Modern Kongo Prophets Religion In A Plural Society:

Modern Kongo Prophets Wyatt MacGaffey, 1995 Borders and Healers Tracy J. Luedke, Harry G. West, 2006 In southeast Africa the power to heal is often associated with crossing borders whether literal or metaphorical This wide ranging volume reveals that healers whose power depends on the ability to broker therapeutic resources also contribute to the construction of the borders they transgress While addressing diverse healing practices such as herbalism razor blade vaccination spirit possession prophetic healing missionary health clinics and traumatic storytelling the nine lively and provocative essays in Borders and Healers explore the creativity and resilience of the region s healers and those they heal in a world shaped by economic stagnation declining state commitments to health care and the AIDS pandemic This important book contributes to understandings of the ways in which healing practices in southeast Africa mediate divides between the wealthy and the impoverished the traditional and the modern the local and the global The Palgrave Handbook of Christianity in Africa from Apostolic Times to the Present Andrew Eugene Barnes, Toyin Falola, 2024-03-07 This comprehensive Handbook provides chapter length surveys of the history of Christian missions and Christian churches on the African continent since the time of Christ Africa is rapidly becoming the most Christianized region of the world While common narratives about Christianity tend to present Christianity as a set of ideas and beliefs imposed on Africa from the outside such narratives hold little meaning for African Christians or for those seeking to understand Christianity in Africa as an indigenous faith The aim of the Handbook is to propose a set of scholarly starting points for a new set of narratives The chapters collected here communicate an idea of Christianity as it has been embraced among African peoples at particular historical moments It therefore grants voice to the various strands of African Christianity on their own terms and offers scholarly study of what these voices teach us about how the world s most adhered to religion is practiced and understood on the continent of Africa Europe as the Other Judith Becker, Brian Stanley, 2013-12-11 There has been much academic debate over recent years on Europe defining itself over against the Other This volume asks from the opposite perspective What views did non Europeans hold of European Christianity In this way the volume turns the agency of definition over to non Europeans Over the last centuries the contacts between Europeans and non Europeans have been diverse and complex Non Europeans encountered Europeans as colonialists traders missionaries and travellers Most of those Europeans were Christians or were perceived as Christians Therefore in terms of religion Europe was often identified with Christianity Europeans thus also conveyed a certain image of Christianity to non European countries At the same time non Europeans increasingly travelled to Europe and experienced a kind of Christianity that often did not conform to the picture they had formed earlier Their descriptions of European Christianity ranged from sympathetic acceptance to harsh criticism The contributions in this volume reveal the breadth of these opinions They also show that there is no clear line of division between insiders and outsiders but that Europeans could sometimes perceive themselves as being outsiders in their own culture while non Europeans could adopt insider perspectives Furthermore from these encounters new religious and cultural expressions could emerge

African Christian God-talk George F. Mahdis and Millenarians William F. Tucker,2008-01-07 Mahdis and Millenarians is a discussion of Shiite groups in eighth and ninth century Iraq and Iran whose ideas reflected a mixture of indigenous non Muslim religious teachings and practices in Iraq in the early centuries of Islamic rule and demonstrates the fluidity of religious boundaries of this period Particular attention is given to the millenarian expectations and the revolutionary political activities of these sects Specifically the author s intention is to define the term millenarian to explain how these groups reflect that definition and to show how they consequently need to be seen in a much larger context than Shiite or even simply Muslim history The author concentrates therefore on the historical sociological role of these movements The central thesis of the study is that they were the first revolutionary chiliastic groups in Islamic history and combined with the later influence of some of their doctrines contributed to the tactics and teachings of a number of subsequent Shiite or quasi Shiite sectarian groups

Wolaitta Evangelists E. Paul Balisky,2009-09-01 This study presents the religious dynamics of the Wolaitta Kale Heywet Church in southern Ethiopia from 1937 to 1975 On the basis of detailed research from within southern Ethiopia E Paul Balisky demonstrates that the indigenous extension of the Wolaitta Christian movement into southern Ethiopia through the instrumentality of her evangelists helped Wolaitta regain her own religious center and subsequent identity after centuries of various forms of colonialism and imperialism Wolaitta Evangelists broadens one's understanding of how an imported model of Christianity provided religious answers to the ideals of a particular Ethiopian society and continues to motivate her members to evangelize The evangelists who went to people of similar culture and worldview were successful in effecting social change To ethnic groups who had moved beyond their former primal religions and to those of disparate culture the evangelists were those who scattered the seed and impacted the religious social economic and political life of southern Ethiopia Wolaitta Evangelists tells the story of how missionary activity played a role in Wolaitta once again becoming a people

