Modern Languages Learning And Teaching In An Intercultural Field:

Modern Languages Alison Phipps, Mike Gonzalez, 2004-04-07 This is an important book A very important book It is important because it both challenges traditional understandings of language teaching and learning in universities and rejects new understandings which only devalue the potential power of language learning This is not however merely a critique The authors offer a compelling alternative and do so in a language and style which mirror the alternative proposed The authors illustrate their ideas through snapshots of classroom practices which help to build up a picture of what is meant Such illustrations are invaluable Teaching in Higher Education Every so often a book comes along filled with so much wisdom critical insight and sheer humanity that it takes one's breath away Modern Languages is such a book Reclaiming language as both a site of struggle and a crucial sphere of politics Alison Phipps and Mike Gonzalez make it clear that matters of language lie at the heart of any viable pedagogy in which democracy matters But not a language's drained of critical possibilities passion power or imagination but language as the context and medium in which meaning is produced affective investments made and experiences are given legitimacy Any educator parent student or citizen of the world who cares about democracy pedagogy and the crucial role of modern languages creating the conditions for agency politics and yes hope should read this book Professor Henry Giroux Waterbury Chair Penn State University USA I expect it will become a much thumbed handbook for teachers in search of inspiration and I am sure it will be a catalyst to further debate and exploration But I suspect it may also become a turning point for thinking about modern languages This book exudes life and hope It shows a future where languages can thrive because they are an integral and indispensable part of what it means to be human It is an exhilarating prospect to help to bring that future closer Professor Michael Kelly Director Subject Centre for Languages Linguistics and Area Studies University of Southampton Modern Languages is argumentative in the best sense it is intellectually ambitious and is making a bold and brave argument of its own The story is exciting and offers a radical way of reconceiving teaching and learning in languages It is written with evident passion and conviction and it seeks to reach out to an audience The authors come across as committed and even as brilliant teachers This is a book for its age but yet may have a long shelf life It has made me think about modern languages and language teaching and learning in quite new ways Professor Ronald Barnett Institute of Education University of London This book pushes the traditional field of Modern Languages into new challenges and it crosses intradisciplinary borders between different languages and cultures It is intrinsically about languaging and about being intercultural The authors argue that languages are a social justice issue give voice to language users in general and to language students in particular and engage into powerful erudite reflexive and critical insights This book portrays language and culture education as a passionate intelligent and committed undertaking In sum it is essential and stimulating reading for those Language and Culture educators teaching in Modern Language Departments from universities all over the world who dare Dr Manuela Guilherme Researcher Center for Social Studies

Universidade de Coimbra This accessible book aims to challenge and stimulate all those engaged with teaching modern languages in higher education It is not a how to book rather it engages with the complex often paradoxical position of modern languages today and offers arguments for and illustrations of the ways in which teachers of modern languages can position themselves critically in that rapidly changing context It works with the concepts of languaging and being intercultural which arise from a rigorous examination of research findings a challenging critique of current models of work within the discipline and a reflection on existing teaching practices Beginning with an examination of the crisis in modern languages in the U K and North America the authors draw on data and descriptions of learning experiences in the field and position themselves critically within the debates Key problems for teachers and learners are identified and elaborated through examples of critical incidents which point to generic as well as specific issues and solutions in teaching languages in higher education The Teaching Learning in the Humanities series edited by Ellie Chambers and Jan Parker is for beginning and experienced lecturers It deals with all aspects of teaching individual arts and humanities subjects in higher education Experienced teachers offer authoritative suggestions on how to become critically reflective about discipline specific practices

Learning the Arts of Linguistic Survival Alison Phipps, 2006-11-10 In this ground breaking contribution to the study of tourism and languages Alison Phipps examines what happens when tourists learn to speak other languages From ordering a coffee to following directions she argues for a new perception of the relationship between tourism and languages from one based on the acquisition of basic functional skills to one which sustains and even strengthens intercultural dialogue The twelve chapters comprising this book tell stories of the experience of learning and speaking tourist languages Drawing on a range of disciplines Alison Phipps takes the reader on a journey through risk way finding mistakes laughter conversations and the imagination She provides rich descriptions of the world of language learning which has remained invisible to mainstream studies of language education existing as it does on the margins of educational life She shows how tourism is shaped by the learning experiences of everyday life Languages she argues passionately fundamentally change the nature of perception dwelling and relationships to other people and the world This book will be essential reading for all those interested in tourism studies and in modern languages education It is a timely study coming at time of crisis in languages as English exerts its power as a world language and as a dominant language of tourism Learning the Arts of Linguistic Survival Languaging Tourism Life will also be of interest to anthropologists linguists geographers sociologists and those studying education

