Abstract. Writing a research report is something that must be done for every student in the university. That is why the students must have competence in academic writing. For both English and Non-English students, academic writing for research report is one of the most difficult assignments undertaken by the students at university. This study focused on the students' context on academic writing in the class to write a research report. The method used in this study was a survey research in a small class of English and Non-English classrooms. The survey was asking some questions in the written form. The findings showed that they face linguistic problems with unfamiliar styles in English version. Besides linguistics problem, they also do not understand how to create research report as a process of academic writing that is consists of an introduction, review of related literature, methodology, findings and discussion, and conclusion. Pedagogically, teaching academic writing effectively in any university classroom needs a lot of practice.

1 Introduction

In education and learning, one of the most important abilities is writing. It is acknowledged as one of the most crucial abilities for students in higher education [1]. As part of their curriculum and to communicate with professionals in their lecture, the students need to write articles, critiques, reviews, and argumentation processes [2]. In this case, an academic writing becomes the most arduous tasks for English and Non-English students in the classroom [3–8]. Moreover, understanding genres makes it challenging for the students [5, 6, 9].

In writing a report, the students are required to have a skill to write effectively and meaningfully based on the context of writing e.g. a research report. Besides, they are also use writing to express their thoughts, ideas, and feelings. As a result, to have successful written communication in their subjects, the learners must acquire the writing abilities [10].
