The Idea of Modern Jewish Culture Eliezer Schweid, 2008 The vast majority of intellectual religious and national developments in modern Judaism revolve around the central idea of Jewish culture This book is the first synoptic view of these developments that organizes and relates them from this vantage point The first Jewish modernization movements perceived culture as the defining trait of the outside alien social environment to which Jewry had to adapt To be cultured was to be modern European as opposed to medieval ghetto Jewish In short order however the Jewish religious legacy was redefined retrospectively as a historical culture with fateful consequences for the conception of Judaism as a humanly and not only divinely mandated regime The conception of Judaism as culture took two main forms an integrative vernacular Jewish culture that developed in tandem with the integration of Jews into the various nations of western central Europe and America and a national Hebrew culture which though open to the inputs of modern European society sought to develop a revitalized Jewish national identity that ultimately found expression in the revival of the Jewish homeland and the State of Israel eighteenth century Berlin to the shelves of a Jewish bookstore in twentieth century Los Angeles The literary world described in Modern Jewish Literatures is demarcated chronologically by the Enlightenment the Haskalah and the French Revolution on one end and the fiftieth anniversary of the State of Israel on the other The particular terms of the encounter between a Jewish past and present for modern Jews has varied greatly by continent country or village by language and by social standing among other things What unites the subjects of these studies is not a common ethnic religious or cultural history but rather a shared endeavor to use literary production and writing in general as the laboratory in which to explore and represent Jewish experience in the modern world
