Race, Language, and Subjectivation Liesa

Rühlmann, 2023-10-28 Many school students in Germany are plurilingual and use German and further languages in their daily lives. This use is differently approached and valued. Not only languages spoken but race too plays a role in how language use is addressed in schools. Interviews that were conducted and analyzed with a Grounded Theory approach show that subject positions assigned to students concerning plurilingualism shape how they reflect on experiences in school from a retrospective focus. By turning to a raciolinguistic perspective and drawing on subjectivation theory, the terms used to signify dominantly found re-positionings are raciolinguistic norm and raciolinguistic Other. The results highlight the necessity of focusing in more detail on how listening positionalities shape language use in society and in schools specifically.

Affectivity and Race Rikke Andreassen, Kathrine Vitus, 2016-03-09 This book presents new empirical studies of social difference in the Nordic welfare states in order to advance novel theoretical perspectives on the everyday practices and macro politics of race and gender in multi-ethnic societies. With attention to the specific political and cultural landscapes of the Nordic countries, Affectivity and Race draws on a variety of sources including television programmes, news media, fictional literature, interviews, ethnographic observations, teaching curricula, and policy documents to explore the ways in which ideas about affectivity and emotion afford new insights into the experience of racial difference and the unfolding of political discourses on race in various social spheres. Organised around the themes of the politicisation of race through affect, the way that race produces affect and the affective experience of race, this interdisciplinary collection sheds light on the role of feelings in the formation of subjectivities, how race and whiteness are affectively circulated in public life and the ways in which emotions contribute to regimes of inclusion and exclusion. As such, it will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in sociology, anthropology, media, literary and cultural studies, race and ethnicity, and Nordic studies.

Race, Ethnicity, and Leisure Monika Stodolska, 2013-09-04 Race, Ethnicity and Leisure: Perspectives on Research Theory and Practice provides an overview of the current theories and practices related to minority leisure and reviews numerous issues related to these diverse groups, leisure including needs and motivations, constraints, and discrimination. World-renowned researchers synthesize research on race and ethnicity, explain how demographics will affect leisure behavior in the 21st century, and explain the leisure behavior of minorities.

Race, Racism and the Geography Curriculum John Morgan, David Lambert, 2023-03-23 Changes in the nature of knowledge production plus rapid social and cultural change have meant that the curriculum question—what is to be taught and by whom—whose knowledge has been hotly contested. The question of what to teach has become more and more controversial. This book asks what is an appropriate curriculum response to the acute renewed interest in issues of race and racism. How does a school subject like geography respond? The struggle over the school curriculum has frequently been portrayed as being between educational traditionalists and progressives. This book suggests a way out of this impasse Drawing upon and extending insights from social realism it explores what a Future 3 geography curriculum might look like one that recognizes the importance of the academic discipline as a source of curriculum making but at the same time avoids geographical knowledge becoming set in stone The book focuses very sharply on issues of race and racism enabling teachers to engage in curriculum making in geography that is racially literate The Foreword is written by Julian Agyeman a former geography teacher in the UK and now Professor of Urban and Environmental Policy and Planning at Tufts University USA