Black Critics and Kings Andrew Apter, 1992-04-15 How can we account for the power of ritual This is the guiding question of Black Critics and Kings which examines how Yoruba forms of ritual and knowledge shape politics history and resistance against the state Focusing on deep knowledge in Yoruba cosmology as an interpretive space for configuring difference Andrew Apter analyzes ritual empowerment as an essentially critical practice one that revises authoritative discourses of space time gender and sovereignty to promote political and even violent change Documenting the development of a Yoruba kingdom from its nineteenth century genesis to Nigeria's 1983 elections and subsequent military coup Apter identifies the central role of ritual in reconfiguring power relations both internally and in relation to wider political arenas What emerges is an ethnography of an interpretive vision that has broadened the horizons of local knowledge to embrace Christianity colonialism class formation and the contemporary Nigerian state In this capacity Yoruba's worship remains a critical site of response to hegemonic interventions With sustained theoretical argument and empirical rigor Apter answers critical anthropologists who interrogate the possibility of ethnography He reveals how an indigenous hermeneutics of power is put into ritual practice with multiple voices self reflexive awareness and concrete political results Black Critics and Kings eloquently illustrates the ethnographic value of listening to the voice of the other with implications extending beyond anthropology to engage leading debates in black critical theory

The Delectable Negro Vincent Woodard, Dwight McBride, Justin A Joyce, E. Patrick Johnson, 2014-06-27 A groundbreaking study of the connections between homoeroticism cannibalism and cultures of consumption in American literature and US slave culture Scholars of US and transatlantic slavery have largely ignored or dismissed accusations that Black Americans were cannibalized Vincent Woodard takes the enslaved person's claims of human consumption seriously focusing on both the literal starvation of the slave and the tropes of cannibalism on the part of the slaveholder and further draws attention to the ways in which Blacks experienced their consumption as a fundamentally homoerotic occurrence The Delectable Negro explores these connections between homoeroticism cannibalism and cultures of consumption in the context of American literature and US slave culture Utilizing many staples of African American literature and culture such as the slave narratives of Olaudah Equiano Harriet Jacobs and Frederick Douglass as well as other less circulated materials like

James L Smith's slave narrative runaway slave advertisements and numerous articles from Black newspapers published in the nineteenth century Woodard traces the racial assumptions political aspirations gender codes and philosophical frameworks that dictated both European and white American arousal towards Black males and hunger for Black male flesh Woodard uses these texts to unpack how slaves struggled not only against social consumption but also against endemic mechanisms of starvation and hunger designed to break them He concludes with an examination of the controversial chain gang oral sex scene in Toni Morrison's Beloved suggesting that even at the end of the twentieth and beginning of the twenty first century we are still at a loss for language with which to describe Black male hunger within a plantation culture of consumption Praise for The Delectable Negro Winner of the 2015 LGBT Studies Award presented by the Lambda Literary Foundation A bold and brilliant book Carla L Peterson author of Black Gotham: A Family History of African Americans in Nineteenth Century New York City With unflinching clarity The Delectable Negro exposes and examines the pervasive cultural fantasies that have rendered the enslaved black body into a consumable object from the eighteenth century to the present Its powerful insights will continue to generate new lines of important inquiry for years to come American Historical Review

Popular Voices in Latin American Catholicism Daniel H. Levine, 2014-07-14 Throughout Latin America observers and activists have found in religion a promise of deep and long lasting democratization But for religion to change culture and politics religion itself must change Such change is not only a matter of doctrine ritual or institutional arrangements but also arises out of the needs values and ideas of average believers Combining rich interviews and community studies in Venezuela and Colombia with analysis of broad ideological and institutional transformations Daniel Levine examines how religious and cultural change begins and what gives it substance and lasting impact The author focuses on the creation of self confident popular groups among hitherto isolated and dispirited individuals Once silent voices come to light as peasants and urban barrio dwellers reflect on their upbringing and community on poverty and opportunity on faith prayer and the Bible and on institutions like state school and church Levine also interviews priests sisters and pastoral agents and explains how their efforts shape the links between popular groups and the larger society The result is a clear understanding of how relations among social and cultural levels are maintained and transformed how programs are implemented why they succeed or fail and how change appears both to elites and to ordinary people Originally published in 1992 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
