Republic Of China Marching Toward The 21st Century:

The Republic of China Marching Toward the 21st Century, 1991 Marching Toward the 21st Century Taiwan, 1989 China's Communication of the Belt and Road Initiative Carolijn van Noort, 2021-08-19 This book examines how China's international political communication of the Belt and Road Initiative comprises narratives about infrastructure and the Silk Road. By carefully selecting infrastructure modalities and Silk Road representations, it is argued that China's aesthetic production of the Belt and Road Initiative advances China's image as an infrastructure and standards setting power, conjures up a historical continuation of friendly and cooperative relations, and forges China's identity as good neighbor, good friend, and good partner. Using a multiple case study approach, this book analyses China's communication of the Second Belt and Road Forum, the Alternative North-South Road in Kyrgyzstan, the Standard Gauge Railway in Kenya, and the China-Maldives Friendship Bridge. Detailed literary analyses of the Travels of Marco Polo and the Travels of Ibn Battuta further elucidate China's selective uses of history. Chapters highlight spatial, temporal, political, economic, technological, and perceptual modalities in infrastructure narratives and reveal the composition of Silk Road narratives contributing to key debates about Chinese discourse, media strategy, and infrastructure communication. China's Communication of the Belt and Road Initiative will appeal to students and scholars of politics, international relations, communication, and Asian studies globally. 中国走向二十一世纪, 1997 China's Economic Development, 1950-2014 Chu-yuan Cheng, 2014-09-26 China's Economic Development 1950-2014: Fundamental Changes and Long-Term Prospects is a comprehensive and up-to-date analysis of Chinese economic development from 1950-2014, focusing on current world-wide attention to the economic reform. Changing Schools for Changing Times Kerry J. Kennedy,2005 This book a statement of genuine concern on the state of the school curriculum in Hong Kong by a veteran educator forms a comprehensive account of current curriculum development implementation and interpretation Kennedy invites the reader to critically examine how local and global issues influence the way the Hong Kong curriculum has been constructed Against this theoretical background he maintains a clear practical focus on present policies of the educational authority and suggests a new curriculum in various fields This book sheds light on recent pressure for curriculum change and reform in Hong Kong offering fresh insights to those concerned with the state of education in both Hong Kong and cities around the world The Oxford Handbook of International Law and Development Ruth Buchanan,2024-02-15 The Oxford Handbook of International Law and Development is a unique overview of the field of international law and development examining how normative beliefs and assumptions around development are instantiated in law and critically examining disciplinary frameworks competing agendas legal actors and institutions and alternative futures Urban Mobilizations and New Media in Contemporary China Lisheng Dong,Hanspeter Kriesi,2016-03-09 Popular protests are on the rise in China However since protesters rely on existing channels of participation and on patronage by elite backers the state has been able to stymie attempts to generalize resistance and no large scale political movements have significantly challenged party rule Yet the Chinese state is not monolithic Decentralization has increased the power of local authorities creating space for policy innovations and opening up the political opportunity structure Popular protest in China particularly in urban realm not only benefits from the political fragmentation of the state but also from the political communications revolution The question of how and to what extent the internet can be used for mobilizing popular resistance in China is hotly debated The government virtual social organizations and individual netizens both cooperate and compete with each other on the web New media both increases the scope of the mobilizers and the mobilized thereby creating new social capital and provides the government with new means of social control thereby limiting the political impact of the growing social capital This volume is the first of its kind to assess the ways new media influence the mobilization of popular resistance and its possible effects in China today Edu-renaissance:

Notes From A Globetrotting Higher Educator Da-hsuan Feng, 2016-03-29 Born in New Delhi raised in Singapore and educated everywhere including Asia the United States and Europe Professor Feng Da Hsuan is the epitome of a man who has worn many hats in both the East and West From being the Vice President for Research and Economic Development of the University of Texas at Dallas Advisor to the Vice Chairperson of the United States Congressional Armed Services Committee and Senior Vice President of Global Strategy Development and Evaluation at National Tsing Hua University in Taiwan to his current position as the Director of Global Affairs and Special Advisor to Rector University of Macau Professor Feng's wealth of experience has complemented his inquisitive mind foresight and forward looking nature on education and its future evident in his speeches articles and reviews from the last decade and a half Edu renaissance Notes from a Globetrotting Higher Educator brings together 50 of these pieces and they cover a wide range of ever relevant topics such as the value of higher education in society the role Asian universities have in the world and hot topics like university ranking Professor Feng also shares his new ideas and insight on promising young universities and higher education in the 21st century One example is his emphasis on how the promotion of liberal arts and interdisciplinary approaches are the way forward for higher education institutions in the 21st century By relating these topics to countries such as Taiwan Korea India China the United States Israel and Russia this volume is ideal for readers who are part of a global community concerned about one of the most important issues in the world today education A Middle Class Without Democracy Jie Chen, 2013-03-19 What kind of role can the middle class play in potential democratization in such an undemocratic late developing country as China To answer this profound political as well as theoretical question Jie Chen explores attitudinal and behavioral orientation of China's new middle class to democracy and democratization Chen's work is based on a unique set of data collected from a probability sample survey and in depth interviews of residents in three major Chinese cities Beijing Chengdu and Xi'an each of which represents a distinct level of economic development in urban China in 2007 and 2008 The empirical findings derived from this data set confirm that 1 compared to other social classes particularly lower classes the new Chinese middle class especially those employed in the state apparatus tends to be more supportive of the current Party state but less supportive of democratic values and institutions 2 the new middle class's attitudes toward democracy may be accounted for by this class's close ideational and institutional ties with the state and its perceived socioeconomic wellbeing among other factors 3 the lack of support for democracy among the middle class tends to cause this social class to act in favor of the current state but in opposition to democratic changes The most important political implication is that while China's middle class is not likely to serve as the harbinger of democracy now its current attitudes toward democracy may change in the future Such a crucial shift in the middle class s orientation toward democracy can take place especially when its dependence on the Party state decreases and perception of its own social and economic statuses turns pessimistic The key theoretical implication from the findings suggests that the attitudinal and behavioral orientations of the middle class as a whole and as a part toward democratic change in late developing countries are contingent upon its relationship with the incumbent state and its perceived social economic wellbeing and the middle class s support for democracy in these countries is far from inevitable