Making Sense of Teaching in Difficult Times Penny Jane Burke, Suellen Shay, 2017-10-02 Thinking about teaching in educational terms has become increasingly difficult because of the conceptions of higher education that predominate in both policy and public debate Framing the benefits of higher education simply as an economic good poses particular difficulties for making educational sense of teaching Moreover the assumptions about social mobility usefulness and the economic advantages of higher education upon which these conceptions are based can no longer be taken for granted The chapters in this book all wrestle with understandings of education and teaching experiences in changing global national and institutional contexts They explore questions of difference and privilege the social transformation of teaching through transforming teachers contestations of global citizenship and interculturality learning and sensibilities of self in the world the relationship between programme content and student decision making divergent conceptions of learning in international education and subject centred approaches to embodied teaching The book considers the value of disciplinary tools of analysis in addressing contextual challenges in developing societies connections between pedagogies autonomy and intercultural classrooms and ways of countering the marketization of higher education through online teaching communities This book was originally published as a special issue of Teaching in Higher Education Multilingual Online Academic Collaborations as Resistance Giovanna Fassetta, Nazmi Al-Masri, Alison Phipps, 2020-08-07 This book details online academic collaborations between universities in Europe the USA and Palestine The chapters recount the challenges and successes of online collaborations which promote academic connections and conversations with the Gaza Strip despite a continuing blockade imposed on Gaza since 2007 and forge relationships between individuals institutions and cultures The chapters examine from different perspectives what happens when languages and the internet facilitate encounters and the fundamental importance this has as a form of defiance and of resistance to the physical confinement experienced by Palestinian academics students and the general population of Gaza They highlight the limitations of multilingual and intercultural encounters when they are deprived of the sensory proximity of face to face situations and what is lost in the translation of languages practices and experiences from the real to the virtual world This book is open access under a CC BY NC ND licence A Handbook of Integration with Refugees Esa Aldegheri, Dan Fisher, Alison Phipps, 2025-07-24 This Handbook brings together the viewpoints of academics practitioners artists and people seeking refuge in Scotland to explore the global learnings that can be gained from this context The book engages with the challenge of supporting integration as multi directional processes within a broader setting in which forced migration is often criminalised Situating its analysis of integration in Scotland the book combines chapters based in theory which explore issues ranging from the concept of integration to law borders and integration policy with creative and practical responses to these issues The book offers hopeful alternatives to current realities of forced migration and a compelling challenge to dominant narratives related to refuge and integration It will be of interest to practitioners policymakers and scholars working with refugees and asylum seekers around the world This book is open access under a CC BY ND licence A Handbook for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education Stephanie Marshall, Heather Fry, Steve Ketteridge, 2014-08-21 This entirely new edition of a very successful book focuses on developing professional academic skills for supporting and supervising student learning and effective teaching It is built on the premise that the roles of those who teach in higher education are complex and multi faceted A Handbook for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education is sensitive to the competing demands of teaching research scholarship and academic management The new edition reflects and responds to the rapidly changing context of higher education and to current understanding of how to best support student learning Drawing together a large number of expert authors it continues to feature extensive use of case studies that show how successful teachers have implemented these ideas It includes key topics such as student engagement and motivation internationalisation employability inclusive strategies for teaching effective use of technology and issues relating to postgraduate students and student retention Part 1 explores a number of aspects of the context of UK higher education that affect the education of students looking at the drivers of institutional behaviours and how to achieve success as a university teacher Part 2 examines learning teaching and supervising in higher education and includes chapters on working with diversity encouraging independent learning and learning gain Part 3 considers approaches to teaching and learning in different disciplines covering a full range including arts and humanities social sciences experimental sciences through to medicine and dentistry Written to support the excellence in teaching and learning design required to bring about student learning of the highest quality this will be essential reading for all new lecturers particularly anyone taking an accredited course in teaching and learning in higher education as well as those experienced lecturers who wish to improve their teaching practice Those working in adult learning and educational development will also find the book to be a particularly useful resource In addition it will appeal to staff who support learning and teaching in various other roles

Teaching Music Performance in Higher Education Helen Julia Minors, Stefan Östersjö, Gilvano Dalagna, Jorge Salgado Correia, 2024-05-27

Higher Music Performance Education as taught and learned in universities and conservatoires in Europe is undergoing transformation Since the nineteenth century the master apprentice pedagogical model has dominated creating a learning environment that emphasises the development of technical skills rather than critical and creative faculties This book contributes to the renewal of this field by being the first to address the potential of artistic research in developing student centred approaches and greater student autonomy This potential is demonstrated in chapters illustrating artistic research projects that are embedded within higher music education courses across Europe with examples ranging from instrumental tuition and ensemble work to the development of professional employability skills and inclusive practices Bringing together diverse and experienced voices working within Higher Music Education but often also as professional performers this edited collection pairs critical reflection with artistic insight to present new approaches to curricula for teaching interpretation and performance It calls for greater collaboration between Higher Education and professional music institutions to create closer bonds with music industries and thereby improve students career opportunities Teaching Music Performance in Higher Education will appeal to scholars performers teachers but also students whose interests centre on innovative practices in conservatoires and music departments

Representations of the World in Language Textbooks Karen Risager, 2018-01-08 This book presents a new and comprehensive framework for the analysis of representations of culture society and the world in textbooks for foreign and second language learning The framework is transferable to other kinds of learning materials and to other subjects The framework distinguishes between five approaches national studies citizenship education studies cultural studies postcolonial studies and transnational studies In a series of concrete analyses the book illustrates how one can describe and uncover representations of the world in textbooks for English German French Spanish Danish and Esperanto Each analysis is accompanied by suggestions of possible supplements and changes The book points to the need for language learning materials to deal seriously with knowledge about the world including its diversities and problems
