Studying Transcultural Literary History Gunilla Lindberg-Wada,2006 Today s spectrum of research in literary studies is characterized by a sense of openness to the methods of comparative literature and cultural studies along with a wide range of interdisciplinary crossover The spectrum Literaturwissenschaft series is intended to be a forum for this pluralistic new model of literary studies It presents papers that are informed by methodologically innovative frequently comparative approaches and whose findings are of importance well beyond the narrow boundaries of national philological horizons

English National Identity and the Image of the Dutch Andrew Fleck,2024-01-03 This book makes newly visible the sustained engagement of the English and the Dutch throughout a critical century in their cultural and national development It reads a broad selection of early modern literary texts some never before treated in Anglophone scholarship in which the Dutch and the English wrote about each other and themselves This interdisciplinary study brings to light the key affinities of these two nations their embrace of liberty turn toward Protestantism and pursuit of commerce It shows that as Catholic colonial powers worked to prevent the rise of early modern Europe s two great Protestant states those similarities as well as a combination of English admiration envy and distrust of the Dutch produced an emulous rivalry that remade the two nations and their literature Transatlantic Literary Studies Susan Manning,Andrew Taylor,2007 This reader brings together a wide range of material that engages with the theoretical and literary possibilities of the transatlantic as an arena for textual and intellectual exchange In their introduction to the volume the editors suggest ways in which the transatlantic paradigm offers renewed possibilities for literary study that for too long has been tied to the ideological and political requirements of the nation state The reader is designed to provide accessible annotated examples of theoretical frameworks that might provoke further work in the field as well as important pieces of literary criticism that demonstrate different possibilities of comparative analysis The book aims to represent and promote the conceptualisation of American culture within a broader framework of transatlantic activity

 William James Bennie Pienaar, 1971

The Transnational in Literary Studies Kai Wiegandt, 2020-07-06 This volume clarifies the meanings and applications of the concept of the transnational and identifies areas in which the concept can be particularly useful The division of the volume into three parts reflects areas which seem particularly amenable to analysis through a transnational lens The chapters in Part 1 present case studies in which the concept replaces or complements traditionally dominant concepts in literary studies These chapters demonstrate for example why some dramatic texts and performances can better be described as transnational than as postcolonial and how the transnational underlies and complements concepts such as world literature Part 2 assesses the advantages and limitations of writing literary history with a transnational focus These chapters illustrate how such a perspective loosens the epistemic stranglehold of national historiographies but they also argue that the transnational and national agendas of literary historiography are frequently entangled The chapters in Part 3 identify transnational genres such as the transnational historical novel transnational migrant fiction and translinguistic theatre and analyse the specific poetics and politics of these genres