Television in Post-Reform China Ying Zhu,2013-01-11 This book explores the political economic and cultural forces locally and globally that have shaped the evolution of Chinese primetime television dramas and the way that these dramas in turn have actively engaged in the major intellectual and policy debates concerning the path steps and speed of China s economic and political modernization during the post Deng Xiaoping era It intertwines the evolution of Chinese television drama particularly with the ascendance of the Chinese New Left that favors a recentralization of state authority and an alternative path towards China s modernization and China s current administration s call for building a harmonious society Two types of serial drama are highlighted in this regard the politically provocative dynasty drama and the culturally ambiguous domestic drama The book also provides cross cultural comparisons that parallel the textual and institutional strategies of transnational Chinese language TV dramas with dramas from the three leading centers of transnational television production the US Brazil and Mexico in Latin America and the Korean led East Asia region The comparison reveals creative connections while it also explores how the emergence of a Chinese cultural linguistic market together with other cultural linguistic markets complicates the power dynamics of global cultural flows

Japan's Sea Lane Security Euan Graham,2005-11-16 This is the first major English language study to explore the broad and longstanding connections between Japan s national security and the safety of its sea lanes Tracing issues from pre and post 1945 eras the book explores how Japan s concerns with sea lane protection have developed across such diverse fields as military strategy diplomacy trade policy energy security and law enforcement Drawing upon case study material and primary research including interviews with officials and security analysts the book presents a chronological analysis of Japan s sea lane security While Japan s security policies have recently undergone relatively rapid change a historical treatment of sea lane security issues reveals long term continuity in security policymakers perceptions and responses regarding Japan s defence and foreign policy Revealing a neglected but important aspect of Japan s military and economic security the book investigates why officials and analysts continue to portray the defence of Japan s sea lanes as a matter of life and death

Chinese International Students and Citizenship Xiudi Zhang, 2020-02-22 This book investigates how Chinese international students reconfigure their sense of themselves as citizens when they reflect on what Chinese citizenship means in the context of New Zealand Adopting a case study approach it develops a theory relating to the thoughts of Chinese international students the theory is based on the communities schools family and state relationships of both their past and their contemporary daily experiences It finds that the struggles of Chinese young people lie in between being individuals and submitting to the general will of the family state and guanxi a Chinese concept of interpersonal relationships The book argues that the Western literature on citizenship is not sufficient in helping us understand how it is viewed in the Chinese contexts It offers readers a picture of what citizenship means for Chinese young people and the role of citizenship education in Modern Chinese society and demonstrates that the Chinese young people studied re educated themselves on citizenship in a way that is unstable and emotional This book makes important contributions to the literature on Chinese students who are studying abroad by going beyond the well researched topics of academic and social experience to explore deeper understandings of each individual student s relationship to family and the state in China and how the study abroad experience has developed new understandings of individual s relationships to China and new possibilities for contributing to Chinese society on return

The Brink of 2036: Why There Must Be a War in the Asia-Pacific Dr. Strobe Driver, 2024-01-05 War and conflict never occur in a vacuum as there are always signallers and events that indicate and then dictate the onset of an upheaval This has been true of relatively minor conflicts such as the Japan Russo War of 1904 1905 the Vietnam War 1963 1975 the Afghanistan War 2001 ongoing and the major total wars of World War One 1914 1918 and World War Two 1939 1945 There is a new and emerging war that is about to happen and its epicentre will be in the Asia Pacific and more specifically the historic contemporary and emerging issues associated with China Taiwan tensions are a continuum and show no sign of abatement or downward moderation The signals are there and they consist of but are not limited to the historic baggage of China s ownership of Taiwan of this factor being rejected by consecutive governments of Taiwan China s increasing sclerotic irredentist demands and policies toward Taiwan the steadfastness of Taiwan's attempts at recognition as an independent cum sovereign entity other Asia Pacific and international actors attempting to intervene in the region and the uncertainties associated with who will help defend Taiwan All are signals Within them there is and remains a continuous rise in tensions of which and is held within the title of this book remains the tipping point of 2036 There are many reasons for this date to be used as a pivot point and they are explored in detail in the lead up to this date and whilst the outcome is due to current machinations not subsiding and will only continue to deteriorate the contention is and remains not whether a war will occur but when The magnitude of the war that will take place demands the inherent complexities be considered understood and explored in detail This book is a significant step in that direction
