New Genetics, New Social Formations Peter Glasner, Paul Atkinson, Helen Greenslade, 2006-12-15 New genetic technologies cut across a range of public regulatory domains and private lifeworlds often appearing to generate an institutional void in response to the complex challenges they pose As a result a number of new social formations are being developed to legitimate public engagement and avoid the perceived democratic deficit that may result Papers in this volume discuss a variety of these manifestations in a global context including genetic data banks committees of inquiry non governmental organisations NGOs national research laboratories These institutions across both health and agriculture are explored in such diverse locations as Amazonia China Finland Israel the UK and the USA This volume exhibits a clear thematic coherence around the impact of the new genetics and their associated technologies on new social formations and the case studies included have a significant international focus showing a balance between theoretical and empirical approaches in this rapidly changing field This innovative new volume will be of interest to postgraduates and professionals in the fields of sociology social anthropology science and technology studies and environmental studies Handbook of Risk and Crisis Communication Robert L. Heath, H. Dan O'Hair, 2020-10-28 The Handbook of Risk and Crisis Communication explores the scope and purpose of risk and its counterpart crisis to facilitate the understanding of these issues from conceptual and strategic perspectives Recognizing that risk is a central feature of our daily lives found in relationships organizations governments the environment and a wide variety of interactions contributors to this volume explore such questions as What is likely to happen to whom and with what consequences To what extent can science and vigilance prevent or mitigate negative outcomes and What obligation do some segments of local national and global populations have to help other segments manage risks shedding light on the issues in the quest for definitive answers The Handbook offers a broad approach to the study of risk and crisis as joint concerns Chapters explore the reach of crisis and risk communication define and examine key constructs and parse the contexts of these vital areas As a whole the volume presents a comprehensive array of studies that highlight the standard principles and theories on both topics serving as the largest effort to date focused on engaging risk communication discussions in a comprehensive manner Now available in paperback the Handbook of Risk and Crisis Communication can be readily used in graduate coursework and individual research programs With perspectives from psychology sociology anthropology political science economics and communication the Handbook provides vital insights for all disciplines studying risk and is required reading for scholars and researchers investigating risk and crisis in various contexts Government response to the Royal Commission on Genetic Modification New Zealand. A model for communication about biotechnology Bev France,John Gilbert,2006-01-01 This book incorporates two major themes into a model for communication about biotechnology The first is that of a communicating community defined as a relatively coherent social group engaging in communication within itself As biotechnologists do not constitute a unitary group this book refers to biotechnology communities Similarly the broad notion of the public is considered to be inadequate and the notion of distinct public communities is used The members of each community are considered to have a view of biotechnology made up of their understandings of the nature of science of biotechnology understandings of the key concepts and models used in biotechnology perceptions of the nature of risk and beliefs and attitudes about biotechnology The second major theme is that of search space This is the intersection in a virtual arena of the components of the views of two communities Where there are elements that are in common to the two communication in terms of them is possible Where there is no commonality the degrees of understanding reached must be used to construct a mutual understanding that may evolve into an agreement

Intellectual Property and Biotechnology Matthew Rimmer, 2008-01-01 Dr Rimmer's book is a marvellous introduction to a crucial topic of our time He writes engagingly provocatively and always with good humour A highly technical and complex area of law has been reduced to clear descriptions and searching analysis Truly this is an important book on an essential topic that will help define the ethics of a future that includes nothing less than the future of our species From the foreword by the Hon Justice Michael Kirby AC CMG the High Court of Australia the author has done an excellent job by explaining the subject in an open and accessible manner This book is a timely and very thought provoking analysis of patent law and biotechnology The book is a unique theoretical contribution to the controversial public debate over commercialization of biological inventions there is an extensive bibliography a valuable resource for further reading The book will be of prime interest to lawyers and patent attorneys scientists and researchers business managers and technology transfer specialists Journal of Intellectual Property Rights Rimmer's book is highly recommended for anyone interested in the issues and debate related to biological inventions regardless of which side the reader is on Stefan M Miller Journal of Commercial Biotechnology this book gives an excellent account of the most celebrated biotechnology cases from three continents and for this alone is to be thoroughly recommended David Rogers European Intellectual Property Review Rimmer has put a great deal of thought and effort into this series of chapters For those looking at how to reform direct and develop laws in relation to biotechnology this book is brimming with ideas suggestions and recommendations of what to do next Rebecca Halford Harrison Chartered Institute of Patent Attorneys an excellent introduction to a wide range of legal thinking in an increasingly controversial and relevant area to humankind Sharon Givoni Australian Intellectual Property Law Bulletin Rimmer's new book is a timely and very thought provoking analysis of patent law and biotechnology and asks a very serious question can a 19th century patent system adequately deal with a 21st century industry Kate McDonald Australian Life Scientist This book documents and evaluates the dramatic expansion of intellectual property law to accommodate various forms of biotechnology from micro organisms plants and animals to human genes and stem cells It makes a unique theoretical contribution to the controversial public debate over the commercialization of biological inventions The author also considers the contradictions between the Supreme Court of Canada rulings in respect of the Harvard oncomouse and genetically modified canola He explores law policy and practice in both Australia and New Zealand in respect to gene patents and non coding DNA This study charts the rebellion against the European Union Biotechnology Directive particularly in respect of Myriad Genetics BRCA1 and BRCA2 patents and stem cell patent applications The book also considers whether patent law will accommodate frontier technologies such as bioinformatics haplotype mapping proteomics pharmacogenomics and nanotechnology Intellectual Property and Biotechnology will be of prime interest to lawyers and patent attorneys scientists and researchers business managers and technology transfer specialists

