Shift! Craig Elias, Tibor Shanto, 2010-06-25 There is a silver bullet in sales its called timing when you get to highly motivated decision makers at EXACTLY the right time after they experience a Trigger Event BUT before they call your competition When you have the right timing the sale almost happens by itself There are few challenges getting to the prospect understanding their dissatisfaction presenting a solution or closing the sale By luck or sheer numbers youve had timing happen before not its time to make it happen again and again and again simple but profound truths that will help you leverage intent for immediate action and cut down the selling cycle while creating lasting bonds with customers Stephen M R Covey author of the New York Times and 1 Wall Street Journal bestseller The Speed of Trust an entirely new perspective on things that are hiding in plain sight for all sales professionals Well done Kevin Fancey Senior Vice President of Sales Ricoh Canada Inc By combining the power of relationships with timing what Elias and Shanto call Trigger Events the authors present a powerful sales strategy Keith Ferrazzi 1 NYT Bestselling author of Who s Got Your Back and Never Eat Alone Elias and Shanto have brought referrals into the 21st Century showing you how to capitalize on the key moments that will bring you success in a busy fast paced world This is a must read Ivan Misner NY Times Bestselling author and Founder of BNI and the Referral Institute

Seeking Chances Emanuele Bardone, 2011-03-16 One of the most distinguishing abilities that human beings display is the ability of turning almost everything into a clue to make a problem affordable in relation to what one knows and most of all to what one does not know That is what characterizes humans as chance seekers A poor pattern of reasoning and even our ignorance may help us make a decision and eventually solve a problem This is the rationale of biased rationality However not everything leads us always to a good decision Some people are not satisfied with weak arguments or it is just so strategies They want something better This second attitude points to a different form of rationality that takes advantage of the idea of distributed cognition Basically human beings improve their survival strategies by building cognitive niches capable of delivering potentially ever more symptomatic information It is through various manipulations of the environment that we gain new and more reliable chances which can be used to de bias our rationality Through the laborious activity of cognitive niche construction we come up with situations in which we are better afforded by our environment and thus biases or fallacies cease to be appealing Spatial Search Gunther Maier,2012-12-06 Two areas have fascinated me for a long time One is the micro economic theory of consumer behavior the other one the role of space in economic processes Usually the two don t go together very well In more advanced versions of microeconomic consumer theory its economic actor may face uncertainty have to allocate resources over time or have to take into ac count the characteristics of products but rarely deals with space He she inhabits a spaceless point economy Regional Science on the other hand describes and analyzes the spatial structure and development of the econ omy but either ignores individual decision making altogether or treats it in a rather simplistic way In this book I try to bring together these two areas of interest of mine I do this by use of the microeconomic concept of search and placing it in an explicit spatial context The result in my opinion is a theoretical concept with fascinating implications a broad set of potential implications and numerous interesting research questions After reading this book where I layout the basic idea of spatial search describe its elements and discuss some of its implications I hope the reader will share this opinion There are still plenty of unanswered research questions in this part of economic theory Hopefully this book will stimulate more work along these lines Role Exit in Prison Officers Sarah Nixon,Darren Woodward,2024-12-30 Exploring why prison officers leave His Majesty s Prison and Probation Service HMPPS and the processes and trajectories involved in returning to civilian life this book examines the reasons that prison officers want to leave HMPPS and how they transition back to civvy street As well as presenting qualitative data from interviews with ex prison officers the authors also draw analytically on their insider positionality to offer insights on the lived experience of prison officers both in the role and on their subsequent departure from the service In doing so they identify the rewards and challenges of working in a prison environment while using Ebaugh s 1988 four stage model of role exit as a theoretical framework to help understand the process of leaving the prison service Among the issues addressed are the impact of austerity the Voluntary Early Departure Scheme the decline in transmission of knowledge jail craft to new recruits high staff turnover increased violence and the impact of COVID 19 These are counterbalanced by an exposition of what ex prison officers recall positively about their time in service such as loyalty support solidarity and pride in the uniform and helping prisoners with their custodial lives The authors also put forward practical recommendations for ways in which HMPPS could encourage prison officers to stay in post for longer Providing authentic insights into the role of ex prison officers this book is ideal reading for students and academics of criminology penology criminal justice sociology and criminal psychology It will also be of interest to criminal justice practitioners and organisations such as Unlocked Graduates the Howard League for Penal Reform and the Prison Reform Trust Caught by Surprise United States. solving techniques in Computer Science and Operations Research and usually constitutes an important component of most intelligent problem solving systems The search algorithms considered in this book can be classified into the category of branch and bound Branch and bound is a general problem solving paradigm and is one of the best techniques for optimally solving computation intensive problems such as scheduling and planning The main search algorithms considered include best first search depth first branch and bound iterative deepening recursive best first search and space bounded best first search Best first search and depth first branch and bound are very well known and have been used extensively in Computer Science and Operations Research One important feature of depth first branch and bound is that it only requires space this is linear in the maximal search depth making it very often a favorable search algorithm over best first search in practice Iterative deepening and recursive best first search are the other two linear space search algorithms Iterative deepening is an important algorithm in Artificial Intelligence and plays an irreplaceable role in building a real time game playing program
