East European Diasporas, Migration, and Cosmopolitanism Ulrike Ziemer, Sean P. Roberts, 2013 Following the collapse of the communist regimes in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union there were considerable migration flows the migrations and subsequent diasporas often having special characteristics given the relative lack of migration in communist times and the climate of increasing nationalism which had the potential of working against multiculturalism This book explores these migrations and diasporas and examines the nature of the associated cosmopolitanism

Worlds Apart? A Postcolonial Reading of post-1945 East-Central European Culture Cristina Sandru, 2013-01-16 This study explores the relation of the Eastern European problematic to postcolonial critical practice interrogating the extent to which postcolonialism can help illuminate instances of imperial domination in non Third World contexts It argues that colonisation is to be understood principally as a condition of ideological domination that has engendered similar forms of literary and cultural resistance consequently it offers a comparative framework which enables a reading in differential contexts of texts that ostensibly have little in common but which on close examination reveal a shared imaginative space rhetoric and narrative agency The book consists of two interrelated parts Part one is a critical discussion of the ideologies cultural imaginaries and representational practices articulated in a diverse range of representative postcolonial and post 1945 East Central European texts these are shown to share despite dissimilar conditions of production uncannily related narrative modes and thematic emphases Part two is a comparative literature case study which discusses two authors whose work is both highly representative of the cultural formations discussed in the first part Milan Kundera and Salman Rushdie and at the same time highly controversial The chapters dedicated to Kundera's and Rushdie's work examine the cultural geography of their novels particularly in the writers use of memory and story telling to reconfigure history and personal identity in conditions of literal and metaphorical displacement While their novels thrive on ironic subversion and ambiguity they simultaneously gesture towards a redemptive space of the imagination transcending the constraints of both locality and history

The European Union and its Eastern Neighbours Elena Korosteleva, 2012-05-15 This book explores the EU's relations with its eastern neighbours Based on extensive original research including surveys focus groups a study of school essays and in depth interviews with key people in Belarus Ukraine Moldova Russia and in Brussels it assesses why the EU's initiatives have received limited legitimacy in the neighbourhood The European Neighbourhood Policy of 2004 and the subsequent Eastern Partnership of 2009 heralded a new form of relations with the EU's neighbours partnership based on joint ownership and shared values which would complement if not entirely replace the EU's traditional governance framework used for enlargement These initiatives have however received a mixed response from the EU's eastern neighbours The book shows how the key elements of partnership have been forged mainly by the EU rather than jointly and examines the idea and application of external governance and how this has been over prescriptive and confusing

New Europe's New Development Aid Balázs Szent-Iványi, Simon Lightfoot, 2015-04-17 This book examines the international development policies of five East Central European new EU member states the Czech Republic Hungary Poland Slovakia and Slovenia These countries turned from being aid recipients to donors after the turn of the millennium in the run up to EU accession in 2004 The book explains the evolution subsequent to EU accession and current state of foreign aid policies in the region and the reasons why these deviate from many of the internationally agreed best practices in development cooperation It argues that after the turn of the millennium a Global Consensus has emerged on how to make foreign aid more effective for development A comparison between the elements of the Global Consensus and the performance of the five countries reveals that while they have generally implemented little of these recommendations there are also emerging differences between the countries with the Czech Republic and Slovenia clearly aspiring to become globally responsible donors Building on the literatures on foreign policy analysis international socialization and interest group influence the book develops a model of foreign aid policy making in order to explain the general reluctance of the five countries in implementing international best practices and also the differences in their relative performance

The Economic Sources of Social Order Development in Post-socialist Eastern Europe Richard Connolly, 2013 Nearly twenty years after the collapse of socialism the countries of post socialist Eastern Europe have experienced divergent trajectories of political development This book looks at why this is the case based on the assumption that societies or social orders can be distinguished by the extent to which competitive tendencies contained within them economic political social and cultural are resolved according to open rule based processes The book explores which economic conditions allow for increased levels of political competition and it tests the hypothesis that the nature of a country's ties with the international economy and the level of competition within a country's economic system will shape the trajectory of political competition within that society. The book goes on to argue that after several decades of relative bloc autarky during the socialist period, the ongoing process of reintegration with the international economy across the post-socialist region has resulted in distinct patterns of structural economic development and that these patterns are of crucial importance in explaining the variation in social order type across the post-socialist region. By offering a more precise analysis of the causal mechanisms that link economic and political competition, the book makes a useful contribution to research on the different patterns of political behaviour that have been observed across the post-socialist region since the collapse of the socialist regimes.

Cinema, State Socialism and Society in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, 1917-1989 Sanja Bahun, John Haynes, 2014-07-25 This book presents a comprehensive re-examination of the cinemas of the Soviet Union and Central and Eastern Europe during the communist era. It argues that since the end of communism in these countries, film scholars are able to view these cinemas in a different way, no longer bound by an outlook relying on binary Cold War terms. With the opening of archives in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union, much more is known about these states and societies at the same time; the field has been reinvigorated by its opening up to more contemporary concepts, themes and approaches in film studies and adjacent disciplines. Taking stock of these developments, this book presents a rich, varied tapestry relating specific films to specific national and transnational circumstances rather than viewing them as a single monolithic Cold War Communist cinema.

Democracy and Myth in Russia and Eastern Europe Alexander Wöll, Harald Wydra, 2007-10-18 This book explores democracy and democratization in Eastern Europe, focusing on the influence of politically important literary and historical myths in pre-communist and communist Eastern Europe and Russia.
