Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me;
"Here he lies where he longed to be,
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill."

Robert Louis Stevenson

Prison every day for seventeen months for news of her son's fate. But from this limbo Akhmatova expresses and elevates the collective grief for all the thousands vanished under the regime and for those left behind to speculate about their loved ones' fates. Similarly Akhmatova wrote Poem without a Hero over a long period. It takes as its focus the transformation of Akhmatova's beloved city of St Petersburg historically a seat of art and culture into Leningrad. Taken together these works plumb the foremost themes for which Akhmatova is known and revered. When Ohio University Press published D M Thomas's translations in 1976 it was the first time they had appeared in English. Under Thomas's stewardship Akhmatova's words ring clear as a bell.

Requiem Paul B. Janeczko, 2013-08-06 Presents a collection of poetry inspired by the history of the people in the Terezin concentration camp during the holocaust.

"Mozart's Requiem" Andrea de Lys, 2025-05-30 Mozart's Requiem. In the shadow of farewell a song is spun an echo of Mozart embracing the soul a Requiem dancing where mortals run between light and sorrow a fate to console. Verses that whisper of life's fleeting grace a journey through love through pain through goodbyes chants that still hover in death's cold embrace yet hope though forsaken refuses to die. Each word is a note that lingers and calls like a choir that weeps in sacred despair and in their sorrow eternity stalls as music enfolds the dawn in its prayer. A poem that searches in silence so deep for answers that hide in the heart's devotion a tribute to souls that in echoes still weep a Requiem sung with eternal emotion.

Flip Requiem D. R. James, 2020 Poetry. In this deft and prescient collection D R James has both diagnosed our dizzy symptom and scratched out the vital prescription. Holistic poems that enact a rigorous mind's engagement with this tenuous age or what James calls with his wink light touch the more sober though no less precarious rest of our lives. Despite their modesty and in a voice that is comic molecularly honest and fern gentle these poems accomplish the grand task of embodying authentic compassion and in so doing lead the reader through the puzzled tongue of mourning into the rarefied empathetic that is line by line accessible to us all. Chris Dombrowski

SUMMER REQUIEM traces the immutable shifting of the seasons the relentless rhythms of a great world that both gifts and harms. Luminous resonant and profound these poems trace the dying days of summer the hour of rust when memory is haunted by loss and decay But in the silence that follows as the soul is cast adrift there is also reconciliation with the transience of all things the knowledge that there is a place changeable that will not betray Requiem. [Poems.] F.P. Humbert WOLFE, 1927
