Modern Poverty Peter van der Werff,1992 Why Does Kerala Not Engage In Productive Investment Although It Is Rich In Natural Resources And Human Skills The Author Seeks To Answer The Question The Eastern Frontier S Rubber Sector Has Been Analysed Exposing Entrepreneurial Climate Full Of Delays Shortages Political Deals And Mistrust Profits Are Sought After Thorough Low Rate Short Term Investments These Quickconomics Predominate Over Productive Strategies That Could Create New Employment As The Major Problem Of Unemployment Remains Unsolved

Environmental Movements in Asia Arne Kalland, Gerard Persoon, 2013-10-31 This volume paints a general picture of the environmental situation in Asia backing it up with several case studies Two major points are made in this general picture The first is that environmental campaigns in Asia tend to have a local focus they react to very concrete problems in the immediate neighbourhood and as such usually people are engaged in a cause for practical rather than idealistic reasons Such can be seen in case studies from the volume dealing with campaigns against logging and tree plantations tourist facilities and factories and in support or defence of nature reserves This pattern is in marked contrast to the profile of the most successful Western movements in terms of fund raising at least for whom the focus is on perceived problems in distant parts of the world The second point is evidence in several of the case studies in the volume namely that environmental campaigns cannot be understood in terms of environmental issues alone Rather they should be regarded as a form of cultural critique and frequently are a form of political resistance in situations where open political action is too risky
