Stone Lands Fiona Robertson, 2025-06-19 There's a real sense of peace and magic in this beautiful book. Daisy Buchanan Utterly endearing Dr James Canton. A fantastic book for weird walkers and megalith obsessives alike. Weird Walk: Journeying across Britain from West Penwith and Avebury to the Lake District and Orkney. Stone Lands uncovers the magic and rich history of our incredible prehistoric standing stones. It conveys the delight that lies in tracking them down as well as the solace these ancient places offer in times of darkness. A few months after discovering that her beloved husband Stephen had incurable cancer, Fiona Robertson began to write this book. A long-time megalith enthusiast, she found the ancient stones resonated with her more profoundly than ever as she faced the prospect of losing him. Set upright thousands of years ago, the megaliths are symbols of endurance and survival, standing in contrast to our ephemeral human lives. Infused with folklore, legend, and mystery, they enchant the landscape and bring magic to our modern world. This enthralling memoir is woven delicately around great grief but is ultimately about embracing life, joy, and ancient wonder, a luminous reminder of what it means to exist on this earth. Stone Lands is beautifully illustrated inside with stunning black and white line drawings by the illustrator and printmaker Philip Harris. Find out more about his work www.philipharrisillustration.com. A reminder that the ancient stones can be sources of reassurance and solidity even in our times of greatest upheaval and loss. 3 & The Emerald Stone of Irene Vinod Raman Nair, 2021-10-21 A legend for many a bedtime story for a child, but the Occult Stone that Empress Irene gifted Harun al Rashid during his conquest of Byzantium in 782 AD, the stone with the light of fortune referred to in history as Noor e Abbasid, lies deep buried at an ancient unearthed desert city, Al Rafika. With every common man pushing Al Rafika as one of the stories from the Scheherazade's Arabian Nights, the legend reaches a flashpoint when 3 high-profile assassinations sweep the world. The only common link between the killings was a glittering golden arrow found near them. The Order of the Nine Angels, a dangerous neo-Nazi Satanic Organization, has set itself in the quest of the stone to accomplish its greatest dream: The New World Order. As the dark horses of terror start riding across the world, an adventurer, a historian, and a spy come together to unearth a deadly macabre of events. Battling the Berbers of Tunisia to the cryptic and perilous Caucasus Mountains, through the necropolis of Turkey to the mystics of the Tigris, and then finally to Al Rafika, the 3 follow the deadly trail, unraveling the marvels of the glorious Islamic Caliphate to stop the dark lord Nergal and his mission of a GLOBAL RAGNAROK. THE ADVENTURE BEGINS

Inventing Africa Robin Derricourt, 2011-03-04 Inventing Africa is a critical account of narratives which have selectively interpreted and misinterpreted the continent's deep past. Writers have created alluring images of lost cities, vast prehistoric migrations, and golden ages of past civilisations. Debates continue on the African origins of humankind, the contributions of ancient Egypt to the world, and Africa's importance to global history. Images of Africa simplifying a complex and diverse continent have existed from ancient Mediterranean worlds, slave trading nations, and colonial powers to today's political elites, ecotourists, and aid givers. Robin Derricourt draws on his background as publisher and practitioner in archaeology and history to explore the limits and the dangers of simplifications arguing as with Said's concept of Orientalism that ambitious ideas can delude or oppress as well as inform. Defending Africa against some of the grand narratives that have been imposed upon its peoples. Inventing Africa will spark new debates in the history of Africa and of archaeology.

Stone Age Spear and Arrow Points of California and the Great Basin Noel D. Justice, 2002-05-23 Noel Justice adds another regional guide to his series of important reference works that survey, describe, and categorize the projectile point and cutting tools used in prehistory by Native American peoples. This volume addresses the region of California and the Great Basin. Written for archaeologists and amateur collectors alike, the book describes over 50 types of stone arrowhead and spear points according to period, culture, and region. With the knowledge of someone trained to fashion projectile points with techniques used by the Indians, Justice describes how the points were made, used, and re-sharpened. His detailed drawings illustrate the way the Indians shaped their tools, what styles were peculiar to which regions, and how the various types can best be identified. There are hundreds of drawings organized by type cluster and other identifying characteristics. The book also includes distribution maps and color plates that will further aid the researcher or collector in identifying specific periods, cultures, and projectile types.
