Reporting Science The Case Of Aggression:

Reporting Science Jeffrey H. Goldstein, 2024-08-08 Originally published in 1986 this is a nonscientific book about science It is concerned with the relationships among social science journalism public information and public policy Reporting Science The Case of Aggression explores some of the obstacles and suggestions for overcoming them to the mutual exchange of information when that information concerns research and theory on a sensitive issue in this instance violence Among the issues explored are What is the social scientist's responsibility if any for the public dissemination of his or her work How accurate are mass media reports of scientific research on such socially sensitive issues as violence and the effects of mass media portrayals of sex and aggression How do science journalists select particular pieces of research for study How can interested scientists more effectively present their work to the public What are the ethical issues involved in greater scientist-journalist cooperation

Communicating Science Eileen Scanlon, 1999 Communicating Science is an ideal introduction for anyone who wants to learn about the relationship between science the media and the public Television Violence and Public Policy James Hamilton, 2000-08-16 Discusses why and how we should rate the content of television programs for violence A Cognitive Psychology of Mass Communication Fred W. Sanborn, Richard Jackson Harris, 2013-07-18 A

Cognitive Psychology of Mass Communication is the go to text for any course that adopts a cognitive and psychological approach to the study of mass communication In its sixth edition it continues its examination of how our experiences with media affect the way we acquire knowledge about the world and how this knowledge influences our attitudes and behavior Using theories from psychology and communication along with reviews of the most up to date research this text covers a diversity of media and media issues ranging from commonly discussed topics such as politics sex and violence to lesser studied topics such as sports music emotion and prosocial media This sixth edition offers chapter outlines and recommended readings lists to further assist readability and accessibility of concepts and a new companion website that includes recommended readings even more real world examples and activities PowerPoint presentations sample syllabi and an instructor guide Communicating Uncertainty Sharon M. Friedman, Sharon Dunwoody, Carol L. Rogers, 2012-10-12

Exploring the interactions that swirl around scientific uncertainty and its coverage by the mass media this volume breaks new ground by looking at these issues from three different perspectives that of communication scholars who have studied uncertainty in a number of ways that of science journalists who have covered these issues and that of scientists who have been actively involved in researching uncertain science and talking to reporters about it In particular Communicating Uncertainty examines how well the mass media convey to the public the complexities ambiguities and controversies that are part of scientific uncertainty In addition to its new approach to scientific uncertainty and mass media interactions this book distinguishes itself in the quality of work it assembles by some of the best known science communication scholars in the world This volume continues the exploration of interactions between scientists and journalists that the three coeditors first documented in their highly successful volume Scientists and Journalists Reporting Science as News which was used for many years as a text in science journalism courses around the world

Science and the Media Massimiano Bucchi, 2014-03-20 In the days of global warming and BSE science is increasingly a public issue This book provides a theoretical framework which allows us to understand why and how scientists address the general public The author develops the argument that turning to the public is not simply a response to inaccurate reporting by journalists or to public curiosity nor a wish to gain recognition and additional funding Rather it is a tactic to which the scientific community are pushed by certain internal crisis situations Bucchi examines three cases of scientists turning to the public the cold fusion case the COBE Big Bang issue and Louis Pasteur's public demonstration of the anthrax vaccine a historical case of public science Finally Bucchi presents his unique model of communications between science and the public carried out through the media This is a thoughtful and wide ranging treatment of complex contemporary issues touching upon the history and sociology of science communication and media studies Bucchi's theories on scientific communication in the media are a valuable contribution to the current debate on this subject
