of the epistemic communities and the emergence of new fields and sectors Hence changes are there open to our observations

The Crisis of Innovation in Water and Wastewater Duncan A. Thomas, Roger R. Ford, 2005-01-01 This is an extremely well researched and documented book The authors hypothesis is that the current water and wastewater sector is failing the populations of the western world by clinging to orthodox and short term visions of new technology and innovation and also failing the developing nations by believing that delivery of western world high technology solutions is a contribution to humanitarian development This is the crisis of innovation To many practitioners in the water industry the book will be perceived to be hypercritical of the incrementalism conservative and dogged traditionalism of the sector but in fact it is stimulating and positive In the latter chapters an alternate more holistic model of water development is described There needs to be a movement from large central infrastructure resources to distributed systems that are more appropriate to local needs and can be coupled with environmentally sustainable energy sources and practices Tim Lack European Topic Centre on Water UK Whilst acknowledging a massive leap from standpipe to universal water provision in 100 years in developed countries the authors of this book see problems for global sustainable water supply and wastewater removal in the future Using the UK water industry as an example they describe the global water industry as risk averse and unwilling to innovate a view that is encouraged by the institutional and financial regimes under which it works The book explores the reasons for concern and sets out some hard hitting views on how the water industry is failing to identify and tackle the essential problems in a world which is becoming ever more depleted of fresh water The concluding chapter brings to a focus the problems of the crisis in innovation and gives some concrete suggestions for tackling them This volume should raise the awareness of policymakers and regulators technologists and concerned members of the public Peter Chave Independent Consultant and formerly Head of Pollution Control National Rivers Authority UK This significant new book highlights a little acknowledged but potentially catastrophic crisis of innovation in the global water sector which institutions and industries are frighteningly ill equipped to tackle or even accept It suggests potential new technology and policy approaches to overcome both current and future problems The book explores how technological innovation is vital to help provide sustainable water in both the UK and developing countries However innovation is being overlooked in the face of global trends to privatize and regulate water utilities The authors highlight how the global water sector is failing to respond to increasingly complex world needs and continues to build largely unsustainable centralized infrastructures opposing more appropriate distributed and local modern technologies The book also includes suggestions for potentially innovative technology and policy solutions to meet escalating global water and wastewater demands Importantly the authors adopt a long term perspective that crosses both disciplinary and institutional boundaries and include an international comparative perspective covering a diverse range of examples and countries This comprehensive book will have a broad appeal amongst researchers and academics with an interest in technology management innovation studies geography and development studies It will also be a valuable asset for water regulators and governmental and non governmental organisations working in this field Innovation, Science, Environment 07/08 G. Bruce Doern, 2007-03-01 This second volume in the ISE series examines the reshaping of ISE policy in the context of multi level governance and policy Contributors examine climate change policy innovation in the natural resources sector the internet pharmacy trade biotechnology policy and governance provincial government renewable energy policies the psychological and human nature connection with sustainable development policies procurement policy and innovation the Canadian Institutes of Health Research and the commercialization of Canada s universities
