Television Stephen Hutchings, Vera Tolz, 2015-03-05 Russia one of the most ethno culturally diverse countries in the world provides a rich case study on how globalisation and associated international trends are disrupting and causing the radical rethinking of approaches to inter ethnic cohesion The book highlights the importance of television broadcasting in shaping national discourse and the place of ethno cultural diversity within it It argues that television's role here has been reinforced rather than diminished by the rise of new media technologies Through an analysis of a wide range of news and other television programmes the book shows how the covert meanings of discourse on a particular issue can diverge from the overt significance attributed to it just as the impact of that discourse may not conform with the original aims of the broadcasters The book discusses the tension between the imperative to maintain security through centralised government and overall national cohesion that Russia shares with other European states and the need to remain sensitive to and to accommodate the needs and perspectives of ethnic minorities and labour migrants It compares the increasingly isolationist popular ethnonationalism in Russia which harks back to old fashioned values with the similar rise of the Tea Party in the United States and the UK Independence Party in Britain Throughout this extremely rich well argued book complicates and challenges received wisdom on Russia's recent descent into authoritarianism It points to a regime struggling to negotiate the dilemmas it faces given its Soviet legacy of ethnic particularism weak civil society large native Muslim population and overbearing yet far from entirely effective state control of the media      Ethnic Media and Democracy John
