Autonomous Bidding Agents Michael P. Wellman, Amy Greenwald, Peter Stone, 2007 E commerce increasingly provides opportunities for autonomous bidding agents computer programs that bid in electronic markets without direct human intervention Automated bidding strategies for an auction of a single good with a known valuation are fairly straightforward designing strategies for simultaneous auctions with interdependent valuations is a more complex undertaking This book presents algorithmic advances and strategy ideas within an integrated bidding agent architecture that have emerged from recent work in this fast growing area of research in academia and industry The authors analyze several novel bidding approaches that developed from the Trading Agent Competition TAC held annually since 2000 The benchmark challenge for competing agents to buy and sell multiple goods with interdependent valuations in simultaneous auctions of different types encourages competitors to apply innovative techniques to a common task The book traces the evolution of TAC and follows selected agents from conception through several competitions presenting and analyzing detailed algorithms developed for autonomous bidding

Autonomous Bidding Agents provides the first integrated treatment of methods in this rapidly developing domain of AI The authors who introduced TAC and created some of its most successful agents offer both an overview of current research and new results Michael P Wellman is Professor of Computer Science and Engineering and member of the Artificial Intelligence Laboratory at the University of Michigan Ann Arbor Amy Greenwald is Assistant Professor of Computer Science at Brown University Peter Stone is Assistant Professor of Computer Sciences Alfred P Sloan Research Fellow and Director of the Learning Agents Group at the University of Texas Austin He is the recipient of the International Joint Conference on Artificial Intelligence IJCAI 2007 Computers and Thought Award

Schaller,2019-07-15 The livable city the creative city and more recently the pop up city have become pervasive monikers that identify a new type of urbanism that has sprung up globally produced and managed by the business improvement district and known colloquially by its acronym BID With this case study Susanna F Schaller draws on more than fifteen years of research to present a direct focused engagement with both the planning history that has shaped Washington D C s segregated landscape and the intricacies of everyday life politics and planning practice as they relate to BIDs Schaller offers a critical unpacking of the BID ethos which draws on the language of economic liberalism individual choice civic engagement localism and grassroots development to portray itself as color blind democratic and equitable Schaller reveals the contradictions embedded in the BID model For the last thirty years BID advocates have engaged in effective and persuasive storytelling as a result many policy makers and planners perpetuate the BID narrative without examining the institution and the inequities it has wrought as BID urbanism has oiled the urban gentrification machine Schaller sheds light on these oversights thus the area of algorithms rely on beautiful ideas for tackling computational tasks more efficiently The problems solved are not restricted to arithmetic tasks in a narrow sense but often relate to exciting questions of nonmathematical flavor such as How can I find the exit out of a maze How can I partition a treasure map so that the treasure can only be found if all parts of the map are recombined How should I plan my trip to minimize cost Solving these challenging problems requires logical reasoning geometric and combinatorial imagination and last but not least creativity the skills needed for the design and analysis of algorithms In this book we present some of the most beautiful algorithmic ideas in 41 articles written in colloquial nontechnical language Most of the articles arose out of an initiative among German language universities to communicate the fascination of algorithms and computer science to high school students The book can be understood without any prior knowledge of algorithms and computing and it will be an enlightening and fun read for students and interested adults