Genetically Modified Organisms in Crop Production and Their Effects on the Environment Kakoli Ghosh,Paul C. Jepson,2006-01-01 The Food and Agriculture Organization FAO hosted an Expert Consultation on Genetically Modified Organisms in Crop Production and Their Effects on the Environment Methodologies for Monitoring and the Way Ahead from 18 to 20 January in Rome The main objective of the consultation was to review the scientific basis for and procedures to establish effective post release monitoring of genetically modified GM crops and develop guidelines to strengthen member countries capacities to design and carry out monitoring programmes The consultation was a follow up to the earlier FAO Expert Consultation on Environmental Effects of Genetically Modified Crops which had recommended the environmental effects of GM crops be assessed on a case by case basis and emphasized the need to monitor possible medium to long term environmental impacts The main outputs of the meeting were a review of the scientific criteria and procedures strategies that could form the basis of efficient monitoring programmes recommendations for both scientists managing the monitoring process and policy makers

Religion and Biopolitics Mirjam Weiberg-Salzmann,Ulrich Willems,2019-05-31 Given the profound moral ethical controversies regarding the use of new biotechnologies in medical research and treatment such as embryonic research and cloning this book sheds new light on the role of religious organizations and actors in influencing the bio political debates and decision making processes Further it analyzes the ways in which religious traditions and actors formulate their bio ethical positions and which rationales they use to validate their positions The book offers a range of case studies on fourteen Western democracies highlighting the bio ethical and political debates over human stem cell research therapeutic and reproductive cloning and pre implantation genetic diagnosis The contributing authors illustrate the ways in which national political landscapes and actors from diverse and often fragmented moral communities with widely varying moral stances premises and commitments formulate their bio ethical positions and seek to influence political decisions

Xenotransplantation and Risk Sara Fovargue,2011-11-17 Some developing biotechnologies challenge accepted legal and ethical norms because of the risks they pose Xenotransplantation cross species transplantation may prolong life but may also harm the xeno recipient and the public due to its potential to transmit infectious diseases These trans boundary diseases emphasise the global nature of advances in health care and highlight the difficulties of identifying monitoring and regulating such risks and thereby protecting individual and public health Xenotransplantation raises questions about how uncertainty and risk are understood and accepted and exposes tensions between private benefit and public health Where public health is at risk a precautionary approach informed by the harm principle supports prioritising the latter but the issues raised by genetically engineered solid organ xenotransplants have not as yet been sufficiently discussed This must occur prior to their clinical introduction because of the necessary changes to accepted norms which are needed to appropriately safeguard individual and public health Altering Nature B. A. Lustig, B. A. Brody, Gerald P. McKenny, 2008-11-01 B Andrew Lustig Baruch A Brody and Gerald P McKenny In this second volume of the Altering Nature project we situate specific religious and policy discussions of four broad areas of biotechnology within the context of our interdisciplinary research on concepts of nature and the natural in the first volume Altering Nature Concepts of Nature and the Natural in Biotechnology Debates In the first volume we invited five groups of scholars to explore the diverse conceptions of nature and the natural that shape moral judgments about human alterations of nature as especially exemplified by recent developments in biotechnology A careful reading of such developments reveals that assessments of them whether positive or negative are often informed by different conceptual interpretations of nature and the natural with differing implications for judgments about the appropriateness of particular alterations of nature These varying interpretations of nature and the natural often result from the distinctive perspectives that characterize various scholarly disciplines Therefore in an effort to explore the variety of meanings that attend discussions of the concepts of nature and the natural the contributors to the first volume of Altering Nature addressed those concepts from five different disciplinary vantages A first group of scholars analyzed a range of religious and spiritual perspectives on concepts of nature and the natural Their research highlighted the thematic historical and methodological touchstones in those traditions that shape their perspectives on nature Genetically Modified Mosquitoes for Malaria Control Christophe Boete, 2006-07-15 Despite a century of research and attempts to control one of the deadliest foes of mankind the malaria situation remains a major public health problem Obviously biological explanations the resistance of parasites and mosquitoes against available drugs and insecticides respectively are often given but they remain partial and incomplete Indeed
