and beyond The contributors provide new insight on the timing of interregional interactions technologies of bead production and patterns of trade and exchange using glass beads as a window to the past This volume will be a key reference for glass researchers archaeologists and any scholars interested in material culture and exchange it provides a wide range of case studies in the investigation and interpretation of glass bead composition production and exchange since ancient times

The Oxford Handbook of Maritime Archaeology Alexis Catsambis, Ben Ford, Donny L. Hamilton, 2011-04-01 The Oxford Handbook of Maritime Archaeology is a comprehensive survey of the field as seen through the eyes of nearly fifty scholars at a time when maritime archaeology has established itself as a mature branch of archaeology This volume draws on many of the distinct and universal aspects of maritime archaeology bringing them together under four main themes the research process ships and shipwrecks maritime and nautical culture and issues of preservation and management The first section of the book deals with the best practices for locating documenting excavating and analyzing submerged sites This methodological foundation is followed by a sample of shipwreck studies from around the world as scholars trace the regional development of ships and seafaring Chosen to balance the traditional core regions of maritime archaeology with important but lesser studied areas it aims at offering an international account of the study of submerged sites Reflecting the growing number of scholars who study past maritime cultures but not shipwrecks the third section of the book addresses various aspects of the maritime landscape and ethnography above and below the water The final chapters then approach maritime archaeology in a broader context moving beyond archaeological sites to discuss the archaeological record in general within legal preservation and management frameworks Taken together these individual and original articles provide a valuable resource that summarizes the current state of the field of maritime archaeology and offers insight into the future of this established and growing discipline

Fieldwork in Humanities Education in Singapore Teddy Y.H. Sim, Hwee Hwang Sim, 2021-02-20 This book addresses the topic of humanities education fieldwork using the Singapore context as its primary focus It explores how the thought processes behind and techniques of various humanities and social sciences subjects can be applied to fieldwork in a variety of school and training settings In addition it discusses how humanities students and educators could stand to benefit from utilizing fieldwork techniques and skills used in archaeology and anthropology beyond undergraduates majoring in that discipline Finally the adoption of multidisciplinary approaches in fieldwork incorporating history geography literature and social studies demonstrate how these subjects can collaborate together in actual case studies to facilitate participants learning in the field

A View from the Highlands Mai Lin Tjoa-Bonatz, 2019-11-07 This book analyses the rise of the settlement system in the heartland of the Minangkabau region in the highlands of West Sumatra Indonesia It explores the regional settlement pattern arising from Adityavarman s highland interregnum c 1347 75 and provides the first attempt to place the archaeological remains and the landscape of Tanah Datar a fertile plain in the highlands of West Sumatra in a cultural historic synthesis The core of this research consisted of excavations at Bukit Gombak and Bukit Kincir Bukit Gombak was a central place in Adityavarman's kingdom and provides evidence of the organization and material development of this political entity. Surveys uncovered other settlements that could be examined in relation to each other and to sites from earlier and later periods and used to sketch out the settlement history of Tanah Datar from prehistoric times to the colonial period. The book consists of detailed studies of metal ceramics and glass finds by laboratory-based specialists as well as careful descriptions of stone, clay and other finds.

Archaeology of East Asian Shipbuilding

Jun Kimura, 2016-04-12 North American Society for Oceanic History John Lyman Book Award in Naval and Maritime Reference Works and Published Primary Sources Honorable Mention. In this innovative study Jun Kimura integrates historical data with archaeological findings to examine a wide array of eleventh through nineteenth century ships from China, Korea and Japan. Chinese junks and Japanese sailing ships were known throughout the world and this work illustrates why their innovative designs have survived the centuries. Kimura presents an extensive dataset of excavated coastal and oceangoing ships that traveled the Yellow Sea, the East China Sea and the South China Sea. Three detailed case studies include the Shinan and Quanzhou wrecks and the Takashima underwater site. Using travel documents, cargo manifests, iconographic paintings and other descriptive resources as well as the archaeological evidence of hull components, wooden timbers and iron remains, Kimura sheds new light on East Asian shipbuilding traditions.

Bujangga Manik Alexander Joseph

West, 2025-05-26 Bujangga Manik is a narrative poem in Old Sundanese which opens a window onto the world of late 15th century maritime Southeast Asia. The poem describes the spiritual development of a young man from Pakacilan in what is now West Java as he walks and sails across and around Java and Bali, culminating with his death in a mountainside hermitage and ascension to heaven. This volume is an exemplary edition of Bujangga Manik, complete with a revised transliteration, a new English translation, detailed descriptions of the manuscript script and language, and an extensive commentary on the poem's contents from its setting and characters to its descriptions of ocean-going ships, houses, furniture, perfumes and much else.

Transformative Jars Anna Grasskamp, Anne Gerritsen, 2022-12-01 The term jar refers to any man-made shape with the capacity to enclose something. Few objects are as universal and multi-functional as a jar, regardless of whether they contain food or drink, matter or a void, life-giving medicine or the ashes of the deceased. As ubiquitous as they may seem, such containers, storage vessels and urns are, as this book demonstrates, highly significant cultural and historical artefacts that mediate between content and environment, exterior worlds and interior enclosures, local and global, this worldly and otherworldly realms. The contributors to this volume understand jars not only as household utensils or evidence of human civilizations but also as artefacts in their own right. Asian jars are culturally and aesthetically defined, crafted goods and as objects charged with spiritual meanings and ritual significance. Transformative Jars situates Asian jars in a global context and focuses on relationships between the filling, emptying and re-filling of jars with a variety of contents and meanings through time and throughout space. Transformative Jars brings together an interdisciplinary team of scholars with backgrounds in curating art history and anthropology to offer perspectives that go beyond archaeological approaches with detailed analyses of a broad range of objects By looking at jars as things in the hands of makers users and collectors this book presents these objects as agents of change in cultures of craftsmanship and consumption
